FOREWORD

IN November of 1945 Dick Field, during a short visit in Boston, talked with several members of the Class regarding the Twentieth Reunion and the editing of a report. He was then, as he is at present, General Counsel to the Office of Price Administration and, therefore, was not in a position, either from the standpoint of available time or location, to do the work necessary. The writer therefore agreed to undertake this task.

At that time—it now appears in the dim past—there seemed to be ample time for the preparatory work, such as organizing groups in various cities, tracing the “lost” men, clipping Alumni Bulletins for the previous five years, and getting the questionnaires ready. An up-to-date mailing list of the class came from Lehman Hall accompanied by fifteen names that were “lost”—as well as the information that David Bailey and his office, who had rendered valuable assistance in the editorial, mailing, and clerical work in previous years, were not available owing to prior commitments. Then Bob MacFadden, returning from a crusade to augment the class treasury, forwarded some thirty unclaimed envelopes. “Notable progress”—if memory serves correctly, those were the words applied to candidates for the Master of Arts degree at Commencement twenty years ago—was made on the forty-odd men who apparently had disappeared, and the editor was joyful, ebullient, even self-satisfied. Then the questionnaires were mailed.

Since February 1, 1946, the editor's lot has been an increasingly unhappy one. The mailing company failed to enclose questionnaires in some fifty instances, more envelopes were returned “Moved, left no forwarding address,” and many disregarded all appeals to return their questionnaires. Looking ahead five years to the coming Twenty-Fifth Report and the problems that will confront our Secretary then, may the writer make the following plea to every member of the class: Send in the statistical information as soon as you receive the questionnaire. You will thereby eliminate fifty per cent of the work. Personal narratives can always be added or changed right up to the checking of the galley proofs. The amount of effort which goes into second, third and fourth appeals, telephone calls, and the preparation of lists consumes an inordinate amount of time.

But enough of complaints. As in previous reports, we have accepted the dates contained in the current questionnaires even though they are at variance with the ones in prior reports (except in one instance where it seemed wise to spare a classmate a certain amount of embarrassment). With very few exceptions the narratives have been printed as originally written. By the time the report is in your hands the material contained therein will have passed through a minimum of four hands so that errors should be extremely few.

At the class luncheons in Boston a number of the class offered assistance, but unfortunately this is pretty much of a one-man job and in many instances the proffered assistance could not be employed effectively. In Boston T. E. Jansen, R. M. P. Kennard, Dudley Merrill, J. L. Newell, Charles Platt, Jr., A. E. Reed, B. A. Riemer, and R. E. Smith were of great assistance in prodding the laggards. Bob MacFadden did a remarkable job in New York, reducing a list of seventy-eight from whom we had not heard on March 1 to less than seventeen at the time the report went to press; in Washington, R. H. Field assisted; in Chicago, B. N. Everett; in Philadelphia, S. B. Jones, Jr.; and on the West Coast, L. O. Combs. J. W. Lund, R. M. P. Kennard, Kennard Woodworth, and W. F. Homer, Jr., assisted with the editorial work. As this is written B. A. G. Thorndike has proofread seventy-nine of the one hundred and twenty galleys with the assistance of H. H. Soule and Richard Bancroft. There are others who have been helpful in individual cases and, last but not least, those who wrote the obituaries were extremely coöperative.

The preparation of copy for the printer could not have been accomplished without the great assistance of my wife who has read back with me substantially all of the questionnaires, this alone consuming many evenings in February and March. My secretary, Miss Lee Engstrom, has maintained the necessary records and has rendered invaluable assistance to me and, therefore, to the class. Assisting her in typing the copy for the printer were Miss Lois Turnbull and Miss Priscilla Hall, both of the staff of The First National Bank of Boston.

From a financial standpoint, the members of the class have been extremely coöperative. To date, contributions have totalled $2,756.81, and there undoubtedly will be a surplus to turn over to the class treasurer. Many thanks, therefore, to all of the class for eliminating this worry—within ten days after the questionnaires were mailed, there was never any question about covering the cost of the report.

There are no statistics regarding the number of children, marriages, etc., as it would be necessary for the members of the class to be much more prompt in their replies in order to have this included in the report. We hope, however, to have such a compilation made from the proofs and to enclose with the report a separate leaflet containing this information. An article in a recent Harvard Alumni Bulletin claimed that a study of five Harvard classes indicated that they were not reproducing enough males; in fact, the percentage was seventy per cent. (When we were in college the cry was that they averaged only seventy-five per cent of both sexes.) The activity of the stork in the last five years convinces the editor that the Class of 1926 will be found, by its twenty-fifth reunion, to have an amount of male children at least equal to the members of the class.

As Dan Bianchi was in the Navy until just before the report went to press, the supervision of the printing has been in the hands of his father, Mr. John Bianchi of The Merrymount Press. We are, therefore, sure that the finished product will equal the high standard set in the two previous reports.

In November Dick Field wrote:

“ . . . you have no idea how delighted I am that you are willing to undertake this job. I only hope that you will find it as satisfying as I did in working on the last two reports. I certainly found it well worth the time and effort. Seeking out ‘lost’ men is more fun than crossword puzzles, even assuming that you think crossword puzzles are fun.”

It has proved to be fully as satisfying as Dick suggested and well worth the time and effort. Unquestionably those of you who read all of the individual histories will derive the same satisfaction from the contributions of your classmates to the community, the state, and the nation whether it be as college president, world authority on nuclear physics, a soldier or sailor participating in engagements for which the Army and Navy thought we were too old in 1941-2, or just as a good citizen in the fields of law, medicine, and the varied pursuits indicated by this report. That this report is a worthwhile undertaking is best evidenced by the remark of an Oxford graduate on reading our 1941 Report when he said: “I rather wish we did something like this at Oxford.”

SCHEDULE II.

ASSETS

MARCH 1, 1946

Cash	$4,150.90
Due from 20th Reunion Committee	250.00
Premiums advanced	1,430.20
Maturing value 138 policies	47,500.00

Total	$86,427.01

Harvard Class of 1926

THE above schedules give a complete account of our Class finances since the last Report and require little comment. Three insurance policies have been paid and one policy has lapsed for non-payment of premiums. There are now 138 policies in force and it would be most helpful if all premiums could be carried by the policy-holders from here out.

Now as to our obligations in 1951, just five short years away. Our traditional unrestricted gift to the University is $100,000. The Twenty-Fifth Reunion and Report, due to increased costs against prewar, will run close to $55,000. Obviously, we must still raise approximately $60,000!

Let's look at the record of our past performance. Since 1926 only 423 members, or 55% of the Class, have made any contributions. This is a poor enough showing, but let's look a little further. Of this number, 134 members have contributed less than $25 over the past 20 years. On the other hand, 152 members or 20% of the Class, contributing over $200 apiece, have accounted for 84% of the total amount turned in to date!

Certainly, neither your Treasurer nor anyone else can tell you how much you should contribute. I have, however, been asked that question frequently of late, and I will answer it in two ways. First, the average maturing value of insurance policies carried in favor of the Class is $344. Secondly, if you had contributed $10 each year, the sum available in 1951 at 3% compounded interest would be $375.

I am sure you will all agree with me that the burden should be carried by a much larger proportion of the Class. If only 250 more members will assume the same share now being carried by 20% of the Class, we will have the funds in hand by 1951. In all seriousness and fairness, I directly appeal to those of you who have not contributed to date to assume your fair share over the five remaining years.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Five years ago found me enjoying Southern California strictly as advertised: Everything that wasn't perpetually sunny was either blonde or super-colossal. I was head of the Scenario Department for Universal Pictures Company, Inc., and so the San Fernando Valley was my home, at least from 8:30 to 6 p.m. each day.

Then in 1942 during January, February and March, I made unsuccessful efforts to obtain a commission in several specialized branches of the Army. My applications usually were terminated at the point where it was discovered that I was draftable. In April and May I made overtures to the Navy . . . and on the memorable 30th of June (with the hot breath of the Army on the back of my neck) I was sworn into the Naval Reserve as a full Lieutenant.

There followed by quaint coincidence a return for two months to the revered purlieu of the Harvard Yard. I found myself ordered to report to the first indoctrination class the Navy set up in Cambridge, commencing July 1st. I resided first in the top "deck" of Stoughton, and later the second "deck" of Holworthy, feeling comfortably sentimental in such familiar surroundings and very much like a 17-year locust that is one year too early. Due to our similar heights and the irrevocable proximity of A to B, I found myself directly behind Bob Barton in Company 1.

My subsequent activities took me first on an abortive assignment to the Bureau of Aeronautics, Washington, D. C., where I told my very first C.O. five minutes after meeting him that there had been a terrible mistake made. A few weeks later he was good enough to agree with me, and helped me get into the niche I really wanted. I went through the Air Combat Intelligence School at Quonset Point, R. I., in the 4th Class, graduating just before Christmas 1942. (Who was it who referred to Annapolis as "the poor man's Quonset"?) That was my last Christmas in this country till 1945.

My first ACI post was with Composite Squadron 22, then training at Creeds Field, south of Norfolk, prior to embarking on the first of the converted cruiser aircraft carriers, the Independence. I had a truly wonderful time with this squadron. For quite a while I was permitted to ride regularly as rear-gunner in an SBD and have enjoyed the thrill that only dive-bombing can provide. Later, when I was transferred from the Squadron to the Independence as ship's ACI Officer, I was still closely associated with my squadron. We took part in the Marcus Island raid of late August 1943 and in the 2-day Wake Island raid on October 6-7.

In this latter I had a chance to "see for myself," riding in as an observer in the belly of a TBF. I fired one token shot from the "stinger" and I think I may have hit the island. Little did the Japs know what they were bringing down upon themselves when they attacked Pearl Harbor.

The Independence next took part in the November 11th raid on Rabaul, where we had our first experience of being under prolonged enemy air attack. We were damned lucky, and the Japs very poor marksmen in that engagement. But we were not so lucky nine days later while supporting the occupation of the Gilberts. Twelve or fifteen Jap torpedo planes attacked us at dusk the 20th of November off Tarawa and one of them hit us squarely. We managed to retire to Funafuti and later to Pearl Harbor and San Francisco for repairs.

I sailed with the Independence on a second tour of duty in early June 1944 in time to take part in the support of the Palau occupation and those early pre-invasion air assaults we made against the Philippines in August and September. I was detached from my ship at Saipan on September 30th and flew back to Pearl where I was attached to the Staff of Commander Carrier Division Seven (then Admiral Matt Gardner) as his senior ACI Officer. At this time my extra half stripe came through and I was Lieut. Commander.

Our Staff had the good fortune of having the Enterprise for a flagship. Nothing too good can be said of this ship. It's an inspiration to serve on her. We took part in the support of the occupation of Luzon, which involved a sneak raid down into the South China Sea against Saigon, as well as sundry raids on Formosa, Okinawa and the southern Ryukus. This was in January 1945. The following month we were part of the first carrier task force raid on Tokyo, and later took the job of the damaged Saratoga and supported the occupation of Iwo Jima till the second week of March. I had a chance to fly ashore and see Iwo while things were still happening, and I can testify to the unbelievably difficult terrain the Marines had to fight over.

In the balance of March and April we took part in the softening up of Kyushu and southern Honshu, and later in the support of the Okinawa landings. This was when the going really was rugged. Kamikazes day in day out. The Big E was hit several times during this period, but always had the answer for limiting damage. We relieved the Franklin when she was severely hurt, and covered her withdrawal to Ulithi, at which time we had some of our own damage repaired. When we were hit the next time, the Staff left the Enterprise at Ulithi and returned to Pearl.

I grabbed a month's leave at this juncture, and was on an attack transport trying to catch up with my Staff and Admiral Ballentine on the Bon Homme Richard off Tokyo when the war ended. In September I had several highly scenic and interesting flights over the Tokyo part of Honshu, and some shore liberty for seeing the sights of Tokyo-Yokohama-Yokosuka.

We were sent back to Pearl on a CVE in early October, and I reached San Diego one day before Navy Day. By this time I had enough points for discharge, so I had my terminal leave in the East and was formally a civilian on December 16th. Replying specifically to the War Service query in the questionnaire, the foregoing record of service adds up to seven combat stars on the Pacific Area Ribbon, the Philippine Liberation Ribbon, the American Area Ribbon, and the Victory Ribbon.

I am now happily located as the Pacific Coast Representative of the J. Arthur Rank interests (British films). My only rehabilitation and reconversion problems: An adequate apartment and a new car . . . which makes me a member of a not-too-exclusive fraternity, with fellow-members in every hamlet.

Sorry to get so long-winded about this . . . but I had a damned good time the last 5 years and it's fun to reminisce.

DONALD TAYLOR ALLEN

Occupation: Underground Conduits—President and Treasurer.

Home Address: 8 Legion Rd., Weston, Mass.

Business Address: Allen Contracting Co., Inc., 10 Brookshire Rd., Worcester, Mass.

Married: Dorothy Strong, Dec. 21, 1929, Longmeadow, Mass.

Children: Judith Frances, Oct. 6, 1933; Louise Chase, Aug. 15, 1937.

The coming of the war in 1941 pretty well closed up the family construction business which my father and I were running. I went to work at that time at the Raytheon Manufacturing Company in Waltham which turned out many electronic devices for the Navy. At the end of the war the construction business began to pick up and as my father had died in the fall of 1944 I took over the management of the company and look forward to a very busy summer in our line. We have moved twice since the 1941 report and are very comfortably situated at present in Weston. This will last until sometime in June when we have to move again. This time it will be to Worcester. During the war

Harvard Class of 1926

I spent one or two evenings a week helping doctors examine draftees at the Newton City Hall. This was very interesting work and gave me a good idea as to the inside workings of a draft board.

JOHN WOODFORD ALLEN

Occupation: Insurance Broker.

Home Address: 9 Paradise Rd., Bronxville, N. Y.

Business Address: 150 William St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Catherine Ackermann, Sept. 22, 1927, Bronxville, N. Y.

Children: Timothy F., March 5, 1935; Brooks (daughter), Oct. 6, 1939.

Nothing exciting enough to report seems to have occurred during the last five years. I am still living in Bronxville, commuting to New York every day. For exercise and diversion, I play some golf, having joined St. Andrews last year, but my game is bad—just a hacker.

ROBERT GRAY ALLEN

Occupation: Manufacturing—General Sales Manager.

Home Address: Goshen Road, Newtown Square, Pa.

Business Address: Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia 42, Pa.

Married: Katharine Williamson, Jan. 17, 1925, Boston, Mass.

Children: Katharine Hancock, May 7, 1926; Robert Gray, Jr., July 29, 1931; Mary Williamson, Sept. 21, 1938.

War Service: Ordnance. Entered Major, July 7, 1942; terminated Lt. Col., Jan. 17, 1945; areas: Exec. Officer, Philadelphia Ordnance District; Commanding Officer, 17th Ordnance Battalion 2nd Army; Commanding Officer, South Sector Ordnance Group Mid-Pacific Command.

Since our Fifteenth Reunion, I was asked to take over the medium and light tank program on the Atlantic Seaboard for the U. S. Army Ordnance Department. This work I fulfilled for six months and in February, 1943, was made Executive Officer of the Philadelphia Ordnance District with rank of Lieutenant Colonel. In August, 1943, I was transferred to the field service as Commanding Officer of the 17th Ordnance Battalion at Camp Carson, Colorado, and later Tennessee Maneuvers. I was ordered to the Central Pacific with my Battalion on January 1, 1944; subsequently, I became Group Commander of three Ordnance Battalions in the Southern Sector of the Base Command. I was placed on the inactive list in January, 1945, and returned to civil life.

I left Pittsburgh and my previous position in April, 1945, to become General Manager of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Southwark

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Division. On November 1, 1945, I was appointed General Sales Manager of the Baldwin Locomotive Works and its subsidiaries.

There are no more children to report, but my eldest daughter deserted me on two fronts last summer and became engaged to a young Naval Officer, and even worse, a Yale man. I am still recovering from the shock.

DAVID BOYD ALTER, JR.

Occupation: Vice President and Trust Officer—First National Bank, Miami, Fla.

Home Address: 3890 Poinciana Ave., Coconut Grove, Miami 33, Fla.

Married: Alice C. Martin, Oct. 18, 1926, Alexandria, Va.

Child: David Boyd, 3d, Aug. 23, 1930.

President of Harvard Club of Miami, 1943 to date. Member, Citizens Board, University of Miami.

PAUL FREDERICK AUGUST ALTMANN

Home Address: 26 Adams St., Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

[The above is from the Secretary's records. Altmann did not return a questionnaire.]

FISHER AMES

Occupation: Attorney—Partner.

Home Address: 931 Northwest 15th St., Oklahoma City, Okla.

Business Address: Ames, Ames & Daugherty, 1122 First National Bldg., Oklahoma City, Okla.

Married: Jewell Turner, Nov. 5, 1934, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Children: Judith, Jan. 31, 1936; Sarah, Nov. 3, 1942.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieut., Aug. 1941; terminated Comdr., Sept. 1945.

OLIVER AMES

Occupation: Trustee.

Home Address: North Easton, Mass.

Business Address: 81 Ames Bldg., Boston, Mass.

Married: Ellen Poore Moseley, March 21, 1944, Virginia Beach, Va.

Child: Oliver, Jr., March 1, 1945.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieut., April 1941; terminated Comdr., Jan. 1946; American Theater, American Defense, Asiatic-Pacific, African-European; Purple Heart, Expert Pistol.

In April, 1941, I was commissioned Lieutenant A-V(T) USNR and reported to the Naval Air Station at Pensacola the following month for instruction. I was designated a Naval Aviator and in July reported to the Air Station at Jacksonville, Squadron VN 13-D7, where I became Engineering Officer and Chief Flight Instructor and later was made Assistant Operations Officer. In July of 1943 I was assigned to the USS Liscome Bay (CVE 56) as Assistant Air Officer and when the ship was sunk off Makin in the Gilberts the following November I was the senior surviving officer. My next assignment, in January, 1944, was as Air Officer aboard the USS Card (CVE 11), chasing submarines in the Atlantic, and in March I was transferred to the USS Core. In January, 1945, I became Commanding Officer of the Carrier Aircraft Service Unit, Atlantic City, New Jersey, and was placed on terminal leave in November. In January of this year, I was put on an inactive status.

BENJAMIN RUFUS ANDERSON

Occupation: Purchasing Agent.

Home Address: Plainfield, Ind.

Business Address: Indiana Boys' School, Plainfield, Ind.

Married: Marguerite Hallam, Oct. 20, 1923, La Grange, Ky.

Children: Mazo, Feb. 4, 1925; Judith, July 10, 1937.

PAUL ERNEST ANDERSON

Last Known Address: 2503 14th St., N.E., Washington, D. C. (Lost.)

[Efforts to trace Anderson at the above address and through his employer in 1941, United Mine Workers of America, were unavailing.]

WILBERT FRANK ANDERSON

Occupation: Chemical Manufacturing—Plant Manager.

Home Address: 38 Branford Rd., Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Business Address: Eimer and Amend, Edgewater, N. J.

Married: Erma A. Quenon, Nov. 11, 1933, Greenwich, Conn.

Children: Genevieve Rose, Feb. 6, 1936; Erma Quenon, Jan. 20, 1938.

JAMES ALVAN ANDREWS

Occupation: Finance—Manager, Municipal Bond Dept.

Home Address: 301 Orange Ave., Cranford, N. J.

Business Address: Donald MacKinnon and Co., 1775 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Married: Barbara Tompkins, 1929, Quito, Ecuador.

Children: Patricia, 1930; James Montgomery, 1935.

BURR TRACY ANSELL

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 107 W. Bradley Lane, Chevy Chase 15, Md.

Business Address: Ansell and Ansell, 712 Tower Bldg., Washington 5, D. C.

Married: Anna Dodge Sturgis, Sept. 12, 1931, Washington, D. C. (died April 15, 1932); Mary Elizabeth Waesche, Oct. 8, 1934, Baltimore, Md.

Children: Tracy, April 3, 1932; John Putnam, Nov. 5, 1935.

I have continued to practice law in Washington with the same firm with which I became associated upon graduation from law school and admission to the bar in 1929.

EDWARD CAMPBELL ASWELL

Occupation: Book Publishing—Editor-in-Chief.

Home Address: R. F. D. 1, Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

Business Address: Harper & Brothers, 49 E. 33d St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Mary Louise White, Jan. 1, 1935, Penllyn, Pa.

Children: Edward Duncan, Sept. 3, 1936; Mary Elizabeth, June 4, 1940.

In the last five years my principal interests have centered around my work as a book publisher and my avocations as the father of two very interesting children. During this period I have become the head of the Literary Department of Harper & Brothers, and also a director of the firm. I had a hand in establishing a unique philanthropic enterprise called The Eugene F. Saxton Memorial Trust, of which I have been a trustee since its founding. This organization has a considerable sum of money at its disposal which it dispenses in the form of fellowships, with outright grants of money (and no strings attached), to promising young writers who can produce evidence of literary talent and who need financial assistance to complete books definitely projected. Among the unexpected assortment of people to whom fellowships have been granted were a German refugee, a Chinese girl, a young Negro in Harlem, and a Connecticut cow tester.

My war record, if it can be called such, can be summarized under three headings:

First, in my citizen's capacity as a juror in Federal Court, I helped send a bunch of Nazi spies to prison in the first trial of the sort that occurred after Pearl Harbor. And, if anybody doubts that they were guilty as hell, I recommend that he read an article I wrote about the case in Harper's Magazine for June, 1942. (adv.)

Second, I served on a committee of publishers and literary critics who, under the Council on Books in Wartime, supervised the Editions for the Armed Services—pocket-sized books which were distributed in vast quantities, free, in all war theaters, by the Army and Navy.

Third, as an air-raid warden, I patrolled long stretches of country road, in all weathers, at dead of night, in a region where there was no objective of the slightest military value, and where the only excitement consisted in pacifying an aged couple who were convinced that Hitler's one purpose throughout the war was somehow to send a bomb across the ocean to crash on their little stuccoed cottage.

I guess that is all I have to say for myself, except that I notice, with the passage of years, that I am developing a set of rather strong preferences and prejudices. I grow increasingly intolerant of intolerance, increasingly skeptical of the kind of blindness that often masquerades as religion, increasingly dubious about the position of women in the modern world, and increasingly fond of quiet people who are sensitive and observant and like nothing better than to spend an evening in good talk.

Children: John Philip, Dec. 23, 1934; Richard Alan, Oct. 22, 1937.

Nothing particularly extraordinary has happened during the last five years in the life of yours truly—just the normal life of an ordinary citizen in a country at war—bought war bonds of course and did my bit as an air-raid warden. Like a good many of our class, I was just too old for combat service, as well as having a pre-Pearl Harbor family and being a chemist. No, I didn't even get in on the atomic bomb, although two of my men were taken from me to do the analytical work for American Cyanamid's assignment in the "Manhattan District Project." Thus, fame passed right by my door with only the briefest of nods.

My outside activities continue to center chiefly around the church, where I have just become Sunday School Superintendent. I am also

The past five years have witnessed little change in my established personal or business life. Whether the war passed me by or I passed it up is debatable. Unfortunately, circumstances did not permit any definite contribution on my part. As for some years past, my principal business activity concerns the mortgage loan problems of one of the oldest life insurance companies in the business. Except for the few war years, I have continued to travel about the country as much as ever, stopping briefly in the larger cities of the Middle West and Southwest. As I write this memorandum, I am sitting in the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco, where I arrived yesterday from Los Angeles on a trip destined to carry our mortgage investment activities to the Pacific Coast. The advent of 300 m.p.h. planes has at last brought that territory near enough for real convenient attention, and I look forward to periodic visits here with keenest anticipation. With this frequent traveling, I have been able to maintain my interest in playing golf courses around the country—without noticeable effect on my game. The lure of intriguing restaurants diminished during the crowded war times, but soon I shall be spending my evenings away from home trying to discover them again. With a continued interest in photography, which I am afforded many an opportunity to use on my travels, it would seem that my hobbies had been admirably selected to suit an itinerant life. At home I aim to squeeze in badminton and skiing during the winter in an apparently still successful aim to keep my weight at its college level. The burden of raising my family falls very largely on my wife under these circumstances. Before we meet for our twenty-fifth, I expect the eldest to be through his first year of college. Whether he will be the third generation at Harvard is now unknown. In the meantime, we shall continue to have fun together, as the whole family thoroughly enjoys the outdoors in particular and life in general.

Occupation: Finance—Member New York Stock Exchange.

Business Address: 65 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant, Apr. 15, 1942; terminated Lieutenant Commander, Oct. 16, 1944.

I was a member of the second class at Quonset Point, R. I. After graduation I received orders to Pearl Harbor and arrived there July 16, 1942. I was assigned to the Operations Department. On Feb. 14, 1943, I received orders to Johnston Island. Needless to say, this was not quite the Valentine I had been looking for. Transportation at that time to Johnston was very limited: one plane a week and one ship a month. It took one month to complete my orders. I remained at U. S. Naval Air Station, Johnston Island, slightly more than one year at which time I was relieved as Operations Officer, Intelligence Officer, Athletic Officer, and Movie Officer. I was then ordered to U. S. Naval Air Station, Puunene, Maui, T. H. The morning that I was to take over as Operations Officer I received orders to the Bureau of Aeronautics after 21 months in the Pacific. Three months of practically nothing to do in Washington caused me to request inactive duty. At that time a number of the older officers who had put in their time overseas were being granted requests of that sort and I was fortunate in being among them.

I became reestablished in business late in 1944.

BERNARD BANDLER

Occupation: Medicine—Psychiatrist.

Home Address: 157 Brattle St., Cambridge, Mass.

Business Address: 82 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Louise Silbert, July 13, 1942, Brookline, Mass.

Children: Kate, Sept. 18, 1933 (by previous marriage); Barry, Feb. 13, 1936 (by previous marriage); Susan, Oct. 13, 1943; Jane, Oct. 1, 1945.

The last five years were so completely dominated by the war that although I remained a civilian, most of my professional activities were in connection with it. I participated in the stepped-up program for psychiatry at Harvard Medical School, teaching at the Massachusetts General Hospital, and I worked at the Induction Center in Boston. For two years the major part of my time was devoted to the Psychiatry Clinic which is organized and run by the Boston Psychoanalytic Institute for the treatment of war neuroses.

My professional life at the present time is divided between hospital and academic work and private practice. My official positions are assistant psychiatrist at Harvard Medical School, assistant psychiatrist at the Massachusetts General Hospital, consulting psychiatrist at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, staff member of the Psychiatry Clinic and lecturer at the Boston Psychoanalytic Institute. Private practice is devoted largely to psychoanalysis although I work with a number of patients with briefer methods of psychotherapy.

The last few years I have been laboring over a book now nearing completion on the "Psychoneuroses in a General Hospital." Dr. Stanley Cobb and I have been struggling with the task and evaluating the results of treatment on the Psychiatric Ward of the Massachusetts General Hospital after a long term follow-up of one hundred patients. The hope is to arrive at methods of psychotherapy which will prove effective in the treatment of certain types of neuroses.

Prefaces to books, if not reports, usually conclude with a paragraph of appreciation of one's wife. Louise and I met when I was psychiatric resident at the Massachusetts General Hospital and our romance began when I discovered the non-professional virtues of the head psychiatric social worker. We have two delightful daughters and expect a third child in September whom we hope to enter for the class of 1964 at Harvard. For any who may be apprehensive over being stuck in the rut of middle age, I can strongly prescribe a crop of babies as a guarantee for keeping one's youth. We recently bought a house on Brattle Street which we are in the process of redoing and look forward to as the first example of Tudor modern.

BENJAMIN MAX BANKS

Occupation: Physician.

Home Address: 245 Wolcott Rd., Chestnut Hill, Mass.

Business Address: 416 Marlborough St., Boston, Mass. (temporary office).

Married: Alice Zack, Aug. 18, 1929, Boston, Mass.

Children: Joanne Ruth, Jan. 23, 1935; Peter Alan, March 28, 1936.

War Service: Army. Entered Major, March 17, 1941; terminated Colonel, April 3, 1946. Served as chief of medical service, Fort Banks, Mass.; chief of medical service, Schick General Hospital, Clinton, Iowa; chief of medical service, 142nd General Hospital, Calcutta, India.

The last class reunion found me already in military service, quite accustomed to tucking my necktie in my shirt below the second button. Subsequently I served quietly and unobtrusively in this country and abroad, subject to no greater dangers than flying frequently over hazardous terrain, including an ocean here and there, and exposure to the interesting assortment of tropical diseases that abound in the Far East. My only publication of interest during these years was a manual of boards for medical officers which gained well-deserved recognition when it was included in "New and Non-Official Remedies" as a soporific without peer. (Sufferers from insomnia please note.) Since return to civilian life, the problem of finding office space has thus far defied solution. With the advent of warmer weather, the possibility of pitching a tent on Boston Common gives me renewed hope. Classmates who are tired of feeding the pigeons are invited to stop in and chat. The most cheering event of the past few months was my re-appointment as instructor in medicine at Harvard Medical School. Now if I can see Harvard beat Yale at something my re-socialization will be complete.

agencies, covering fraud cases and loyalty investigation of their key personnel. My principal hobby, fishing in Florida and elsewhere, has been a war casualty, but I have managed to find a little time to knock a golf ball around at Skokie. I've found in the last two years that pushing a baby carriage or stroller is good exercise, too. Other activities: Squires Club, Evanston; Federal Association, Chicago.

Occupation: Publisher—Executive Editor.

Home Address: 544 E. 86th St., New York, N. Y.

Business Address: Doubleday & Co., 14 W. 49th St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Eileen Lange, April 10, 1941, Stamford, Conn.

Children: LeBaron Russell, 3d, July 6, 1928; Randolph, Dec. 23, 1929; Leslie Lindsay, Sept. 14, 1937; Jeffery Lange, Jan. 29, 1943; Stephanie LeBaron, Dec. 31, 1945.

I have no exciting military achievements to report. During World War II I was struggling at night with hand-pumps, pressure points, and a dim-witted zone commander. On odd hours in the daytime I was a moving spirit in the Council on Books in Wartime, as chairman of its radio committee. Very early in the game an over-indulgent draft board had decided that the war could be won without me. I like to think that they were just safeguarding the national birth rate (see children listed above for a more complete understanding of just what the hell I was doing during World War II).

In a business way I also became more productive: I left the good gray walls of Houghton Mifflin and a lot of good friends whom I had been with for sixteen years. (I was a newcomer.) On January 10th of 1943 I went to Doubleday as Advertising Manager of the General Book Department. Several months later I was made Editor-in-Chief, and this past fall became Executive Editor.

The carefree days before the war seem far away now. For that matter so does Harvard and the Class of 1926. For most of us in New York there's not enough time in the day for our businesses and families, our friends and memories. We greet a classmate cheerfully but quickly for fear we'll be late to the next appointment. Where has all that time gone? There used to be a lot of it around in Smith and Randolph and Massachusetts—time to hear Dick Field singing "Fighting for Old PEA, Boys," time to stop Eddie Marshall from using a Kalamazoo shift, time to patronize the Comus Social and Lit'rey Club with Lucius Beebe. Come to think of it, perhaps it's just as well there isn't so much time now.

War Service: Naval Aviation. Entered Lieut., July 1, 1942; separated Lieut., Nov. 1944.

Who but a Harvard Class Committee would ask what a classmate's principal interest was in the last five years? If I could turn back the calendar to more flippant days, I should be tempted to answer sun bathing, painting, night clubs or sailing, but even civilians paid some attention to the war, and I was at least an arm-chair sailor in that conflict.

I cannot remember much but the war in this period. A curious fellow from Tech got me into the Navy to help his outfit in the field of Synthetic Training. After stealing an eye chart, I was finally accepted and in July, 1942, returned to Harvard in the Naval Training School for a hard two months' grind. Harvard was never like that—even the Law School.

In September, I was ordered to the Bureau of Aeronautics in Washington, where I took up my duties in the Division of Training. After nine months of this work, I dropped the hint that it must either be another station or mutiny and so I ended up as Officer in Charge of the Division's Station in New York.

There I was engaged in vitally interesting work and I met much Brass and many interesting persons from all theaters of the war. New York during the war was an extraordinarily busy spot and was as usual the crossroads of the world. Almost everything from Manhattan Project to Radio Bombs had connections there and I saw, followed and worked on many of these developments.

In June, 1944, I pulled enough rabbits out of enough hats and for nearly two months served as a Watch Officer on the Destroyer Escort USS Ira Jeffrey doing convoy duty in the North Atlantic. Both the Skipper and I were thrown off for age at the end of this period and I then returned as Officer in Charge of Special Devices Depot in New York. In September of that year, 1944, I was returned to inactive duty.

During 1945 I spent most of my time getting supplies for my business and butter for my family, but I did manage to take up my old interest in sailing and to enjoy a cruise along the Maine coast. At present, my chief interests are my family, business, sailing and the administration of our local hospital, of which I am a Trustee and Vice President. Politically, I am either a conservative Democrat or a liberal Republican, depending on one's point of view. My chief dislikes are "stuffed shirts," "bureaucrats" and "isolationists." I once voted for Roosevelt!

Twentieth Anniversary Report

When my draft board told me, in the spring of 1943, that they were not interested in old men of my age, it was just the impetus I needed to kick over the traces, quit making paper at S. D. Warren Co., close up the farm and join the Navy as an Anti-Submarine Warfare Instructor. Training took me to Boston, San Diego, Springfield, Ill., and the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute. This course really taught me the fine art of sinking submarines, so if any classmates have any subs they want sunk, I'm the man that can tell them how. My first assignment was at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, working with destroyers, DE's, PC's and our own subs (which were the only subs we ever saw). One bright spot was renewing friendship with Joaquin Bacardi at nearby Santiago. Incidentally, the beer that Joaquin brews down there deserves as much praise as his rum.

With the submarine menace over, in October 1944 I was transferred to Washington, D. C., as liaison officer to WPB on chemicals, and since VJ Day on stock piling strategic materials. Present plans for the future are indefinite.

Occupation: Paving Construction Superintendent.

Home Address: 17 Rosemary St., Needham Heights 94, Mass.

Business Address: 38 Memorial Drive, Cambridge, Mass.

Married: Helena Elizabeth Cook, June 11, 1929, New Orleans, La.

Children: Robert James, Jan. 14, 1932; Arthur Cook, April 12, 1940.

I am still working for the same company, but in a different department—the Construction Department, Warren Brothers Roads Company. During the past five years, as you all well know, road construction has been at a standstill; however, this does not mean that my activities in this line of business have been curtailed. On the contrary, there has been so much air base, cantonment, and private plant paving work going on that it has been a 24-hour-a-day business, summer and winter. Laying asphalt pavement at near zero temperatures with a howling gale blowing is something of an experience. My work has taken me from Maine to Alabama, so I haven't had time for many outside activities, but do manage to attend a few meetings of the Harvard Engineering Society.

War Service: War Production Board, Office of the General Counsel, Dec. 11, 1941, to Sept. 30, 1944.

In December of 1941, I severed my connection with the law firm of Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett in New York City to go to Washington as a member of Mr. John Lord O'Brian's staff at the Office of Production Management (later called the War Production Board). Almost all of my experience in Washington was in connection with metals and minerals. In September of 1944, when there seemed to be ample steel, copper and aluminum for war purposes, I returned to New York with a view to opening a law office with two of my Washington co-workers. In June of 1945, our firm was duly launched and its short career to date has been uneventful.

DANIEL BERKELEY BIANCHI

Occupation: Naval Service.

Home Address: 250 Bacon St., Waltham, Mass.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant (j.g.), April, 1942; terminated Lieutenant Commander, Feb., 1946. American Theater Ribbon, Asiatic-Pacific Theater Ribbon, Victory Medal, Expert Pistol Shot Medal.

I began active duty in the Navy as an Ordnance Specialist in May, 1942. Following six weeks of indoctrination at the University of Notre Dame, a month at Ordnance School, Naval Gun Factory, Washington, D. C., and two months at the Aviation Ordnance School, Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Florida, I was assigned to the Fleet Maintenance Division of the Bureau of Ordnance, Washington, in late Sept., 1942.

My work in Washington had to do with planning for Fleet requirements of Aerial Target Equipment used in the training of aircraft and anti-aircraft gunners, authorizing procurement, and administering the distribution and maintenance of this equipment throughout the Naval organization. The program was large and increased many fold during my connection with it as the importance of this training came more and more to be recognized in the Fleet. I soon learned how very easy it is to spend millions annually and how totally meaningless such sums of money become.

Throughout this period, the unsatisfactory performance of all aerial target equipment was a serious handicap to fleet training activities. This condition resulted from neglect in the development of equipment suitable for use with high-speed aircraft following World War I and lack of facilities for testing equipment in prototype before manufacturing in quantity. After many futile attempts to improve this situation, in Oct., 1944, and with the assistance of some interested officers in Washington and Norfolk, I succeeded in getting authorization for the establishment of an Aerial Target Development and Test Unit at the Naval Air Station, Norfolk. This Unit proved itself during the balance of the War and is to be continued as a peacetime function.

Having tried continually during my Washington stay to get sea duty, I finally got orders to Air Force, Atlantic Fleet, in Nov., 1944. I went to sea in Jan., 1945, on the aircraft carrier Bon Homme Richard as an aviation ordnance observer. In early March I was permanently assigned to the U.S.S. Boxer, a new aircraft carrier of the Essex class then commissioning at Newport News, Virginia. My job carried with it responsibility for aircraft ordnance and aviation gasoline. This meant maintaining aviation ordnance equipment, rearming planes with aircraft munitions, and refueling aircraft.

The Boxer was commissioned in April and had its shakedown cruise in the Atlantic during May and June. We reached the West Coast early in August en route to the battle zone. The end of the war found us in San Francisco. Not having sufficient points for discharge at that time, I remained on board and subsequently toured a considerable portion of the Pacific, seeing some of the islands of the mid and north Pacific which earlier had been the scene of important actions, as well as part of North China and Tokyo.

I was detached from the Boxer at Guam in mid-January, 1946, and returned to inactive duty in February.

My club memberships include the Harvard-Club, New York, the American Institute of Graphic Arts, New York, and the Society of Printers, Boston.

Occupation: Manufacturer of Hearing Devices—Owner; Publisher.

Business Address: 104 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Married: Elizabeth Horvath, 1931.

Children: Joan; Ruth; Rosette; Lorraine; Annette.

I can now report five daughters and five plays. None of the plays has been produced yet, but the daughters seem to reproduce themselves. The last play, Both Ends Meet, like the last daughter, always seems the best and there is a renewed glimmer of hope at this writing that my last opus may yet get on the boards.

Though the spirit is willing to continue to turn out these literary and dramatic masterpieces, the pocketbook finally got so weak that the fate that brought me to Harvard College from the engineering school finally turned on itself: I have gone into the manufacture of hearing devices and am about to publish a journal for the industry. This is a new field in which the little technical knowledge I recall from the engineering schools seems to come in quite handy. I hope to be able to contribute something at least to the alleviation of deafness if not to the moribund theatre.

All of this somehow makes me rub my eyes wondering if I had really spent close to five years in Cambridge. Has there been any continuity in my existence since those days aeons ago when Harvard inspired such tremendous vistas and ambitions? Or is this the dilemma of the creaking world we find ourselves in?

Perhaps pursuing the literary dream, rearing five daughters and finding time to play the fiddle that broke the solitude while in Cambridge are all a man dare ask for. But why is it that even with most of our presumably enlightened Harvard alumni, it is not until we arrive at a certain pecuniary level that we feel "satisfied"? It has taken only three years of business to put me in the glorified surtax class, but I feel somehow that even this late I have betrayed the awful yearning for some other form of expression.

The postwar world even more so than the depression years seems to cry for light and leadership away from the beaten path of questionable security. It is good to read of so many Harvard men in positions of great authority and to know that the consummation of the war was in the hands of alumni like F. D. R. and the nuclear physicists. We shall have to search the best that's in us to make the peace worthy of our liberal and revolutionary tradition.

War Service: Consultant on Army Footwear, Office of the Quartermaster General, Washington, D. C.; June 18, 1941, to January 5, 1945.

In June 1941, unfortunately just prior to our Fifteenth Reunion, I received a request from the War Department to report in Washington at once on temporary duty to assist them in solving the many problems that were arising in connection with providing footwear to our rapidly expanding Army. After making footwear surveys in Army camps all over this country, I was made Chief of Footwear in the Office of the Quartermaster General in charge of Procurement, Distribution, and Storage of all Army shoes, including those we supplied to Russia, France, England, Greece, Yugoslavia, etc. In December, 1944, on behalf of the Secretary of War I was presented by Lieutenant General E. B. Gregory the "Citation for Exceptional Civilian Service," the Army's highest civilian award. I resigned in January, 1945, owing to my father's illness, and returned to our family shoe business, The Regal Shoe Company, to manufacture shoes for the Army, as well as for civilians. My father's death in 1945 necessitated selling out our interests, and therefore, today I, too, am unemployed, but hopeful.

The war years centered my activities in Washington, first in organizing the overseas staffs of the Office of Lend-Lease Administration, and then managing the overseas administrative operations of the Foreign Economic Administration and affiliated organizations (U. S. Commercial Corporation, etc.). These years of daily functioning on a world-wide front have further corroborated the "new economy . . . aborning" referred to in my narrative in the Quindecennial Report. Certain broad political and economic surges in "our twenty years" have already altered many of our 1926 concepts. Perhaps by 1951 the life span of the class will indicate more than a Grand Reunion and mark the end and start of basically different ways of life.

LYON BOSTON

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 315 East 68th St., New York, N. Y.

Business Address: Federal Reserve Bank of New York, 33 Liberty St., New York 7, N. Y.

Married: Barbara Hudnut, Oct. 3, 1931, Boston, Mass.

The establishment of a new law firm in the fall of 1939 was timed without consultation with the War Lords, and what with its "senior partner" spending most of 1942 in the Pentagon, Munitions and Navy Buildings in Washington trying to persuade the authorities that he should be in uniform, Boston & Gillis wound up its affairs in April 1943, and I wound up doing war production loan legal work for the Army, Navy and Maritime Commission as Special Attorney for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. I am still at the Federal Reserve Bank, and, though practicing law, have become so infected with the virus of banking that next June, after three years of probing its mysteries, I hope to get a diploma from Dear Old Rutgers and the Graduate School of Banking that will enable me to describe my occupation as "banking; law." Parenthetically, the Officers Dining Room of the Federal Reserve serves the best luncheon in New York; anyone in '26 who doubts this had better phone me and find out about it.

Nothing much of personal moment has happened since 1941, except a few miscellaneous directorships in educational, philanthropic and civic lines, and puzzling over architects' diagrams for a house to be Occupation: Government Service—Personnel Officer and Asst. Director of Supply.

Home Address: 1201 7th Ave., West, Seattle 99, Wash.

Business Address: Seattle Signal Depot, Main St. and Alaskan Way, Seattle, Wash.

Married: Laura Isabella Masterson, Dec. 31, 1936, Seattle, Wash.

War Service: Aug., 1943, to May, 1944, with TWI of WMC; June, 1945, to date, with Seattle Signal Supply Depot of U. S. Army.

From February, 1942, to May, 1945, I was concerned with War Production Training in various capacities from trainer to training executive, and with various programs including JIT, JMT, JRT, Safety, Supervisory, and a program in Organization and Management. With the demise of War Production Training, I entered the Seattle Signal Depot as Assistant Director of Supply, which is the top civilian executive position, where I had the task of "breaking in" three different Captains as Director of Supply in a period of three months. With the reduction in force following V-J Day, I assumed the additional duties of Personnel Officer, and will probably assume others as the demobilization program proceeds to channel the military out of the organization. I have not officially assumed the job of Training Director, but, with the set-up as it is, I have that job as well.

As a Trainer in all kinds of War Industries and Military and Naval Installations, I have had a small part in many varied activities, from small machine and sheet metal shops, food processing plants, shipyards, including Todd Pacific and the Puget Sound Navy Yard, Army Supply Depots, and Navy Supply Depots, to Boeings (B-17 and B-29) and the Hanford Engineer Works (the Atomic Bomb). Seattle being in the War Zone during the early years, and a main channel to the fighting areas in later stages, these experiences have been both an opportunity to serve and a career to remember.

In 1929 I took a job with the Food and Drug Division of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, making analysis of foods and drugs to detect adulteration. In 1938 a branch laboratory was set up in Westfield to service Western Massachusetts, and I was sent up here from the Boston laboratory to organize the unit and to take charge of it. In 1941 we added to our Westfield branch a biological laboratory for vitamin assay. This work also includes checking of sanitary conditions in every type of place where food is prepared, stored, or handled for sale.

I am a member of the Westfield Kiwanis Club (Pres. 1943) and a member of Mount Moriah Lodge A.F. & A.M. My principal hobbies are photography and golf.

War Service: Army Medical Corps. Entered Maj., Sept. 26, 1941; terminated Col., Jan. 29, 1946.

Shortly after the Fifteenth Anniversary I was called to active duty from reserve status and assigned as Assistant Professor of Military Science and Tactics in command of the Medical R.O.T.C. Unit, Boston University School of Medicine. In October, 1942, I was transferred to Headquarters First Service Command, Boston, Mass., as Assistant to the Director of Training in charge of medical training for the First Service Command. On this assignment I oversaw and inspected the training of all medical units assigned to the First Service Command, including station and general hospitals, medical sanitary companies, and the Basic Training Center for Army Nurses at Ft. Devens. After preparing some twenty units for overseas service, I joined the 184th General Hospital at Ft. Devens in November, 1943, as Chief of the Surgical Service.

After a short period of organization and training, we embarked from Boston, March 24, 1944, and landed at Liverpool, England, April 5, 1944. We stayed at Llandudno, North Wales, and after an interesting orientation trip inspecting medical installations in Cheltenham, Bristol, Salisbury, London, and East Anglia, we took over a U. S. Army hospital plant at Mansfield, Nottinghamshire, on May 5, 1944. Our hospital plant was a permanent English hospital of 750 beds, which had been expanded with Nissen Hut and Tent wards to 1750 beds. In the thirteen months from May 5, 1944, to June 13, 1945, we treated over 11,000 patients, including 3,000 German prisoners.

Our service was most interesting, both from the standpoint of the professional work and from the opportunity to see much of the United Kingdom. I consider this chance to have lived among the English during the war one of the greatest privileges of my life. After V-E Day I was fortunate to be kept busy as Commanding Officer of a hospital plant in Ringwood, Hants, and then to be transferred to a unit bound for the Far East. V-J Day found me on the Queen Mary on her first trip out of Southampton since 1939. In short order it was debarkation at New York—what a thrill to see undamaged buildings, fleets of passenger cars, gleaming, well-stocked stores, and well-dressed American women—staying at Camp Kilmer, reunion with my family and forty-five days of blissful leave without a care in the world, transfer to the Separation Center, and on October 17, 1945, being placed on the inactive list for a terminal leave ending January 29, 1946.

I re-opened my office November 1 for the practice of general surgery, and while I have found that four years of absence from hospital and teaching appointments have tended to obliterate any trace of my former activities, still, I have found joyful warmth of welcome from my former patients. I am once again "Doctor," thank God!

A class report is a sort of milestone. It leads me to wonder whether we should sit down beside it and discourse on the past, or whether we should lift up our thoughts and scan the future. Looking backward, we can all of us see a period of immense and unbelievable interest, such as we could never have imagined to be in store for us when we paused at the last milestone, five years ago. Looking ahead, we can see in Science the advent of an era whose meagerest promise is the unlimited expansion of man's physical knowledge and power. And in world politics we can look forward to an era with possibilities for the greatest good or the greatest evil that ever faced mankind. Wedged in between this Past and this Future, we find ourselves today bewildered by the greatness of our opportunities, and distracted by the littleness of our capabilities. One thing we have learned from the vastness of the recent crisis is that individually each one of us alone is too insignificant to make or mar the destiny of mankind. But the crisis taught us also a second precept: that all of us together, acting with an undivided purpose, can attain the unattainable. From my own experience, I have grown to place great confidence in the basic wisdom and righteousness of the common man, and to believe that our American people, at least, are fundamentally intelligent enough to design better and ever better social institutions for themselves. The process of improvement is bound to be one of trial and error, but we must have patience and perseverance, and above all, faith in ourselves.

I am still in the investment counsel business, working with the same people. During the war I served for a year and a half as a volunteer two days a week on the 6-10 a.m. shift at the Boston Information Center of the 1st Fighter Command of the Army Air Forces. Thereafter, for about a year, I worked one evening a week at the Peter Bent Brigham

Hospital, first as a member of a cleaning squad and later as an orderly. Skating and skiing in the winter—although not much of the latter on an “A” coupon; swimming and gardening in the summer, with particular emphasis the past few years on a Victory Garden, seem to have been the order of events for exercise and diversion. My principal interest is my family where, strangely enough, there seems to be always something doing with three healthy, active boys. I hope to live long enough to see less Government in business and more statesmanship and horse sense in Washington. I am a trustee of the Brookline Savings Bank; a member of Town Meeting, 1944–5; a member of the Country Club (Brookline), the Skating Club of Boston, the Harvard and Union Clubs of Boston.

I am one of the unsung minority who concluded he could do more for the war effort by staying by his old job for the duration, and I'm still there. My work, as before, is finding ways and means to make gasoline engines give top performance when operated on Ethyl gasoline. It is interesting, bringing me in close contact with engineers in the automobile factories and in the oil industry, with road and dynamometer test methods and results, with the latest developments in engines, fuels, lubricants, and gilhickies. (Now don't write and ask me why the valve springs break in your marine engines or why your car knocked on war-time gasoline!) Detroit offers much opportunity to indulge in my old love for sailing—three races to Mackinac—two weeks cruising in magnificent Georgian Bay—innumerable daytime races. Then, some fine skiing has been crowded into the last four winters, both in New England and the Laurentians. In between vacations I find ample relaxation and/or exercise on a 2½ acre plot which is for all the world a little piece of Massachusetts transplanted on to Michigan's flatness. My activities include Sea Scouts and being secretary of the Harvard Club of Michigan.

No war service in the armed forces or government, but both Mrs. Brockunier and I had the very real satisfaction of a connection with a Navy Pre-flight School in which we instructed future pilots in International Morse code.

Principal interests and club memberships?—they seem to be political. Mrs. Brockunier served in the 1944 campaign as vice-chairman of the State Central Committee (Democratic) and I as delegate to the state convention where I placed in nomination the present Lieutenant Governor. Publications at the moment consist of a collaboration on an American History written from an international standpoint, to be off the press early in 1947.

The death early in 1942 of the senior partner necessitated the formation of a new partnership, and since that time increased responsibilities have compelled me to restrict my activities mainly to the practice of law.

A growing family of three boys and one girl keeps our home life lively and eventful. For relaxation, I enjoy bridge and squash, and am struggling to improve my golf.

I am a director of the Springfield Y.M.C.A. and of The First National Bank in Medford, and a member of various professional associations, the University Club of Springfield, the Harvard Club of Connecticut Valley, and the Longmeadow Country Club.

JOSEPH HANSEN BROOME

Occupation: Manufacturing.

Home Address: 137 McCosh Rd., Upper Montclair, N. J.

Business Address: Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co., 221 4th Ave., New York, N. Y.

Married: Margaret Jackson Reed, Aug. 16, 1941.

Child: Susan, Sept. 23, 1945.

I am still very much absorbed in controlling the heat in your homes, the airconditioning in your offices and laboratories, and the manufacturing processes in your factories. I am also enthusiastic about the adaptation of war time electronic developments toward peace time uses. I hold a Professional Engineer's License in the State of New Jersey, am a member of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, American Society of Refrigerating Engineers, Harvard Club of New York City.

Business Address: Civilian Production Administration, 4417 Social Security Bldg., Washington 25, D. C.

Married: Anne Schmidt, Aug. 15, 1927, New York, N. Y.

Children: Joanna, March 31, 1930; Truman Roscoe, Oct. 4, 1943.

War Service: With War Production Board and its predecessors since Aug., 1940, handling allocation of chemicals to war and essential industry.

PHILIP KLEIN BROWN

Occupation: Advertising—New England Manager.

Home Address: 191 Waban Ave., Waban 68, Mass.

Business Address: Transit Advertisers, Inc., North Station, Boston, Mass.

Married: Rachel Hanover Grant, June 18, 1926, Boston, Mass.

Children: Gloria Grant, July 12, 1927; Philip Klein, Jr., April 23, 1930.

Having been twice rejected by the Navy, due to a collapsed lung 'way back in 1931, I continued throughout the war at my regular job. Therefore my only contributions were buying bonds, paying taxes, and enduring the hardships of being an Air Raid Warden.

As an avocation (but with an eye for a dollar here or there) I have been doing some radio work (actor, if you please) at the major stations in Boston for the past three years. It's clean work, pays reasonably, and I understand that radio is here to stay—despite the fact that nobody ever listens to it.

VICTOR HENRY BROWN

Occupation: Oil Production—Sales Manager.

Home Address: 7 Vernon Ave., Batavia, N. Y.

Business Address: Standard-Vacuum Oil Company, Room 567, 26 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Marriage Status: Divorced September 4, 1945, from Katherine Ellis Brown.

Since the last report I have been in India with my Company and have traveled a great deal there. I arrived back in the United States in 1945, am working in our New York office at present, and expect to proceed to Japan for two to three years in the immediate future. I should be very glad to have any alumnus or classmate contact me when traveling in or through the Far East.

AUSTIN MOORE BRUES

Occupation: Physician.

Home Address: 5715 Drexel Ave., Chicago 37, Ill.

Business Address: University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill.

Married: Mildred Carter, June 1, 1930, Petersham, Mass.

Children: Roger Austin, Feb. 10, 1933; Nancy Carter, Oct. 29, 1934; Charles Thomas, 2d, Nov. 20, 1937.

War Service: 1941-1944, Responsible Investigator, OSRD committee on medical research; 1944-1946, Senior Biologist, Metallurgical Laboratory, Manhattan District, U. S. Engineers.

At the beginning of the war and until 1944 I was Assistant Professor of Medicine at Harvard engaged in teaching, cancer research, and the practice of medicine. Until 1944 I did research on wound shock at the Massachusetts General Hospital under OSRD in addition to the above-mentioned duties. Although I was not released to the Armed Forces, the atomic bomb project was able to pry me loose in 1944 and since then I have been at the University of Chicago and in other remote parts of the country. Since we are still under rather stringent security regulations, I am unable to go into any details regarding my activities and will have to refer my classmates to the Smythe Report and other published material. I am now Associate Professor in the Department of Medicine and in the Institute of Radiobiology and Biophysics at the University of Chicago. I am also vice president of the Atomic Scientists of Chicago and a member of the Quadrangle Club and various scientific and medical societies. My greatest regret in leaving Boston was in giving up life on a 40-acre farm; there is very little around Chicago but city and corn fields. However, everybody in the country seems to pass through the University of Chicago at least once a year.

JOHN DEBRUYN-KOPS, JR.

Occupation: Glass Manufacturing.

Business Address: Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., 2000 Grant Bldg., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Married: Dorothy B. Heaphy, July 1, 1927, New York, N. Y.

Children: Dorothy Jean, Oct. 6, 1928 (died Jan. 19, 1946); John, 3d, May 20, 1931.

At the time this is written early in February, I am not in a position to give my home address as it will be the time the Report is received by the members of the Class. Next month I am transferring to Canada, where I will be located in Toronto, representing Pittsburgh Plate Glass over the entire Dominion. I am told that housing there is even scarcer than it is around Boston. It is, therefore, possible that I might have to commute week-ends to Dover, Massachusetts, where my home is at present.

FRANK BRYANT

Occupation: Management Consultant.

Home Address: 427 Rich Ave., Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Business Address: McKinsey & Company, 60 East 42nd St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Katherine Ray, May 3, 1937, Chestnut Hill, Mass.

Child: Katherine Ariadna, Oct. 31, 1940.

I am a member of the Harvard Clubs of New York and Boston, and of the Echo Bay Yacht Club.

RICHARD DAVID BUCK

Occupation: Museum Conservator.

Home Address: 38 Shepard St., Cambridge 38, Mass.

Business Address: Fogg Museum of Art, Harvard University, Cambridge 38, Mass.

Married: Robina Hirsch, June, 1939, New York, N. Y.

Children: Christopher David, 1941; Jeremy Robinson, 1943.

The bombs that never fell blasted our family from Cambridge to Petersham, Mass., where for a year and a half I played M.P. to hidden Harvard art. At the Harvard Forest I worked next to a small group of men who were grabbing the chance to walk roughshod over most of the standard practices in forest ranging, and who are now making headlines with aerial surveys. In the village we lived among bucolic bluebloods, mostly Yankees and Guernseys, and we enjoyed them both. In 1945 I became acting head of the Department of Conservation, and had to return to Cambridge. Except for a year as a displaced person hunting for a house in Cambridge, that was that.

HENRY ADSIT BULL, JR.

Occupation: Editor.

Home Address: 114 East 84th St., New York, N. Y.

Business Address: 572 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

Married: Daphne Van Beuren Bayne, Dec. 18, 1936 (divorced).

Child: Alexander, Feb. 25, 1941.

In the last five years I have taken up book and dramatic criticism, been elected to the New York Drama Critics' Circle, and done some lecturing on the sad state of the modern theatre. I have been bringing up my son alone, and, except for taking a course at the invitation of the War Department at the Command & General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, have been pretty much confined to earning his and my living in New York City. I believe the graduates of these civilian orientation courses, which were much harder work and generally better taught than anything I remember at Harvard, were expected to be on call if the war went badly, and from time to time I volunteered for Government work in or out of uniform, which never materialized.

During the period of the air raid scares, armed only with a night stick, I patrolled Manhattan's dimmed-out thoroughfares for the Mayor's City Patrol Corps.

At the moment, I am chiefly occupied with celebrating the centenary of Town & Country, which was founded in 1846 and appears to be the second oldest general magazine in the United States.

The clubs of which I am a member include the Harvard and Coffee House, New York City, and the National Press, Washington.

LAURENCE ELIOT BUNKER

Occupation: Law—Military Service.

Home Address: 46 Chestnut St., Wellesley Hills 82, Mass.

Business Address: GHQ, SCAP, APO No. 500, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif.

War Service: Entered Lt. Colonel, Feb. 17, 1942; still serving as Colonel.

The last five years have held an immense amount of that traveling for which Laurence was hoping back in 1941. He has been completely around the world once, and half way back again (by air all the way except for the distance between Colombo, India and Melbourne, Australia), and back and forth from Australia to the Islands and as far north as Japan.

He was still in the law office of Mr. John W. Davis when the attack on Pearl Harbor came and he was impatient to get into some kind of war work. In February 1942 he was given a place on a commission for the Service of Supply by General Brehon Somervell with whom he worked in Turkey in 1934. As a result he was sworn into the Army on February 17 as a Lieutenant Colonel and started at once by air for Australia via Miami, South America, Africa, Egypt and Persia to Karachi, India. From there he traveled to Colombo in a Blenheim bomber but had to finish the trip to Australia by boat as the airports at Java and Sumatra were closed. He finally landed in Melbourne on March 28, two weeks after General MacArthur arrived from Bataan.

His duties as Chairman of the Board of Contracts and Adjustments included negotiations with Australian government and business officials. In addition to his Army work he spoke at various meetings, his subject usually being along the lines of the necessity not only for a military victory but for a world organization.

In the fall his Headquarters moved north to Sydney and he had been there but a very short time when his brother (Lieut. Col. Raymond Thayer Bunker, Harvard '24) arrived with troops from San Francisco and they had two days together before Raymond moved north.

Under the Service of Supplies Laurence held various positions. As legal officer in the office of the General Purchasing Agent he was in charge of legal and contract affairs and helped in establishing the procurement procedures for all supplies and services coming from Australian sources for United States forces in the Southwest Pacific Area. Among his interesting assignments was the arranging of tours of inspection for the Asst. Secy. of War, the Senators, General Somervell, USO entertainers and President Compton of Mass. Institute of Technology, and on some of these tours he acted as guide.

In August 1944 he was promoted to full Colonel and shortly afterwards was sent to Washington on military business, making the trip by air in seventy-two hours. He was allowed eight days' leave at home before returning to Brisbane where he found his Headquarters had moved on to Hollandia, New Guinea. In January 1945 he was sent back to Australia to attend the UNRRA conferences as a military representative from MacArthur's Headquarters. At the close of the conferences he returned to Headquarters, moving on to Leyte and, after the invasion of the Philippines, to Manila where he was at the time of the Jap surrender. Previous to the surrender he had talked of coming home, but plans were changed suddenly and he moved on to Tokyo where he has been since October 1945, still working as assistant to General

Richard J. Marshall, who is now General MacArthur's Chief of Staff.

On December 10, 1945, Laurence was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal "for exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service to the government in duties of great responsibility in the Southwest Pacific Area."

EDMUND JOSEPH BURKE

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 5 Longwood Rd., Milton, Mass.

Business Address: Hale & Dorr, 60 State St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Josephine J. Sullivan, Feb. 6, 1937, Boston, Mass.

Children: Judith, Sept. 3, 1939; Edmund, May 9, 1940; Philip, May 1, 1942; Brian Nov. 14, 1943.

Shortly after the reunion of 1941 I was admitted to junior partnership in the firm of Hale & Dorr, the law firm with which I had been associated from the time I graduated from law school. In August of 1941 I was appointed by President Roosevelt as a member of the Volunteer Participation Committee. In 1942 I was appointed by Mr. Eastman, who was acting head of O.D.T. at the time, as Chairman of the Motor Truck Rationing Board for most all of New England. In the fall of that year I was named a member of the Federal Board of Bar Examiners for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts by the Solicitor General of the United States. In the fall of 1943 I was elected a member of the Council of the Boston Bar Association and I am still serving with that body. In the same year I was appointed as one of the Civilian Advisors to the Officer Procurement Division of the First Service Command, acting in a confidential capacity in the procurement of officers for various branches of the service. In June of 1944 I was admitted to senior partnership in the firm of Hale & Dorr. Recently I have become a Trustee of "The Living Flame Memorial Foundation" which is a fund created to honor the memory of those who died in the service.

JOHN JOSEPH BURRIS

Occupation: Religion.

Home Address: St. Mary's Rectory, 8 South Common St., Lynn, Mass.

Business Address: St. Mary's Rectory, 8 South Common St., Lynn, Mass.

After working in the Catholic priesthood for some years in the West in the fields of parish work and education, I decided to return to the

Harvard Class of 1926

East again, having gained a considerable knowledge of the way things are done in that part of our country and added to my experience of the missions.

My last parish assignment there was at St. Joseph's Church, Butte, Montana, where I was engaged in parochial work and served on the faculty of the Boys' Catholic Central High School which is under the auspices of the Irish Christian Brothers. I taught religion there. I also held the office of Chaplain to the Butte Council of the Knights of Columbus.

I left the West in the fall of 1942 and chose to continue my work in the Archdiocese of New York where I remained until March, 1945, in parochial and educational work.

This same month I returned to the Archdiocese of Boston and received an appointment to St. Mary's Parish, Lynn, Mass., where I am at the present moment.

I feel considerably enriched by my stay away from the East in the matter of contacts with new peoples, different environments and methods, and with the making of a number of very pleasant friendships.

I must say that I am very happy to be home again.

HOWES BURTON

Occupation: Member New York Stock Exchange—Partner of Firm.

Home Address: Meadow Farm Rd., East Islip, Long Island, N. Y.

Business Address: Townsend, Dabney & Tyson, 14 Wall St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Sarah Endicott Dexter, June 21, 1926, Boston, Mass.

ROGER BURTON

Occupation: Architect.

Home Address: 88 Plandome Court, Manhasset, N. Y.

Business Address: Singmaster & Breyer, 420 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y.

Married: Agnes Dodge Squier, Sept. 5, 1936, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Children: Mary Lucia, Oct. 3, 1937; Elizabeth Squier, Nov. 2, 1941.

Registered architect in New York and in Pennsylvania. Worked with the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York rehabilitating foreclosed real estate in New York City up to 1941. Spent a year working on the Bermuda Army Air Base. Have been with Singmaster & Breyer, Metallurgical and Chemical Engineers, since 1942. In that time have participated in the design of three magnesium plants, a tin concentrating plant in Bolivia, and an ammonium sulphate plant in India, together with work of a less sensational character. Have carried on a small practice in architecture outside of my work with the firm.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Am a member of the Board of Directors of the Brooklyn Chapter of the American Institute of Architects; Vice President of the Alumni Association of the Columbia School of Architecture; have served as Vice President of the Civic Association of Plandome Heights, and am now acting as Building Inspector of that village; have participated actively in a Citizens' Committee for the Creation of a Public Housing Authority in the Town of North Hempstead which has borne fruit; have served as Chairman of a Public Forum in Flushing; and I am a member of the Board of Trustees of the North Shore Unitarian Society of Port Washington, N. Y.

HOWARD MILLARD BUTTERFIELD

Occupation: Mining Geologist.

Home Address: 92 Lake Shore Rd. (P. O. Box 37), Haileybury, Ont., Canada.

Business Address: Same; also Box 835, Noranda, Quebec.

Married: Marjorie Martin, Feb. 11, 1931, Rouyn, Quebec.

Children: Kenyon Martin, June 13, 1932; William John, May 6, 1936; David Lloyd, Aug. 17, 1939.

War Service: Sept. 15, 1942, to May 1, 1944, Officer, Development Branch, Non-metallics, Office of Metals Controller, Department of Munitions and Supply, Ottawa.

In 1942, with the cessation of outside exploration for new mines by Wright Hargreaves Mines, Limited, for whom I had been an examining engineer, I joined the staff of the Metals Controller in September. My principal work was in investigating the possibilities of producing corundum in Canada for optical purposes, and in increasing the production of fluorspar for the steel industry. With the spring of 1944 there was a marked diminution of work in the Metals Control and at the same time I found considerable demand for my services as a consultant in exploration in the reviving gold district of Northwestern Quebec. Since May of that year I have devoted all of my time to my practice as a consulting geologist, and have found it both moderately profitable and extremely interesting.

In 1941 we removed our home from Kirkland Lake to Haileybury, which is a small but beautiful community on the west shore of Lake Temiskaming, with a climate several degrees warmer than most of northern Ontario and Quebec. We are finding it an enjoyable place in which to live and rear a family.

Harvard Class of 1926

During the past five years I have been too busy to do much with hobbies, except for a bit of skiing and swimming in season, and a moderate amount of golf.

For some obscure reason I have been elected a director of two mining companies, both of which are still very much in the prospect stage.

WILLIAM BYRD, JR.

Occupation: Electrical Engineer.

Home Address: Princeton, N. J.

Business Address: General Cable Corporation, 420 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y.

Married: Alice Luce, Oct. 20, 1928, Cohasset, Mass.

Children: Mary, Sept. 4, 1931; Alice, Sept. 12, 1934.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant, March 19, 1942; terminated Commander, Jan. 18, 1946. Washington, Great Britain, Pearl Harbor, Tinian, Solomons, Md. Navy Commendation Ribbon.

Prior to entering the Service, I was engaged in the development of magnetic and electrostatic separation equipment. My separators are widely used in the process industries. One of my developments enabled the country's largest supplier of rutile for coating welding rods to obtain a substantial increase in production.

My first duty assignment in the Navy was as Minecraft Construction Officer in the Bureau of Ships. I then served for a year as Liaison Officer at the Headquarters of the Commander of Naval Forces in Europe for Minesweeping with the Royal Navy. I was also engaged in the planning of maintenance facilities for landing craft in the area between Plymouth and Falmouth. In the spring of 1944 I was ordered to report to the commander-in-chief, U. S. Pacific Fleet, for minesweeping technical duties. I became a member of the staff of Commander, Minecraft, U. S. Pacific Fleet, and was later ordered to Tinian as Officer-in-Charge of a technical unit assigned to the 20th Air Force for special duties in connection with B-29 mining attacks against Japanese home waters. Just before the war's end, I was ordered to report to the Naval Mine Warfare Test Station, Solomons, Md., to take charge of the development of special minesweeping gear and procedures needed for clearing channels through waters infested with the B-29 laid mines.

STEWART SCOTT CAIRNS

Occupation: Education—Assistant Professor of Mathematics.

Home Address: 148-39 Kalmia Ave., Flushing, N. Y.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Business Address: Queens College, Flushing, N. Y.

Married: Kathleen Hand, June 20, 1928, Chelsea, Mass.

Children: James Donald, Aug. 7, 1931; Charles Edward, Nov. 6, 1935.

War Service: Various groups operating under the Applied Mathematics Panel of the NDRC, Feb. 1944 to Feb. 1946.

The last five years have been a sort of sandwich, with a bulky heterogeneous filling supplied by the war. As a civilian, I helped fight the so-called "Battle of Orlando" in Florida. There the Army Air Forces Board had its headquarters and functioned as the final testing agency of the AAF in matters of tactics, equipment, armament, and techniques of employment. I served as mathematical consultant to the Board and as a liaison between the Board and the Applied Mathematics Panel of the NDRC, which farmed out my services. The work included helping to plan and observe tests, much flying in military craft and a great deal of traveling to pick the brains of a variety of experts and thus gather material for AAF Board Project Reports.

Official duties were frequently and adequately relieved by participation in the customary week-end (and occasional midweek) pleasures of officers assigned to the Board, a very congenial group of fellows from all parts of the country and all theaters of war.

After more than a year of family separation, broken only by occasional sudden and brief visits home, I was joined last June in Orlando by my wife and sons, on the hypothesis that the Japs would fight long enough to justify this abandonment of the cultural advantages of New York City. Shortly thereafter, I was back, desperately (and with final success) seeking a house in Flushing. We bought one of the few suitable remaining places and are enjoying the task of redecorating it to please our fancy.

Before entering on war work, I completed several more mathematical research articles, three of which were published in 1944. I have since resumed such work and am on the point of going back to my teaching duties at Queens College. It is a great pleasure to combine these peaceful pursuits with a happy family life and the training of two potential members of the classes of 1952 and 1957.

FRANK MORTON CARPENTER

Occupation: Education—Professor of Zoology and Entomology.

Home Address: 73 Blake Rd., Lexington, Mass.

Business Address: Biological Laboratories, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

Married: Ruth Frances Scace, June 1, 1932, Pittsfield, Mass.

Children: Alden Bliss, Feb. 23, 1936; Ellen Ruth, March 4, 1938; Cynthia, Feb. 13, 1941.

During the war I remained at Harvard, giving instruction in zoology to pre-medical students (Naval, V-12) and in medical entomology at the Medical School and the School of Public Health, and to special Naval medical groups. In 1945 I was appointed Professor of Entomology and Alexander Agassiz Professor of Zoology at the University. At present I am acting as Associate Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. I'm still an enthusiastic bug-hunter, but have had no opportunity to do field work since 1940.

Married: Edith A. Frost, June 16, 1931, Boston, Mass.

Children: Leslie (daughter), Sept. 22, 1936; David Mead, Jan. 7, 1938.

War Service: Coast Guard (T). Entered Lieutenant (j.g.), Sept., 1943; terminated Lieutenant, Oct., 1945. Entire period spent in Puerto Rico. Office of Strategic Services, March, 1942, to Nov., 1942.

In 1940 an associate of long standing, Waller B. Booth, Jr., Princeton '26, and I started the Royal Crown Bottling Co. of Puerto Rico at San Juan. This was to be the forerunner of several other similar franchised operations throughout Latin America, but the war intervened to delay the progress of expansion. Plans are now being revived to extend our Royal Crown Cola operations further through the Latin America area.

It is always amusing to compare my activities from 1926 to 1939, promoting de luxe travel on Raymond-Whitcomb cruises at prices up to $30,000 or $40,000 for family groups, with my current efforts to sell "soda pop" at 5¢ a bottle.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Home Front War Service: Work on advertising campaigns for Red Cross, Blood Bank, Navy & Waves recruiting, food and fat conservation, war bonds, Corning Glass (winner of 5 Army-Navy "E" awards).

Citations: Air Raid Warden Armband, red ribbon from Blood Bank, gasoline "A" card. Can I help it if I'm old and fat? Not yet a member of the "21 Club" anyway.

OSCAR CATSIFF

Occupation: Music Arranger.

Home Address: 457 W. 57th St., New York, N. Y.

Business Address: Crawford Music Corp., RKO Bldg., Radio City, New York, N. Y.

Married: Mae Remstein, Feb. 21, 1929, Brooklyn, N. Y. (now separated).

Children: Ruth Laura, July 16, 1931; Sylvia Beth, Nov. 13, 1935.

Organizations: Local 802 Amer. Federation of Musicians; Independent Citizens Committee of the Arts, Sciences & Professions; American Society of Music Arrangers; Music War Committee (of the American Theatre Wing).

In spite of the fact that the last five years have been so eventful in world history, my life has been singularly uneventful. Things are much the same with me, outside of purely family interests. I am still with the Crawford Music Corp. as arranger in charge of vocal orchestration, but I am also in the same capacity with Chappell & Co., T. B. Harms, Inc., and Williamson Music Co., which comprise the chief music interests under the ownership of Max Dreyfus.

ALEXANDRE PIERRE EMMANUEL CHALUFOUR

Occupation: Publishing—Asst. Director of Research.

Home Address: 34-10 84th St., Jackson Heights, N. Y.

Business Address: The Crowell-Collier Publishing Company, 250 Park Ave., New York 17, N. Y.

Married: Omo Welling, Dec. 31, 1927, Brookline, Mass.

Child: Alexandre Pierre Emmanuel, Jr., Dec. 4, 1928.

War Service: Which war? Had four and a half years in the first World War, and they laughed at me for this one.

Just home front stuff, Scoutmaster, Vestryman, junkman (you know, collection of metals, waste paper, old clothes); worked for France Forever, bond drives, War Fund, just making a pest of myself around the community. (Never been kicked out of any place though.) They even made me a Sunday School teacher!

CHRISTOPHER LUCIAN CHAMBERLIN

Occupation: Teacher—House Master.

Home and Business Address: Gibbs' House, Lancing College, Shoreham-by-Sea, Sussex, England.

War Service: Junior Training Corps. Entered 2nd Lieutenant, Dec., 1926; terminated Lieutenant, July, 1945. (British Forces.)

LAWRENCE BOYD CHAMBERS

Occupation: Chemistry of Piezoelectric Crystals.

Home Address: 11706 Chesterfield Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Business Address: Brush Development Co., Cleveland, Ohio.

Married: Florence Tyler, Aug. 1, 1940, Cleveland, Ohio.

Child: Margaret Ellen, May 1, 1942.

Found I could not make a living in the dignified profession of teaching so shifted to research chemistry in piezoelectric crystals. Personally, I like it much better.

WILLIAM ROWELL CHASE

Occupation: Advertising.

Home Address: 3423 Paxton Ave., Cincinnati 8, Ohio.

Business Address: Procter & Gamble, Gwynne Bldg., Cincinnati 2, Ohio.

Married: Katharine Knox Kingsbury, Feb. 15, 1936, New York, N. Y.

Children: Rowell Kingsbury, Jan. 14, 1937; Alison Mason, Jan. 27, 1940.

SAMUEL CHECKVER

Occupation: Farmer.

Home Address: 222-07 141st Rd., Laurelton 13, N. Y.

Business Address: Michigan.

DAVID REYNOLDS CLARK

Occupation: Industrial Specialist—War Department.

Home Address: 1252 Waterview Place, Far Rockaway, L. I., N. Y.

Business Address: A.S.F., N. Y. Ord. District, 80 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Married: Alice Richmond Kurtz, Dec. 15, 1943, Far Rockaway, L. I., N. Y.

EBEN CHOATE CLARK

Occupation: Banking.

Home Address: Pleasant St., Dover, Mass.

Business Address: The First National Bank of Boston, 67 Milk St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Margaret Sharpe Stevens, Sept. 6, 1941.

Children: Eben C., Jr., Dec. 14, 1943; Margaret Stevens, March 10, 1946.

While I have not waxed mightily in the field of endeavor since the Fifteenth, I will proudly exhibit to any classmate who calls two promising ice cream eaters—this including the 20th Reunion present that has just arrived. We move shortly from all the conveniences of the city to the wilds of Dover where everyone still pumps their own water and a church fair is the social event of the year. A nice red barn on the place to tether the young when unruly and plenty of work ahead to help the old man keep fit. A small ski hill out back and that sport, which includes a trip to Canada each year, is still my favorite diversion. I have lots of others including some rather inferior carpentry work. Yes, the marriage of Harvard and Yale in my case has been a happy one, and I give all the credit in this case to the blue side of the family.

Harvard Class of 1926

EDWARD CLARK

Occupation: Oil Properties.

Home Address: 513 Gore Ave., Lawton, Okla.

Business Address: Local Bldg., Oklahoma City, Okla.

WALTER BUCHANAN CLINE

Occupation: Teaching and Research—Associate Professor of Anthropology.

Home Address: Minneapolis, Minn.

Business Address: University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, Minn.

War Service: Office of Strategic Services, June 1942 to June 1945.

For the last five years I have been studying the ethnography and cultural history of North Africa. In June 1942, I was called to Washington by the Office of Strategic Services. I worked there until November 1943, coordinating social, political and economic information on the North African Arabs and Berbers. O.S.S. then sent me to Morocco to obtain such information in the field. My job was to circulate as much as possible among the Moslems and pick up any facts or rumors which might be of interest to the Government or the Armed Forces. I spent most of my time in Fez, visiting Marrakesh every few weeks to keep track of conditions in the south. In May 1945 I left Morocco to resume my teaching duties at the University of Minnesota. I plan to continue my North African studies indefinitely and to return to the field as soon as conditions permit.

GEORGE BYWATER CLUETT, II

Occupation: Manufacturing Gardening Machines—Secretary.

Home Address: Little Compton, R. I.

Business Address: Rototiller Inc., Troy, N. Y.

Married: Marion Ticknor, 1927; Eugenia Meneely, 1939.

Children: Constance T., 1928; George B., 3d, 1930; Walter S., 1939; Mary E., 1941.

I engaged in real estate development and home construction in Troy, New York, and Falmouth, Mass., until 1941. Aviation operation and development from 1936 to present time. Promoted manufacture of Rototiller gardening machines in this country beginning in 1937, and still so connected.

MATTHEW COHEN

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 45A Almont St., Mattapan, Mass.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Business Address: 110 Milk St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Rose Rosenberg, June 25, 1933, Boston, Mass.

Children: Elsa L., July 9, 1936; Shepard N., May 10, 1940.

SIDNEY SLATER COHEN

Occupation: Surgeon.

Home Address: 3 Montvale Rd., Newton Centre, Mass.

Business Address: 475 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.

Married: Ruth Seegal, July 6, 1930, Boston, Mass.

Children: Roger David, April 7, 1937; Richard Slater, Aug. 1, 1940.

War Service: Army. Entered Captain, Jan. 18, 1943; separated Captain, Dec. 11, 1945; Surgeon in auxiliary surgical group, operating just behind the front lines; participating in airborne invasion of Holland with 101 Airborne, going in by glider as co-pilot; at various other times, attached to First, Third, and Seventh Armies; decorations: Glider Wings with one combat mission, five battle stars; Unit Presidential Citation (101 Airborne).

After three years in the service, I have returned to the practice of surgery in Boston and to the "normal way of life." Prior to the war, my interest and activities centered firstly about my family and the bringing up of two energetic boys; and secondly, in a practice, busy and interesting enough to give the feeling of harnessing one's energies to a worthwhile project. Fellow of the American College of Surgeons; on the teaching staff at Tufts Medical School; on the staff of many of our best Boston hospitals.

SARGENT FRANCIS COLLIER

Occupation: Photography and Public Relations.

Home Address: 512 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

Business Address: Collier & McCann, 166 Newbury St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Eleanor Morris McCormick, June 30, 1934, Bar Harbor, Maine.

Children: Ann Rutherford, July 21, 1935; Eleanor Morris, Sept. 5, 1938; Sargent, May 20, 1941.

War Service: Navy. Entered Dec. 23, 1942; separated Lieut., Sept. 18, 1945 (promoted to Lt. Comdr. on leave; did not take). Photographic Officer in First and Third Naval Districts.

CYRIL JEROME COLLINS

RICHARD COLLINS, JR.

Occupation: Physician (before the war).

Home Address: 378 Bacon St., Waltham, Mass.

Business Address: ODI, OMGUS, APO 742, c/o Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Married: Jean Chapman, 1938, Lincoln, Mass.

Child: Deborah, 1939.

War Service: Army. Entered Captain, Field Artillery, December 1940; now Colonel and still in service. From March 1941 to September 1942 I served as Instructor, Group Head, Class Director, Gunnery Department, Field Artillery School. S-3, 87th Div. Arty. from November 1942 to June 1943. In September 1943 I was made Acting Executive Officer of the 87th Div. Arty., but was assigned to special duty, G-2, War Department, in October of that year. From December 1943 to March 1944 I was Intelligence Officer, G-2, COSSAC; Chief of Section, G-2, SHAEF, April 1944 to December 1944; and Deputy Chief of Branch, G-2, SHAEF, January 1945 to July 1945. Since August 1945 I have been Chief of Branch, Office of the Director of Intelligence, Office of Military Government for Germany (US). I have been awarded Legion of Merit, Officer of the Order of the British Empire, and the Croix de Guerre (with palm) for services with SHAEF.

The past five and one half years have been spent in the army and not one of them has been regretted. My assignments have been varied, interesting, and never dull. From a physical point of view, life has never been too uncomfortable. From the mental point of view, however, it has often been a bit wearing. That element still continues over here, and fills everyone sooner or later with the desire to get home, even if only for a short stay. With a bit of luck, I might make the June holidays.

JAMES LELAND COMBS

Occupation: U. S. Maritime Service—Chief Officer.

time Service Officers School, Alameda, Calif., Feb. 16, 1945; Enewietok Campaign, 3 months, Chief Officer; Saipan Campaign, 3 months, Chief Officer; Philippine Campaign, 3 months, Chief Officer. Wounded Aleutian Campaign.

Member: Lodge, Gold Beach, Oregon, No. 199 A.F. & A.M.

As soon as I get released from service, I shall probably go back to commercial fishing in the tuna industry, off California or in Mexican waters.

Best wishes to all.

LEE COMBS

Occupation: Attorney-at-Law.

Home Address: 264 Tigertail Rd., Los Angeles, Calif.

Business Address: 215 W. 6th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Married: Margaret Evelyn Hefner, Feb. 25, 1939, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Children: Donna, Daniel, and Donald (triplets), Dec. 20, 1939 (deceased); Lee Hefner, March 6, 1941; Margaret Evelyn, Jan. 30, 1944.

VERNON COOK, JR.

Occupation: Insurance Broker.

Home Address: 300 Oakdale Rd., Baltimore, Md.

Business Address: Maury, Donnelly & Parr, Inc., Commerce & Water Sts., Baltimore, Md.

Married: Suzanne Apsey, Dec. 17, 1926, Cambridge, Mass.

War Service: Army Air Corps. Entered Pvt., June 26, 1942; terminated First Lieut., Jan. 25, 1946; 11th Air Force, Aleutian Islands; 9th Air Force, Europe.

Except for the war period, I have been associated with Maury, Donnelly & Parr, Inc., general insurance agents here in Baltimore, since 1930. In June, 1942, I joined the Army as a volunteer officer candidate and served unspectacularly as a fighter controller in such unrelated places as Adak, Roslyn (L. I.), and Nurburg in the Eifel. I suffered extreme hardship near Biloxi, Mississippi, in the summer of 1942.

It is very pleasant to be back at home where I hope I shall continue to enjoy, in addition to said home, playing squash, vacations in any mountains, and the works of Messrs. Cozzens and Edmonds.

ALMON GOODWIN COOKE

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 142 E. 18th St., New York 3, N. Y.

Business Address: International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., 67 Broad St., New York 4, N. Y.

Married: Mary K. Munroe, Sept. 8, 1930, Salem, Mass.

Children: Goodwin, July 30, 1931; Nathaniel Kinsman, April 1, 1934; Sarah Nichols, June 20, 1936.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant (j.g.), July 20, 1941; terminated Commander, Dec. 15, 1945. The Receiving Ship at New York; Commanding Officer PC 544, Caribbean and South Atlantic; Executive Officer and Commanding Officer U.S.S. Gilmore (DE 18), Pacific and Aleutian Islands; Commanding Officer U.S.S. Cronin (DE 704), Mediterranean and South Pacific.

Government: Principal Attorney, Office of Under Secretary of War, Nov., 1940, to July, 1941; Tax Amortization Section and Senate Investigating Committee.

[The following item appeared in the May 12, 1945, Alumni Bulletin regarding Commander Cooke:

"A recent issue of Yachting contained a letter of appreciation from the crew of a British merchant ship rescued back in October, 1944, by Lieutenant Commander A. Goodwin Cooke, USNR, skipper of an American ship, and his crew.

" 'Without regard for yourselves,' the letter reads, 'and knowing full well that at any moment six million gallons of high octane spirits were liable to explode, you stood by, and rescued us from the perils of fire and water. This entailed absolute perfection in seamanship. . . . We of the British Merchant Navy, who since early 1940 have been carrying lease-lend supplies, realise the debt we owe to America. Now our debt has become something very personal, a debt we all feel we can never repay.' "

SAMUEL COOPER

Last Known Home Address: 45 Upham St., Malden, Mass. (Lost.)

[In 1941 Cooper was operating a store in Norwood, but sometime in 1944 or early 1945 he entered the Service. Efforts to obtain a current address were unavailing.]

STANLEY BAGG COOPER

Occupation: Attorney-at-Law.

Home Address: 318 Fayette St., Conshohocken, Pa.

Business Address: Waters & Cooper, 512 Swede St., Norristown, Pa.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Married: Josephine K. Rhodes, Aug. 23, 1933, Rose Valley, Pa.

Children: Elizabeth Roberts, April 4, 1936; Ann, Aug. 25, 1940.

Since the last report to the class I have continued the practice of law in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and have recently acquired a partner. My part in the war effort consisted of service on a War Transportation Committee, War Price & Rationing Board, participation in War Bond Rallies, and being Chairman of the Conshohocken Branch of the American Red Cross.

JOSEPH JACOB CORN, JR.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 66 Malba Drive, Whitestone, L. I., N. Y.

Business Address: Eisman, Lee, Corn, Lewine and Sheftel, 271 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

Married: Margery L. Hafner, May 13, 1937, Whitestone, L. I., N. Y.

Children: Joseph Jacob, 3d, May 12, 1938; John Hafner, March 7, 1941.

War Service: Army (TC, AUS). Entered Private, Nov. 20, 1942; terminated 1st Lieutenant, Dec. 19, 1945. Judge Advocate Section, U. S. Hdqtrs. Berlin District, 1st Airborne Army. Served in ETO.

HOWARD CORNING, JR.

Occupation: Education.

Home Address: Valentine's Lane, Glen Head, N. Y.

Business Address: Green Vale School, Glen Head, N. Y.

Married: Elizabeth Ann Southworth, June 28, 1933, Springfield, Mass.

Children: Howard, 3d, Feb. 21, 1935; Elizabeth Southworth, Aug. 1, 1938.

During the last five years my activities have been confined to running a school under war time conditions. This involved excursions into fields I had not thought of as intimately associated with education—such as setting up and operating a transportation system, and a close study of the wholesale meat business!

My memberships include the Country Day School Headmasters' Association and the Harvard Club of New York City.

JOHN BURT CORNING

Occupation: Farming.

Home Address: Kennebunkport, Maine.

Married: Julia L. Hebard, Sept. 8, 1933.

Child: Charles C. Bassett, 3d (stepson).

During the war years with field archaeology closed down, I retreated to a farm I had recently purchased in Maine. Active military service was barred because of a bad ear. My time has been spent in building up a going farm with cows, pigs, chickens, and all and all, I have found that with intelligent management farming can be made to pay its way and even show a profit.

JOEL O'DONNELL CORNISH

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 120 N. 39th St., Omaha, Nebr.

Business Address: Barker Block, Omaha, Nebr.

[The information printed above is taken from the Secretary's files. Cornish did not return a questionnaire.]

ANDREW VINCENT CORRY

Occupation: Geologist and Mining Engineer.

Home Address: 825 West Galena St., Butte, Mont.

Business Address: 1628 Rhode Island Ave., N.W., Washington 6, D. C.

War Service: FEA for past two years in India. Due to arrive in New York shortly.
Work completed.

JOHN DESMOND COTTER

Home Address: 127 Mansfield Ave., Lansdowne, Pa.

[The above address is from the Secretary's records. Mail was accepted there until the last week of March when a final appeal to Cotter was returned for lack of a forwarding address. He is not considered as "lost," however, as further checking in Philadelphia will undoubtedly uncover a valid address.]

GEORGE WILLIAM COTTRELL, JR.

Occupation: Librarian and Editor, Harvard University Library.

Home Address: 70 Lake View Ave., Cambridge, Mass.

Business Address: Widener Library, Harvard University.

Married: Annette Brinckerhoff, June 18, 1929, Bronxville, N. Y.

Child: Annette Brinckerhoff, Dec. 24, 1930.

Children: Cynthia Taft, June 21, 1932; Diana Taft, Feb. 23, 1936.

Harvard Class of 1926

I am a Director of Brewing Corporation of America and President and Director of the University Club of Cleveland. I also am a member of The Country Club, Hermit Club, Harvard Club of Cleveland, Cleveland Advertising Club and Cleveland City Club. I have spent four of the last five years attempting to condition myself to the fact that "Life Begins at Forty" and I have spent the last year saying to myself "I told you so."

THOMAS HAWK CREIGHTON

Home Address: 330 W. 42d St., New York, N. Y.

[The above address was obtained from the Architectural League in New York City, but a letter addressed to Creighton there was returned even though the League said it was a comparatively new address. He is not being put on the "lost" list in view of the fact that he was in communication with the Architectural League so recently.]

EDWARD JOHNSON CRESWELL

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 1529 Pentridge Rd., Baltimore, Md.

Business Address: Counsel, The Glenn L. Martin Co., Baltimore, Md.

Married: Marian Stucky, Aug. 3, 1934, Cleveland, Ohio.

Children: John Ellsworth, Dec. 14, 1938; Joyce Elizabeth, Dec. 16, 1944.

THEODORE LYMAN CROCKETT

Occupation: Investment Banking—Partner and Manager Research Dept.

Home Address: Brayton Park, Ossining, N. Y.

Business Address: Shields & Co., 44 Wall St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Janet Newcomb, May 10, 1935, New York, N. Y.

Children: Theodore Lyman, Jr., Dec. 9, 1938; John Adams, March 26, 1941; Simone Newcomb, Oct. 3, 1942.

During the past five years my principal occupation has been an effort to support a growing family. My work has consisted primarily of the production of investment research material which is not only used by Shields & Company but is also sold on a fee basis to some 50 other firms throughout the United States. My principal hobbies have been bridge, postage stamps, and golf, each of which seems to consume more time than it should. I am a member of the Harvard Club of New York City and of the City Midday Club.

IRWIN FRANK CRYSTAL

Occupation: Insurance—President.

Home Address: 19 E. 88th St., New York 28, N. Y.

Business Address: Frank Crystal & Co., Inc., 136 E. 57th St., New York 22, N. Y.

Married: Evelyn Greenburgh, March 24, 1933, Yonkers, N. Y.

Child: James W., Oct. 9, 1937.

There has been no change of import in my existence. Family and business have stayed the same. The latter alone has grown. Ran into a great many Harvard friends in Washington during my many wartime visits. Some in brass and some with brass. My wartime activities were mainly local and attending to insurance affairs for several governmental agencies. Now that this is all over, I'll return to my usual great pleasure of travelling when and if business will allow.

WILLIAM CLARKE CULVER

Occupation: Automobile Dealer.

Home Address: 361 19th St. S. E., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Business Address: 601 2nd Ave. S. E., Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Married: Mary Catherine Miller, Dec. 31, 1929, Minneapolis, Minn.

Children: John Chester, Aug. 8, 1932; Catherine, Oct. 3, 1936.

When the war stopped the sale of automobiles, I left my business in the charge of the service manager and became the personnel manager at the Montgomery Ward Denver Mail Order House. Due to increasing problems in the automobile business, I left Ward's in the fall of 1944 to return to Cedar Rapids and after a short time I went to the Collins Radio Company as head of the industrial engineering department. Collins manufactured radio and radar equipment for the Navy. After VJ-Day I returned to the active management of my own business.

THAYER CUMINGS

Occupation: Advertising.

Home Address: 350 E. 57th St., New York, N. Y.

Business Address: Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc., 383 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

Married: Virginia Holland Richardson, May 3, 1940, New York, N. Y.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant, July 22, 1942; terminated Lt. Comdr., Sept. 1, 1945. American Theater Ribbon, European-African Area Ribbon.

Three of the last five years I have been working for the Secretary of the Navy. I was appointed Lieutenant in the United States Naval Reserve July 22, 1942, promoted to Lieutenant Commander October 17, 1944, and separated from the service September 1, 1945. Most of the time I was attached to the Secretary's office and was Officer-in-Charge of the Navy's Radio Office in New York City. This midget outfit, comprised of two other officers and a yeoman, serviced more than 4,400 network radio programs with Naval information and/or Naval personnel. In the spring of 1943 this routine was broken by a tour of duty aboard USS Kearny on convoy duty between New York, Bermuda, and Casablanca, and in the autumn of 1944 by a 19,000 mile flight to Pearl Harbor, Johnson, Kwajalein, and Guam with the four network news chiefs for a memorable two hour conference with Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz on the news coverage of the war in the Pacific. Needless to say, I am delighted to be back again at BBDO, where business is lively and we only have to make one carbon of things instead of six, Navy Department style!

"Outside interests?" A new daughter, Julie, manages to wangle more than her share of attention, and a house at York Harbor, Maine, purchased last autumn continues to be more and more absorbing, fast turning my good wife and me into a couple of died-in-the-wool Down Easters. From here on in, "As Maine goes—so go the Cumings!"

EUGENE STANLEY CURTIS

Occupation: Lithography—Sales Service.

ROBERT WILSON CUSHMAN

Occupation: Instrument Manufacturing—Assistant Director of Research and Development.

Home Address: 115 Billings St., Sharon, Mass.

Business Address: Foxboro Co., Foxboro, Mass.

Married: Nancy Parsons Fiske, Oct. 1, 1927, Sharon, Mass.

Child: Robert Lincoln, Aug. 1, 1928.

I did not serve in any branch of the Armed Forces but remained with the Company to do what I could to help its war program. This consisted of the manufacture of huge numbers of instruments for many of the defense plants, especially in the synthetic rubber and high octane gasoline developments. We also built many special instruments for the aircraft industry used in the development and testing of planes, as well as manufacturing various airborne equipment. In addition to this work, which is closely related to our regular product, we made many war products, such as torpedo parts, radar trainers, electronic sub-assemblies, and machine parts.

I have served as a member of the Town Finance Committee for one year and on the School Committee for the last three. This last experience is the most educational job since I left Harvard. Of course, there were the Civilian Defense Committees and the Bond Drives, too, and in my spare time I have been studying Navigation with the U. S. Power Squadrons. Victory gardens have taken some of my attention, and in between times I work on my twenty-eight-foot auxiliary cutter, which is slowly taking shape in a canvas-covered shed behind the garage. Time and material shortages have made it a slow job, but I hope our next publication may carry the story of its completion and launching.

My son has gradually—but how quickly it seems—become a man. He is now finishing his high school education at The Principia in St. Louis and is just young enough to have missed the draft, but he may see service rather than a college education.

We have seen tremendous technical developments during the last five years, and it is my earnest prayer that the next five years may see at least some development in the mental and spiritual fields, and find some purposes other than destruction for our new mechanical might.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: Franklin, N. H.

Business Address: Franklin, N. H.

Married: Eve Burns, July 4, 1931, Cumberland, R. I.

War Service: Field Artillery. Entered 1st. Lieut., June 1, 1942; terminated Major, April 4, 1946. Was Instructor at Field Artillery School, Fort Sill, Okla., until April 1944; Battery Commander, Battery A, 573d FA Bn. until Oct. 1945; Battalion Executive and Operations Officer, 507 AAA Gun Bn. until Dec. 1945. All my service was in the States except for six months on the island of Luzon, P. I.

Except for forty-seven months during which I did my best not to upset the traditions of the Army, the last five years of my life have been spent in being a small town lawyer. That seems to be the slot in life for which I am best suited, and with luck I hope to spend fifty years more of the same. Gradually I become conservative, but am afraid I'll never be a Republican. I satisfy my gregarious desires as a Rotarian and a Mason.

RAYMOND GEORGE D'ARCY

Occupation: Education—Master of Elementary School.

Home Address: 119 Huron Ave., Cambridge, Mass.

Business Address: Putnam School, 86 Otis St., Cambridge, Mass.

Married: Marguerite E. Kenney, June 22, 1932, Cambridge, Mass.

Children: Raymond G., Jr., June 16, 1933; Kenneth F., Feb. 1, 1936; John Peter, Nov. 19, 1943.

In Sept., 1941, I was appointed Master of the Putnam Elementary School and regretfully left Rindge Technical School where I had taught French and English for fourteen years and had helped prepare so many boys for a college career. Little did I realize how many would fight and die on far-flung battlefields in defense of those ideals which we had tried to inculcate in them.

My new work has been pleasant far beyond my expectations. The transition from the specialized teaching of definite subject matter to 17 and 18 year old boys was not too difficult. The general problems of the administration and supervision of a school including boys and girls from the ages of $4\frac{1}{2}$ to 15 are stimulating, interesting, and unpredictable.

I still retain my interest in bowling, but golf has temporarily succumbed to other activities which were more directly related to the war effort. Rationing, Civilian Defense work, and the supervision of various recreational centers provided very worthwhile experiences. However, I am glad to be able to resume a more normal mode of living which will allow a little more leisure to devote to my family. Three sons demand a lot of attention.

Children: Christopher Holland, March 26, 1933; Cynthia Lee, Dec. 21, 1938.

Although during the last five years my work could not be strictly designated as War Service, it was certainly tangential to the Army Air Forces. As President of Knox College, Galesburg, Illinois, I was directly responsible, in 1939-40, for the establishment and direction of a large Civilian Pilot Training program on our campus, which trained hundreds of men who later became bomber and fighter pilots. Two years later this was further enlarged into War Training, and in March, 1943, the college, ordinarily a coeducational institution of three hundred fifty men and two hundred fifty women, accepted a unit of six hundred Army Air Forces trainees, who remained with us, with a rapid turnover so that approximately three thousand were trained at the college as pilots, bombardiers, and navigators, until January, 1945. Since that date the college has returned to a civilian basis, and is now back to peacetime enrollments with a large number of returned veterans.

During these years I have particularly enjoyed working with the faculty on problems in curriculum. In the fall of 1944 Knox put into effect a very thorough program of general education (preceding Harvard by at least a year) and implementing it through a system of freshman tutors which is apparently unique in American colleges. This has proved very effective educationally, and stimulating to experiment.

Every six weeks or so during the war and since I have been traveling to Washington to serve on the American Council on Education's Committee on Relationships of Higher Education with the Federal Government; President Conant was an active member of this committee, and I enjoyed my associations with him. With Provost Paul Buck I served on a committee to provide courses of study in general education for members of the armed forces.

At present I am working with President-Emeritus Donald Cowling of Carleton College on a book dealing with liberal education and college administration, which is about finished and due for publication by Harper's by the end of 1946.

On March 1, 1946, I am moving closer in to Harvard's territory by assuming the presidency of Union College in Schenectady, N. Y. The possibilities of Union, founded in 1795 and larger than Harvard or Yale during the 1830's and 1840's, with its beautiful campus, its close connection with General Electric and the American Locomotive Co. in engineering, and its long tradition of high standards in liberal education for men, strike me as considerable. All of us, however, are sorry to be leaving Knox, where we have spent ten happy years, and where we have seen many encouraging things happen.

There isn't much to report since our "Tenth." I left Wall Street in 1942 and entered the family paint business which has been very interesting, especially during the war when we confined ourselves almost exclusively to work for the U. S. Army and Navy. I spent the war years in the New York State Guard, reaching the exalted rank of Sergeant in the 51st Regiment. I have travelled considerably and seen several of our classmates in out-of-the-way spots. I continue to struggle against the New Deal (this sounds like "The Late George Apley") and its doctrines, but my life, despite this, is happy and, I hope, useful. I am looking forward greatly to our "Twentieth"!

The past five years, like the fifteen that went before, have gone too fast. Recognize the plaint? It is discouraging to recall an observation by an old philosopher I once knew: "Isn't it wonderful what you don't get done!" But it is encouraging to know that there is so much a fellow would like to do.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

After an even dozen years on the very top of Beacon Hill, in the autumn of 1943 I moved my old walnut, green-topped writing table, my books, pictures, Brahms records, and myself back to Cambridge; and here, with a good wife, I now live in sunny roomier quarters not much more than a stone's throw from the Yard. Don't go there now, but, reading in winter midnight, I sometimes seem to hear again the frosty boardwalks outside Weld creak under footsteps.

I am still performing a daily stint in the editorial department at 50 Beacon Street. Like (I suspect) some of the rest of '26, however, I do most of my living after working hours. These free hours have not realized all my dreams and maybe never will, but my complaining notes are sounded pianissimo. A decent share of the desirable tangibles and even more of the intangibles in this precarious world are still mine—and the Boston area remains an admirable place in which to live, all the more so because not too many miles away the rocks of Penobscot Bay and the slopes of the Green Mountains wait.

If my letters and Christmas cards to some of you have lapsed, know that my good wishes have not.

ALSON GEORGE DENISON

Occupation: Automobile Manufacturing—Personnel Mgr., Ass't Sec'y, Ass't Treas.

Home Address: 188 Kerby Rd., Grosse Pointe 30, Mich.

Business Address: Packard Motor Car Company, 1580 E. Grand Blvd., Detroit 32, Mich.

Married: Dorothy Herrick, Nov. 26, 1932, Detroit, Mich.

I "fit" the war at a desk at the Packard Motor Car Company. While we were not dodging bullets or otherwise parading in a uniform to the delight of the female population we felt that we made a definite contribution to the victory. It wasn't easy either. Converting to war production of aircraft engines and marine engines calling for production volumes several times greater than anything previously attained was only accomplished after consistent consumption of midnight oil and not a few nervous breakdowns, heart difficulties and general wear and tear on management health.

As the war got under way I was shifted from the comparative peace of the Secretary-Treasurer's Office to the daily chaos involved in industrial relations, taking on successively the titles of Assistant Industrial Relations Manager, Industrial Relations Manager and Personnel Manager, at the same time attempting to carry on my regular assignments as Assistant Secretary and Assistant Treasurer. While my experience in salaried personnel work had prepared me somewhat for these assignments, nevertheless, the change was substantial. Furthermore, the normal rules for finding and hiring employees, paying them and keeping them on the job all day and every day were considerably different during the war than they ever had been. We did manage to increase our employment several times up to something over 40,000 employees and despite a few major labor set-backs and innumerable minor ones production did increase consistently to the delight, I believe, of the Air Corps and the Navy PT Command. Now I'm retiring again to the peace and quiet of the Secretary-Treasurer's Office. So you see my experience is somewhat akin to the G.I.'s who is finding it different, if not difficult, to settle down to more peaceful pursuits after a few years of "never a dull moment."

My principal interests still center around my home and family and I now find more time to give to this pleasure. Efforts to develop another Barry Wood in my son, George, are not very productive. I'm afraid Harvard will have to look elsewhere for their 1952 halfbacks assuming Harvard still has an interest in football talent, and vice versa, by that time. Out here where every other one you meet graduated from the University of Michigan, where football is still a major sport, it's almost embarrassing to mention you have a connection with a member of the "Big" (?) Three. If they would only discuss scholastic standings, famous graduates, college ages, etc.

The past five years have been spent in Newark, N. J., where we have engaged in railroad reorganization work as consulting engineers and accountants. The appraisal of properties has taken us from Boston to Miami and as far west as St. Louis, Denver and Chicago. It has been hard work, and interesting, but the bulk of the work has been done, and with the advent of the war more time was spent on operations. It is there that we shall be at work primarily in the future—and it's a great field.

War Service: Army Air Corps. Entered Captain, June 10, 1942; now Lt. Col.

My activities during the past five years and since that memorable 15th reunion have been confined mostly to war service.

I received a direct commission of Captain in the Air Corps in June 1942 and continued on a full-time basis the work which I had been doing part-time in the Eastern Defense Command, principally with the Boston Fighter Wing and First Fighter Command at Mitchell Field, Long Island, New York. Our job was the control of aircraft in the vital defense area, aircraft warning, and the operation of radar for coastal defense.

I attended a couple of Army schools and completed the Combat Intelligence course at Harrisburg. I had several temporary jobs as Intelligence Officer, and came overseas in February 1944 with the 303rd Fighter Wing, operating from advanced landing bases in Southern England in the pre-invasion days. Our Fighter Wing directed and co-ordinated part of the softening up work for D-Day. An important part of our job was to "beat up" the countless number of flying bomb sites which were being prepared across the channel. In this latter, our work was not entirely effective and we found ourselves practically at the convergence of tracks 1, 2 and 3 of the flying bombs as soon as the Germans started using them. We were ordered to sleep underground, and it was a pleasure to move over to Normandy and get away from this menace.

In Normandy and Brittany we operated under the XIX Tactical Air Command, and in September, the 303rd and the 84th Fighter Wings were combined to form the XXIX Tactical Air Command and were assigned to support the Ninth Army. My particular job was Target Intelligence Officer, and it involved the selection and evaluation of targets to be attacked by fighter bombers in the support of the Ninth Army. We moved forward with the Ninth Army into Belgium and Luxembourg and operated from Southern Holland during the winter of 1944 and 1945. We were on the north of the Ardennes Bulge and it was fairly exciting there for a short period. In February we crossed the Roer, and in March the Rhine.

In April I was made Assistant Chief of Staff, A-2, and in May we celebrated VE-Day in Brunswick, Germany. We were scheduled for direct redeployment to the Pacific and moved into the American area near Munich from which we were moved to the Assembly Area Command at Laon, France. The war looked as if it were on its last legs, and most of us were not too anxious to land in the Pacific just in time to catch occupational duty.

I shall never forget a very welcome moment. I had been sent down to Cognac, France, to replenish our supply of "morale" and was flying back with a load of "Three Star" when the War Department directive came over the earphones (just as we were admiring Berne, Switzerland, from the air during a thunderstorm) halting all redeployment direct to the Pacific.

The big job of surplus property disposal came up immediately, and I have been connected with the Liquidation Commissioner since Sept. 1, 1945. My title is that of Chief of the Consumer Goods Branch, and I operate from offices overlooking the Arc de Triomphe in Paris, my favorite city. This job has been most interesting as the organization had to be built up from nothing, and is now quite a big business.

Recently I had a very interesting tour of the Scandinavian countries after a sale of our surplus property in Norway, and while in Helsinki, Finland, received a decoration of Commander in the Finnish Order of the Lion, one of the last acts of Marshal Mannerheim before his resignation, possibly accounting for the latter.

I am the recipient of the Bronze Star Medal, and our Tactical Air Command was cited by the Belgian Government and received the Belgian Croix de Guerre Fourragère. The 303rd Fighter Wing and XXIX TAC took part in the following campaigns: Air Offensive Europe, Normandy, Northern France, Central Europe, Ardennes, Rhineland.

I guess this job may last a few months longer after which time I expect to return to Boston and Cambridge.

MALCOLM LINCOLN DONALDSON

Occupation: Manufacturing—New England Sales Manager, Carbon & Ribbon Division.

Home Address: Trapelo Rd., Lincoln, Mass.

Business Address: Carter's Ink Co., 45 Franklin St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Eleanor A. Locke, Oct. 21, 1939, Needham, Mass.

Children: Robert Douglass, May 26, 1941; Malcolm Lincoln, Jr., Oct. 12, 1943; Alan Locke, Nov. 13, 1945.

Not satisfied with the textile business and the outlook at Kendall Mills (Walpole, Mass.), I left there in July of 1942 and returned to the Carter's Ink Co. (Cambridge, Mass.) and selling, this time in New England instead of the Middle West. At present I am New England Sales Manager of the Carbon Paper and Typewriter Ribbon Division.

As for my family, three boys now keep things humming at our home—and I mean humming too!

Outside interests are limited—golf, gardening, and some tennis, but I find myself improving at none of them. As Chairman of the recent War Fund Drive, Secretary of the Boy Scout Troop Committee, etc., I find odd moments well filled. Recent public appearances in a double quartette constitute my latest bid for fame.

FRANCIS EDWARD DONNELLY

JOHN COLVILLE DONNELLY

Occupation: Consulting Management Engineer.

Home Address: 10727 S. Seeley Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Business Address: E. B. Mathewson Company.

Married: Frances Jane Leddy, Jan. 13, 1945, Chicago, Ill.

Children: Kathryn Frances, Dec. 9, 1937 (by previous marriage); John Colville, Jr., Feb. 4, 1946.

In January 1942, one of our engineering clients, Pressed Steel Car Company, became so active in the manufacture of armored tanks that it became necessary for me to leave the engineering firm of Litz, Donnelly and Crampton and devote my entire time to tank production as safety director and plant engineering advisor. This program was completed in July 1945, and I returned to industrial consulting work, dividing my time between the reconversion of several machinery manufacturing plants and the administration of my father's estate.

FRANKLIN WEBSTER DORMAN

Occupation: Woolen Manufacturer—President.

Home Address: Warrenton, Va.

Business Address: Dorman Mill, Parsons, W. Va.

Married: Nancy Carr, Feb. 28, 1940, New York, N. Y.

Children: Franklin A., Apr. 29, 1927; Elizabeth Jane, Nov. 29, 1930; Arline B., June 13, 1933 (by previous marriage); Nancy Carr, Dec. 12, 1941.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieut., Aug. 18, 1942; terminated Lieut. Comdr., Nov. 21, 1945. NAS Patuxent River; Staff Commander Aircraft Northern Solomons. Stars for campaigns Northern Solomons, also Bismarck Archipelago. Executive offices of the Secretary. Assigned to Joint Chiefs of Staff for intelligence work in Germany.

As may be seen, I spent most of the last five years in the Navy. However, upon separation was able to return to the business of manufacturing woolen cloth which has been my occupation over most of twenty years. I am at present spending a good deal of time in New York where I have an apartment at 825 Fifth Ave.

HARRY GAYLORD DORMAN, JR.

Occupation: Education—Dean.

Home Address: Aleppo College, Aleppo, Syria.

Business Address: Aleppo College, Aleppo, Syria.

Married: Virginia Whitney, June 5, 1940, Worcester, Mass.

Children: Harry Gaylord, 3d, April 26, 1943; Eleanor Whitney, July 5, 1945.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

[Due to slow air mail deliveries to the Near East, Dorman was unable to return his questionnaire in time. The above information was obtained from his mother, who also wrote:

"Harry expects to come to America this summer with his family on leave. We expect them in July. Next winter he plans to be doing some study in New York, but the family will be in Worcester, and letters will reach him at 15 Trowbridge Road, Worcester 2, Massachusetts.

"This year Harry is acting president of Aleppo College in the absence of the president. Aside from his college work, he has a good deal of speaking and preaching to do.

"Aleppo is a center of Arab culture, and Harry has succeeded in gathering a group of literary men from the mosques of the city to join with some of the college teachers and meet in his house for the study of Arabic literature and interchange of ideas. This is noteworthy in such a conservative city as Aleppo."]

HOWARD NOTT DOUGHTY, JR.

Occupation: Editorial Work (The Macmillan Company); Writing.

Home Address: 216 Radnor St., Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Married: Frances M. Wilde, Feb. 24, 1934, New York, N. Y.

Children: Frances McCulloch, Nov. 17, 1940; Ellen Appleton, Sept. 8, 1945.

War Service: Civilian Instructor (Communications) USN Flight Preparatory School, Univ. of Penna.

JAMES DRUMMOND DOW

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 95 Clifton St., Belmont, Mass.

Business Address: Warren, Garfield, Whiteside & Lamson, 30 State St., Boston 9, Mass.

Married: Ruth W. Barrett, Cambridge, Mass., July 20, 1935.

Child: James Drummond, Jr., July 26, 1942.

I have continued an exceedingly unspectacular practice of law in the same firm I started with. The rest is suburban domesticity. I play the piano some; also a little golf (Brae Burn Country Club).

HAROLD CORBIN DOWNES

Business Address: Lafayette College, Easton, Pa.

Married: Katherine Dowling, Sept. 8, 1928, New York, N. Y.

Children: Philip Garfield, Jan. 25, 1932; Ellen Hastings, Feb. 17, 1935; Marcia Howell, Nov. 30, 1939.

There is no basic change in my situation since the last report except more experience with bull markets and bear markets—also the vagaries, whims and mild insanities of investors who unblushingly expect (a) complete safety of their principal, (b) an 8% return, (c) a modest capital gain of 200 or 300%. In between, I manage a little Maine, a little Florida, some suburban gardening and a few civic activities—all in all, just a normal existence for one with a Boston office, a Newton home and a growing family.

Child: Peter Cornelius, Aug. 12, 1934.

War Service: O.F.F. and O.W.I. (1942-1943).

I have kept my nose pretty close to the grindstone as Director of Research for Life, with the exception of the period when I had various brassy-sounding titles in the Bureau of Intelligence of the Office of Facts and Figures and the O.W.I. Served also on the Research Advisory Committee of the Office of Civilian Requirements and the Public Opinion Committee of the C.E.D. My principal interests include public opinion, music (anybody want to buy some songs?), books, and politics. For diversion, I belong to the Harvard Club of New York, the American Marketing Association, and the Market Research Council.

DAVID DuBOIS

Occupation: Manufacturer—Vice President, Potter County Hardwoods; Vice President, Pittsburgh DuBois Co.

Home Address: DuBois, Pa.

Married: Shirley M. Colburn, July 10, 1936, Tucson, Ariz.

Child: David C., Aug. 16, 1943.

Principal occupation during the war was as a manufacturer of hardwood timber with mills at DuBois and Coudersport, Pa. I was associated with Mr. C. A. Briggs of Scottdale, Pa., in the manufacturing of rough turned bowling pins as well as lumber. The band mill at DuBois burned in February 1945 and my activities have been transferred to getting a strip mine operation started, producing around 400 tons of coal daily. I am at present interested in gold mining in Arizona.

This personal narrative, brief and concise is
An airing of virtues without any vices,
And who would peruse an informative story,
Devoid, as is mine, of both glamour and glory?
As father of boys (and all five of them healthy)
'Tis needless to state I account myself wealthy.
In spite of the noise and the chattel defacement
(Because we are lacking a den in the basement),
We're bringing them up by the old fashioned ruling,
By guess and by God, and a struggle for schooling.
My efforts abetting the 'fore-mentioned mission
Are fraught with the perils of nuclear fission,
Concerned as they are with the market quotations,
Which leaves little time for more pleasant sensations.
However, my hobbies, it may be worth noting,
Pertain in the main to my summer time boating,
Combined with a constant pursuit of the Muses
And sundry odd jobs such as fixing the fuses.

Who now, having read, will protest with persistence
That mine is a most uninspiring existence!

Besides writing the above, I am a member of the National Security Traders Association, Boston Securities Traders Association, and International Brotherhood of Thole Warpers, Eastern Local 16.

I have also been Associate Editor of Turret Events which is the Traders' Association magazine. The Boston News Bureau, Wall Street Journal, and New York Times have printed my offerings, which have dealt with various aspects of the money market. Odd but true.

After graduation from the Columbia Dental School in 1930, there followed twelve years of dental practice in New York in association with my father. For the first five of these years, I was an instructor in clinical dentistry at the Columbia School; for the succeeding seven, I was dental director (part time) for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, managing a small clinic for the Home Office employees of that Company and doing some statistical research and consultation work as well.

The war years saw little change in my activities. The Navy was good to me, leaving me in various shore billets within reach of home. Orders to Pearl Harbor just at the time of V-J Day were cancelled, and in November, 1945, I went out "on points."

Since release from the service, a determination to re-enter the field of teaching led me to accept an invitation to come back to Boston to teach at the Harvard School of Dental Medicine and to study at the Harvard School of Public Health. A Boston dental practice may also result in time.

We live in Cambridge now, in a house next door to my wife's family home, bought as a refuge for Mae and the children at a time when overseas orders for me were imminent. This not uncomfortable old ark bids fair to become our permanent home.

"Shaping the course of world history" doesn't quite seem to describe accurately the following events: a nine months' stint in the Army as a private interviewing at Camp Upton and working in Air Corps Intelligence in Atlantic City; a year in defense work as priorities supervisor and inventory department head in a chemical plant; and finally in charge of Time Inc.'s "Service on Postwar Information" which, with the actual advent of postwar, hastily changed its stripes to Life's "Marketing Information Service"—and then expired.

Meanwhile I find it very difficult to convince certain classmates that living as a bachelor in a New York apartment surrounded by night clubs is not necessarily synonymous with a life of revelry.

My war service, I am sorry to report, was confined to membership in the Missouri State Guard from December 8, 1941, to January 1, 1946, during which time we fought two losing battles against Missouri River floods and were alerted once for a near riot. Last November I withdrew from partnership in the investment banking firm of Bitting & Co. and am presently employed as a negotiator for the St. Louis Ordnance District of the War Department in the renegotiation of war contracts.

Children: Louisa, Nov. 28, 1933; Thomas Byrne, Aug. 22, 1941.

My chief interest and activity outside of work is in writing; no tangible result yet (except for a few technical articles on advertising), but it begins to look hopeful. Of equal interest is political action (through the Citizens' P.A.C., etc.) for progressive social and labor legislation, peace, friendly relations with other members of the United Nations, etc. As for publications, I have had, in the last five years, only four articles in Printers Ink and The Journal of Marketing.

Organizations in which I have been active are many—at present I am Chairman of the Boston Chapter of the Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee and Publicity Chairman for the national conference of the American Marketing Assn. next June in Boston. In the Marketing Assn., I was National Membership Chairman and before that a Director one year and Secretary another year of the New England Chapter.

I still keep a few cattle, sheep, and Angora goats, but of late years have been shifting to turkey raising. All, in spite of good markets, have been a headache during the war, due to the well-known shortage of everything, especially labor. At the request of the government's Rural War Production Training Program I organized some classes early in the war to encourage beef production among the neighboring farmers, but most of my pupils found the defense plants of California far more alluring and profitable than their corn and cotton patches, and our country was practically deserted for the duration. My only other contribution to the war effort, besides doing my own chores a good part of the time, has been to serve as a member of the Pushmataha Co. Draft Board. I am also president of the board of the county Farmers' Co-op, and member of the board of the state Turkey Federation.

Since the last report I have spent most of my working time at the Rochester Institute of Technology teaching mechanical engineering and making plans for the laboratories of a new building which is now under construction. During the war I taught physics and radio engineering at the University of Rochester, acted as consultant on test making for the U.A.F.I., and worked on special electronic problems at the Delco Appliance Division of General Motors.

I have had a book published by Harper and Brothers, "Strength and Properties of Materials," and have acquired a son. My leisure time (?) activities include skiing, sailing, and teaching my daughter to do the same. Member of the Harvard Club of Rochester, the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and the Society for Experimental Stress Analysis.

Child: Ralph Eugene, June 11, 1941.

At the time of the last report I was living in Akron, Ohio, and working for the B. F. Goodrich Co. as an Industrial Engineer. Then came the war. In rapid succession over the next four years, for about 15 months each, I was Personnel Manager for the B. F. Goodrich Co.; Labor and Personnel Economist for Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., at Kansas City, Mo.; and Director of Industrial Relations for the Lone Star Defense Corporation at Texarkana, Texas.

As a result of my experiences in the personnel field during this four-year period, I became deeply interested in salary and wage administration and in 1943 I started to write articles on this subject for the magazine American Business. Little trees from acorns grow. After a number of articles had been published I decided to incorporate them into a book, thinking this was something I could do in two or three months. A year and a half later, during which I devoted over 1,000 hours to writing—that normally I would have spent playing golf or bridge—the book was finished. Then for the first time, a horrible thought struck me—What if no one will publish the book? Fortunately for my peace of mind, McGraw-Hill liked it and it was published under the title of "Salary and Wage Administration" in the fall of 1945.

After the war ended, I decided to go into business for myself as a Management Consultant specializing in salary and wage administration and related subjects. Accordingly, I opened an office in Kansas City last December and am now trying to solve the personnel problems of various clients. And in my spare time I am writing another book. This time, however, I have no illusions. In fact, if this second book is finished before our next reunion in 1951, I shall be pleasantly surprised.

The twentieth anniversary of our graduation finds me a Foreign Service officer of the Department of State with nineteen years of service behind me. Like my colleagues in the Service, I have been intermittently serving as Consul at different posts and Embassy Secretary at others. Pearl Harbor took place when I happened to be in charge of our office at Wellington, New Zealand. The first year of the Pacific War was at all times interesting, sometimes exciting, and occasionally dangerous. Perhaps the most interesting work was our liaison duties with the New Zealand authorities in connection with the fitting out and landing of the First Marine Division at Guadalcanal. When our consular office in Wellington became a Legation, I had the pleasure of serving under dramatic General Pat Hurley. The spring of 1943 gave me a chance to become somewhat acquainted with wartime Washington. By June of that year I was designated Consul at Edmonton, concerned chiefly with Canadian-American relations in connection with the building of the Alaska Highway and Canol Project. This called for travel of some 20,000 miles in Alberta, British Columbia, the Yukon and Alaska. Then followed in rather rapid succession duties at Ottawa, Quebec City and in San Francisco in connection with the drafting of the Charter of the United Nations Organization. As I write these lines I am in charge of the office at Hamilton, Ontario, a city and area where many well-known American industries maintain subsidiaries.

Since the last report, my outside activities have been restrained by the efforts to keep a rapidly growing business from falling apart in the face of the manpower shortage. Little change has taken place in the nature of my activities, although I have added the title of Vice President to that of Treasurer and have been elected a Director of both the Continental Casualty Company and the Continental Assurance Company. Also since the last report, I have a fourth son who is about to start on the tortuous trail of education, which, I hope, will some day take him to Cambridge.

Business Address: CSD 12 FPO, San Francisco, Calif. (aboard USS Hector).

War Service: Navy. Entered Lt. (j.g.), March 17, 1941; now Commander. Atlantic, USS Roe, 1942; Bureau of Naval Personnel before and after; Officer in charge of Planning and Production of Training Aids. Commander LCI(L) Group 65, June 1944–Aug. 1945 in New Guinea and Philippines; LCI(G) Flotilla 6, Aug. 1945–Oct. 1945. Agreed to stay on at Navy's request and flew to Okinawa, supervised decommissioning of about 150 typhoon-wrecked ships. Now hoping to be "spared" soon so I can be a civilian again. Participated in various initial landings, troop movements, special convoys, etc. Am awaiting action on recommendations for decorations.

Managed to complete comprehensive book on audio-visual aids to training, to be published soon by McGraw-Hill; Admiral Nimitz wrote introduction. Have had various articles published in Proceedings of Naval Institute and elsewhere. Greatest purely personal satisfaction in the Naval service: relieving a "regular" Captain in a command at sea—36 gunboats (200 officers, 2500 men).

Business Address: 1307 Oliver Bldg., Pittsburgh 22, Pa.

Married: Katharine Harris, Sept. 11, 1929, Salem, Mass.

Children: Elinor Lee, June 23, 1930; Jon Wells, July 3, 1931; James Harris, Apr. 19, 1934; Michael, Apr. 30, 1935; Frank Wells, Jr., Oct. 5, 1943; William Loring, Dec. 26, 1945.

War Service: Cavalry. Entered 1st Lt., March 19, 1941; terminated Lt. Col., Dec. 30, 1945.

My Army career was interesting and reasonably varied though I never came to grips with the enemy. I was always with combat outfits, but never in combat. I was successively with the 2nd, 3rd, and 6th Armored Divisions, Hq. Fourth Army, Hq. III Corps, and finally the 742nd Amphibian Tank Battalion which I commanded for a year until war's end. My only wound was a charleyhorse sustained while blocking the base path at second base in a soft ball game at Camp Cooke, California. The Amphibian Tank racket in Monterey Bay and in the breakers off Camp Cooke wasn't all child's play and there were several hair-graying thrills, but on the whole I came out of it in very lucky shape, and I'm mighty happy to be back in the practice of law, sans ribbons, sans medals, but also sans neuroses. It sometimes occurs to me that my greatest contribution was two more sons. The next war is going to be mighty full of Fays!

I am a member of the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club of Pittsburgh, Duquesne Club, and Union League Club of New York.

RAYMOND JOSEPH FEIST

Last Known Home Address: 10714½ Wilshire Blvd., Village Station, Los Angeles, Calif. (Lost.)

[Efforts to trace Feist through the Travelers Insurance Company, with whom he was associated until January 1938, were unavailing, although they did report that the above address was correct in 1944.]

DANIEL AARON FELDMAN

Last Known Home Address: R. F. D. 1, Bartonsville, Pa. (Lost.)

[According to the Alumni Bulletin of June 21, 1945, Feldman was at that time a Machinist's Mate, 2nd Class, and his address was care of the Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, Cal.]

MOSES CRONSON FERGENSON

Occupation: Finance—Statistician.

Home Address: 110-21 73d Rd., Forest Hills, N. Y.

Business Address: Igoe Brothers, Inc., 234 Poinier St., Newark 5, N. J.

Married: Ruth Leavitt, July 3, 1932, New York, N. Y.

Child: Katharine Sandra, June 26, 1934.

I continue to hold the same position that I mentioned in the 1941 Report, namely that of economist and statistician for Igoe Brothers, Inc. In addition I have added the responsibility of supervising the bond portfolio of the First National Bank of Belleville, N. J.

Child: Scott MacKenzie, Dec. 28, 1934.

ROBERT ALEXANDER FERREIRA

Occupation: Concord Electric Co.—Office Manager; Concord Steam Corp.—Treasurer.

Home Address: 137 North State St., Concord, N. H.

Business Address: 15 Capitol St., Concord, N. H.

Married: Ellen Bayley, July 25, 1931, Needham, Mass.

Children: Sandra Ellen, May 14, 1933; Catherine Jean, June 26, 1936; Ruth Bayley, Aug. 7, 1939.

In spite of passing Mil. Sci. I, I had no war record aside from the stay-at-home duties of an air-raid warden. Five years have brought me more gray hairs, a higher golf game and a lower bowling score, and a more active participation in community affairs. Drop in on your way to Hanover next fall!

RICHARD HINCKLEY FIELD

Occupation: Law.

Permanent Home Address: Sudbury Rd., Weston, Mass.

Temporary Home Address: 6202 Spruce St., Chevy Chase, Md.

Business Address: Office of Price Administration, 2nd and D Sts., S.W., Washington, D. C.

Married: Caroline Crosby, June 28, 1930, Minneapolis, Minn.

Children: Mary Hamlin, April 9, 1932; Margaret Hastings, Feb. 18, 1934; Daniel, July 26, 1938.

War Service: Office of Price Administration, Regional Attorney, Boston, Feb., 1942, to Dec., 1943; Acting General Counsel, Washington, Dec., 1943, to March, 1944; General Counsel, March, 1944, to date.

After Pearl Harbor the practice of law was peculiarly unsatisfying, and I speedily gave it up to become Regional Attorney of O.P.A. in New England. In Dec., 1943, Chester Bowles asked me to come to Washington to head the legal staff of the agency, and I accepted. Although somewhat bruised and battered, and very, very weary, I am still here, and still deeply convinced of the need for firm and intelligent control over the forces of inflation in the period of transition to a peacetime economy.

I was President of the Law Society of Massachusetts in 1944, although my departure for Washington close on the heels of my election prevented my taking a very active role in the Society's affairs. In the past year I served as Vice President of the Federal Bar Association.

One of my greatest pleasures has been the performance of my duties as Secretary of the Class in getting out previous reports. I very much regret my inability to do the job this year, and I am very grateful to Al Smith for stepping in and handling it to perfection. After having exhorted my classmates to return their questionnaires promptly and thus ease the Secretary's burden, I find myself writing this at the last possible moment before the deadline. I wonder how many of us wait until the last minute in the hope, usually a vain one, of thinking of something very clever to say.

Occupation: American Geographical Society—Member of Staff.

Home Address: 18 W. 12th St., New York 11, N. Y.

Business Address: American Geographical Society, Broadway at 156th St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Alice Withrow, April 4, 1929, New York, N. Y.

Children: Diana Sloane, Dec. 30, 1930; John Osgood, June 13, 1940.

War Service: Army. Entered 1st Lieutenant, Oct. 10, 1942; terminated Captain, Jan. 11, 1946. Training Film Production Lab.; service in U. S., Alaska and Newfoundland. 3371st Signal Photo Service Co.; service in India-Burma Theater; participated in North Burma campaign. Company awarded the Meritorious Service Unit Plaque; Bronze Star Medal.

I worked at the American Geographical Society through 1941 and until October, 1942, when called into the Army. For the next ten months I was with the Signal Corps Training Film Production Lab. at Wright Field making films for the Air Corps. This included a four months' assignment on cold weather operations in Alaska and aerial motion picture work in various parts of the U. S. In November, 1943, I was assigned to photograph winter operations of an Armored Division, but in December was transferred to an overseas photographic unit and flown to India. Spent twenty-two months in India and Burma with a photo company, the highlights of which were photographing operations on the Ledo Road, playing tennis in 115° in New Delhi, and a three weeks' leave in Kashmir. The point system got me home late in 1945. I soon returned to former civilian work and resumed worrying about the state of the world, how to reform it, and the fact that I am already a fifth of a century out of college.

Occupation: Interior Decorator and Designer.

Home Address: 92 Brooks St., West Medford, Mass.

Business Address: 11 Newbury St., Boston, Mass.

For three years I worked at the General Electric Co. in Lynn making dies for super-chargers and then for jet propulsion motors. I worked on the night shift, never getting a completely satisfactory day's sleep—in fact the entire era seemed somewhat like restless nightmare, even to the slightly bewildered wandering about in the dark for ARP. In spite of having rubbed elbows with the laboring class for three years, I must confess to being quite in the dark also concerning their general point of view. The best I can say is that most of them worked doggedly and didn't strike in our plant during the war.

November and December of 1945 I spent visiting in Jamaica, B. W. I., and made a series of sketches of tropical trees and landscapes. On my return, I opened my office at the old stand, hoping that production will soon commence, releasing goods for sale.

I am interested in the Isaac Royall House in Medford and have been made chairman of a committee which runs an annual art exhibit of local artists. Each year we have raised an amount larger than the last, toward maintenance of that excellent architectural landmark. Eventually I expect to restore it as nearly as possible to its original state.

Occupation: Municipal Bond Trader—Manager.

Home Address: 33 Fairfield St., Montclair, N. J.

Business Address: Bear Stearns & Co., 1 Wall St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Susan Mary Leach, Aug. 14, 1929, Davenport, Iowa.

Children: Howard, 3d, Sept. 11, 1930; John Rodman, Sept. 23, 1938.

Outside of the responsibility for a rather large inventory through some hectic periods since Pearl Harbor, my principal interests have been as follows:

I was a member (Corporal) of the local Police Reserve from its formation in September, 1941, until its disbandment in 1945. This unit was considered by the OCD as one of the best in the country by virtue of its training and complete equipment. During training with this corps I developed a sufficient proficiency with the pistol to become a member of its pistol team. I also coached for four years a boys' football team—6th through 9th grade! This venture which began innocently enough with a purely local schedule and minor league opposition grew to be an ambitious undertaking with the team traveling far afield playing the larger preparatory schools in northern New Jersey and including Poly Prep in Brooklyn. During two of the four seasons the boys were undefeated and untied. The coach got many thrills out of his job but found himself losing 5-7 pounds each fall and was somewhat relieved when they became eligible for the local high school squad. As a concluding bit of information, I might add that I cannot afford to lose 5-7 pounds.

Occupation: Department Store—Merchandise Manager.

Home Address: 20 Berkley Place, Buffalo, N. Y.

Business Address: Flint & Kent, 554 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Married: Erma Johnson, 1926, Brookline, Mass.

Children: Bradley, Jr., 1927; Irving Lester, 2d, 1928; Amanda, 1935.

The last five years have differed little from the ones preceding them. My children were just too young for the war and my usefulness seems to have been in War Funds, Red Cross, and Bond Drives, Air Raid Wardening and other footless activities that make you wonder "What the hell—" when they are over. But a store is a nice place to work—something that has never happened before can be counted on to occur within the next 48 hours, and the prospect keeps us young. I'll be sorry to miss the reunion but I have a standing date with some trout in Lake Temegami for the first week in June that can't be broken.

Business Address: 174 Central St., Lowell, Mass.

DAVIS FORREST FOLJAMBE

Home Address: 78 Robinwood Ave., Jamaica Plain, Mass.

ALBERT GARDNER FORBES

Occupation: Insurance—Procedures Coordinator, Home Office Planning and Procedures Division.

Home Address: 59 Bailey Ave., Watertown 72, Mass.

Business Address: American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, 142 Berkeley St., Boston 16, Mass.

Married: Virginia Tarr, May 9, 1936, Somerville, Mass.

Children: Priscilla Louise, Oct. 7, 1940; Donald Albert, Sept. 4, 1943.

My transfer from the Advertising Division to planning and procedural work occurred in the fall of 1941, a month prior to Pearl Harbor. Having been turned down for a Naval commission on account of defective eyesight, my chief interests during the war, aside from my family, were gardening in the summertime and participation in a show for servicemen, sponsored by my company and its employee association.

WILLIAM CHADICK FORDYCE, JR.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: University Club, 3605 Washington Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

Business Address: Fordyce, White, Mayne, Williams & Hartman, 506 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

War Service: Entered May 16, 1942; terminated Captain, Oct. 2, 1945. Legal Advisory Committee, Selective Service Board 25, St. Louis, Mo., up to May, 1942.

The war interrupted my comfortable routine as a St. Louis lawyer with no military training. On May 16, 1942, I accompanied many of my contemporaries to Miami Beach where the Air Forces Officers' Training School tried for six weeks to make me look like a soldier. The seventeen pounds I lost were the only tangible evidence of success in that regard. Beginning on June 27, for another six weeks the Air Forces Combat Intelligence School at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, tried to teach me to think like a soldier. On September 11, 1942, I arrived with the 305th Bomb Group of the 8th Air Force on an air field in Northamptonshire, England, as a combat intelligence officer. My primary duties were with flying crews, briefing, interrogation, and teaching subjects I had never even heard of several months before. There was plenty of excitement, in which I participated only vicariously, and many casualties, which I did not enjoy. My other activities were mostly of a legal nature, helping our personnel out of the difficulties in which they found themselves, due in part to too close association with the English.

Boston never looked so good to me as it did on August 26, 1944, when I arrived there on a Navy transport. The rest of my military service was definitely an anti-climax. I was a contract termination legal officer in the Midwest District of the Air Technical Service Command, stationed in Omaha and then in Kansas City. There I discovered to my surprise that good food and comfortable living conditions were not adequate antidotes to idleness.

I was relieved from active duty on October 2, 1945, with the rank of Captain and no decorations except two service ribbons, one bearing three completely unearned battle stars and a Distinguished Unit Citation. I am now back practicing law in the same office as before the war. I hope to be able to go to our reunion in June, unless by that time bodyguards will be required for Missourians who venture outside of the District of Columbia.

Sitting the war out with my nose to the grindstone was scarcely a pleasure. The customary round of supplementary war activities forms no base for a lively saga of adventure abroad or in Washington, D. C. Therefore, I respectfully direct your aging eye to the surrounding pages and more worthy subjects. Before you go, however, greetings!

Child: Barbara Parker, Feb. 23, 1935.

There has been no change in my activities since the last report. I am still engaged in the private practice of medicine in Somerville, Mass., and am chief of one of the medical services at the Somerville Hospital. I saw no service in the armed forces during the war, being physically sub-standard for the medical corps by reason of my old infantile paralysis deformity, but have been serving for the past five years as examining physician for the local draft board. For the past five years I have been physician to students at Jackson College (co-educational department of Tufts College). Membership in professional societies includes the American Medical Association, Massachusetts Medical Society, Somerville Medical Society, and the New England Obstetrical and Gynecological Society. I am a member of the corporation of the Somerville Hospital and the Somerville Home for the Aged and a trustee of the Somerset Savings Bank.

My business address having remained as above throughout the war, my life has been one of comparative peace. Of course a book can be—and many have been—written about one's experiences as a teacher. It has to be that—literally—or nothing, because those experiences do not readily condense themselves into a brief paragraph. Next year I have a leave of absence from St. Mark's, during which I am going to teach at Punahou School, Honolulu, as an exchange teacher with our classmate, Lawrence Daggett. This is not much of a journey compared to what so many of you have done over the last five years, but for this family it is quite an adventure.

"There are vintage classes," said Dr. Perry; and surely 1926 is one. Amid its luminaries, this little candle sends forth but a feeble beam. But Lady Luck has dealt kindly with me. To eat when hungry, to sleep when tired, to awake with a song, to enjoy leisure, each day a fresh adventure—of these I have had my share.

"The most expensive luxury in the world," a wise woman once told me, "is belonging to one's self. To remain honest is the greatest extravagance." Always a spendthrift, I have doubtless been in these things somewhat too prodigal. But let him whose life is perfection cast the first stone!

Such sins are probably rooted in a fabulous history of civilization, purporting to combine the brevity and drama of the best seller with the profundity of the scholars, a tour de force, on the last chapters of which I was about to embark when our class report went to press. This spring, after five years, I have again taken up the pen.

The intervening lapse, which might conveniently be blamed on the war, was more probably occasioned by an interested editor whom I once requested to give me a side assignment to reduce my overhead. A peculiar look came into his eyes, as though he were being confronted by a poor relation about to make a touch. This so exasperated me that I swore a horrid oath that never would I be beholden to a patron. From some years of the craft, I had learned that most successful writing is done to a pattern cut directly or indirectly by the Gods of Commerce. Thus was strengthened a growing conviction that only under absolute independence could truth be written. Whereupon, reverting to business, I became a tax specialist.

In pursuing this profession, I have been aided by my two decades of historical research which revealed only the age-old truths: corruption is everywhere rampant; and in the struggle for existence, the strong, not the good or honest, survive; and the parts of every organism, from amoebae to nations and their people, are exploited to the limit. These tragic conclusions lend to my role as champion of the downtrodden taxpayer that crusading touch nicely blended with profit, so dear to the heart of every God-fearing New Englander.

Christmas to the Ides of March is filled with tax deadlines; and life is a nightmare. Then comes spring and a chance to forsake Mammon for the Muses, under blue sky in open country, woods, or sea—in between tilts with the Revenuers.

Business Address: University of Southern California, Los Angeles 7, Calif.

Married: Violet Jane Ransome, Aug. 4, 1929, San Marino, Calif. (deceased Oct. 18, 1933); Marian Lucille Blewitt, June 20, 1940, Fullerton, Calif.

Child: Laurence Stanley, Nov. 1, 1942.

I was teaching at the Pasadena Junior College, Pasadena, Cal., when the war broke out. In the years preceding I had been teaching economics, geology, and paleontology. The war merely caused me to move over into the teaching of physics, mainly to boys entering the service. For the past two years I have been at the University of Southern California and back in the field of geology and paleontology.

I am particularly interested in the philosophical meaning of the history of life, the evolution of consciousness from primitive types as revealed by anthropology (especially in the works of such anthropologists as Lévy-Bruhl), the psychological methods of C. G. Jung and Fritz Kunkel, the anthropological and religious concepts of Gerald Heard, and the integration of the evidence offered by these studies and by modern physics as to the nature of reality, in order to build a better basis for personal and social relations than we have hitherto had.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

In October, 1942, I was ordered to report for duty as a first lieutenant, Signal Corps, to the Chief Signal Officer, who assigned me to the Army-Navy Electronics Production Agency whose function was breaking bottlenecks and getting electronic equipment produced and delivered. After about four months of this, my escape from the Pentagon Building was effected and I landed in North Africa where things began to pop. My first assignment was AMGOT, thence to Headquarters 141 Force (combined operations) and next G-2, Third Infantry Division (Reinforced). This bit of damn foolishness got me into an infantry landing craft off "yellow" beach, between Gela and Licata, Sicily, some few hours before H-hour on D-Day, 1943.

When the benzedrin wore off, I "relaxed" with AMGOT, dengue fever and yellow jaundice (three annoying afflictions) in Agrigento, Sicily, as the Allied Military Government financial expert (?) for that province.

Thence to England for the formation of SHAEF—getting ready for the big D-day, traveling around giving talks, instruction supposedly, and living through the little Blitz, V-1 and V-2 time. Next I took an intelligence tour on my own through Normandy, the rest of France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Holland and Germany in order.

Attached to SHAEF forward, I got places fast—and to fast places—like the sporting house I was billeted in in Reims (68 Rue Talleyrand for you who must know all the details). We were in such a hurry, evidently, the madame couldn't get time to close her business, so the damn thing carried on, with a sign furnished by our MP's, "Reserved for SHAEF Officers!" Vive la France! Vive le Sport!

I had some other interesting times. From SHAEF, G-2 Counter-Intelligence, I got orders to interrogate Goering, "Leyss-Inquart," Von Papen, Funk, Ley, and others of like stripe. On arriving I found "Ashcan" just being fixed for its prisoners and was the first SHAEF officer to interrogate any of them. After that came inhabitants of "Dustbin" and "Cesspool" lovely jails. Interesting times.

Meanwhile I had helped write the military government handbook and the Financial and Property Control Technical Manual for Military Government of Germany, and later Austria. I helped with the laws, orders, etc., like denazification, the control of the Nazi party and personnel, I. G. Farbenindustrie, the banks, insurance companies, etc. Redeployment time found me in Berlin as deputy director of the Division of Investigation of Cartels, etc., a major assigned to the General Staff Corps with troops and the gloating possessor of 87 lovely points (all earned the hard way—no children).

Aside from the usual charitable professional and political societies a lawyer customarily joins and the Chamber of Commerce of the State of N. Y., I belong to the United Hunts Club (England) and am wrestling with the foundation of the Jedburgh Mission Society.

Permanent Mailing Address: 39 Catalpa Ave., Lynbrook, Long Island, N. Y.

[Gardener did not return a questionnaire due to the fact that the above address is no longer valid—at least, the envelope was returned to the Editor. He is not being considered a “lost” man, however, as he is known to have been in the Service as late as October 20, 1945.

The following information has been gleaned from the records of the Harvard Alumni Bulletin:

In February, 1944, he was in the specialized training program at Rutgers, New Brunswick, New Jersey. In August of that year he left the U. S. A. and at that time was on combat duty. The March 31, 1945, issue of the Bulletin contained a long letter from Gardener, at which time he was overseas with a Field Artillery Battalion and was still a Private First Class. He wondered if he were the only Private in the Harvard ranks; most of the Harvard men he met were high-ranking officers. While at Rutgers, he studied Spanish and Spanish history, only to have as his first assignment overseas that of teaching French. He saw combat continuously in Belgium, Holland, and Germany. At the time of his letter his Artillery outfit were extremely careful with their elevation because they did not want to hit the Russians on the other side. In the issue of October 20, 1945, his address was given as A.P.O. 562, New York City.]

Business Address: Massachusetts Hospital School, Canton, Mass.

Married: Helen Elizabeth Mary Diedrich, June 10, 1941, Chicago, Ill.

Child: Thomas Henry Matthew, Feb. 21, 1945.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant (MC), Aug. 28, 1940; terminated Commander (MC), April 27, 1946. Air Force Atlantic Fleet; Citation for flight safety work.

My first duty was at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, in Aug., 1940, where I was assigned to a Pilot Selection Research Project headed by Dr. Alexander Forbes and Dr. Ross A. McFarland of the Harvard Fatigue Laboratory. Continuing for ten months, the project consisted of a variety of physiological and psychological tests given to over 1,000 cadets and the results correlated with their performance in Flight Training. The combined intensities of Flight Schedules and Ground Training Syllabus were already exacting an increasing toll of emotional upsets among the cadets, and I found myself doing informally a considerable volume of psychological adjustment work. The needs were great and the efforts well spent.

After four months of elementary flight instruction and Aviation Medicine, I was designated a Flight Surgeon and assigned in Oct., 1941, to Oxygen—High Altitude Training conducted in low pressure chambers. In 1942 I was given charge of this Division. Here our problem was to maintain effective instruction at a period when the number of flight personnel under instruction was at its peak. With three chambers running at full capacity, each month about 2,500 men were trained for altitudes of 28,000 feet, and another 1,400 for ceilings up to 35,000 and 40,000 feet.

During this same year the number of aircraft accidents and deaths in both training and operational commands was rising rapidly and exceeding many times losses in combat. The often heard explanation "statistically inevitable" reflected the fatalistic attitude of many responsible for training. Investigations were frequently carried out by people selected on the basis of availability and often inexperienced in this field. In July, 1943, I proposed the setting up of Aviation Safety Boards and by 1944 these boards were authorized for all except Combat Commands. Each consisted of Crash investigators, Medical, Survival, and Air/Sea Rescue Officers, integrated in their work by a Senior Member and Statistician. Proficient accident investigation, crash-injury correlation, and critical studies in survival and rescue techniques became possible on a basis of organized specialization, leading to lowered accident rates and various improvements in training, equipment, etc. Much of this work was advanced without the support of orthodox line officers.

I was Flight Surgeon to Marine Bombing Squadron 433 in Cherry Point, N. C., for a few months and assigned to the Staff of Commander Air Force, Atlantic Fleet, at Norfolk in June 1944, where I remained in full-time Flight Safety Work until released to inactive duty.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

1943-45 in 26th Inf. Div. Hqs. as G-2 Section Technical Sergeant (Intelligence NCO, Asst. Chief Clerk, and Aerial Photo Interpreter).

Participated VI Corps N. E. Maneuvers of Summer 1941, VI Corps and First Army Southern Maneuvers in N. and S. Carolina of Fall 1941, Atlantic Coastal Patrol under Eastern Defense Command N. E. Sector 1942, Second Army Tennessee Maneuvers of Winter early in 1944. Attended several Regimental and Division Schools (Combat Intelligence), and Military Intelligence Training Center (Grad Staff Section Photo Interpreters' Special Course).

Served in European Theater, leaving Ft. Jackson, S. C., via N.Y. P.O.E. August 1944 for Normandy in first convoy to land a division directly U. S. to France in World War II, participating in campaigns "Northern France," "Rhineland," "Ardennes." Cited with Bronze Star Medal "for meritorious service in connection with military operations against an enemy of the United States . . . throughout the offensive of the 26th Infantry Division in the area east of Nancy, France, from October 6, 1944, to December 12, 1944, etc." After service on the "bulge" front in Luxembourg from December 20 through January, evacuated to U. K. in February-March (1945), and returned to Continent under Reinforcement Command serving as casual NCO with provisional companies of reclassified combat veterans in France and Belgium en route to Germany. Participated in Germany occupation, assigned to 32d Gen. Hosp. Hqs. (in Aachen) duty as General Clerk, during Summer 1945 while awaiting delayed emergency return to U. S. (on the necessity, indicated when notification eventually reached me of my father's passing late in January 1945, for my presence back home to carry on in the management of the business in which I was formerly with him). Shipped LeHavre to Boston late September, received honorable discharge October 3 ("round-trip" completed, back where I started from in March 1941), Camp Edwards, Mass.

As for other connections, I am still nominally a member of The Maugus Club (Wellesley Hills), Wellesley Country Club, and The Honorable Order of Kentucky Colonels. Oh yes, more recently—lest I forget—the YD Memorial Club of Boston and YDVA.

I have a brother in college, George C., Jr., ex-class of '43, just returned from 4 years leave of absence in the Army, spent with a division which operated in three Pacific campaigns and occupation in Japan.

Still in the investment business—not quite so still the last few years. During the past five years I have continued very much along the line of previous activities. I have been with Hayden, Stone & Co. since graduation, and a few years ago became a partner. In that way I can work longer and have more reason to assume a larger part of the headaches. Needless to say, with increased market activity and a still reduced personnel, I would not say that I have had “time on my hands” lately.

My only war activity, if such it could be called, was signing up as an auxiliary fireman in our town department. Previously I attended fires for the thrill of watching—now I get the thrill plus a chance to participate officially. The usual activities in a comparatively small town, such as Red Cross, Community Fund and an active Boy Scout interest, seem to fill my spare hours so that life is never dull; especially with three sons, ages 15, 9 and 7, to keep my free time occupied.

War Service: War Production Board, Sept. 1942 to July 1943.

The quinquennial report found me at work for Columbia Gas & Electric Corporation. I took a leave of absence from that company to go to Washington as a Special Assistant to the Director General for Operations of the War Production Board, where I devoted much of my time to determining the extent to which the war effort would be aided by a program of concentrating industry in a manner similar to that which had been adopted in England. Fortunately such a program was found to be ill-adapted to conditions in the United States. I then shifted my attention to the scheduling of "critical common components" which were all wanted at the same time for the high octane gasoline, the synthetic rubber, the destroyer escort, and similar programs, not to mention what I then knew only as the Manhattan Project, and was one of the authors of General Scheduling Order M-293, which probably affected directly or indirectly many of my classmates, and to which their reactions were undoubtedly mixed. It was a hectic experience, but one which I look back on with a good deal of satisfaction.

In July 1943 I left WPB to undertake a study for the sixteen major domestic airlines of the market for the movement of cargo by air. This study involved field surveys in thirty of the major metropolitan areas or cities, during which some hundred field men recruited mainly from the staffs of the airlines analyzed the shipping requirements of several thousand retail, wholesale, manufacturing and service establishments, as well as shippers and receivers of perishables. An interesting statistic from this study is that the work involved the recording, tabulation and analysis of approximately 500,000 separate shipments or receipts.

I went back to the utility field in April 1945 as Treasurer of Electric

Bond and Share Company. While my work currently is devoted mainly to the functions of the Treasurer's office, which includes a great deal of time in Philadelphia with the Securities and Exchange Commission, I have been able to retain an active interest in airlines and market research work through one of the company's subsidiaries, Ebasco Services Incorporated, which renders technical and consulting services to public utility and industrial companies.

Business Address: 84 State St., Boston 9, Mass.

Married: Estelle Lowenstein, March 28, 1933, Brookline, Mass.

Child: Carl Allen, Feb. 9, 1934.

War Service: Army Air Force. Entered Pvt., Jan. 6, 1943; separated Cpl., Sept. 26, 1945.

Up to January 6, 1943, I was associated in the practice of law with the law firm of Mark M. Horblit, Esq., Boston. Just before I left for the Army, I finished a long technical legal article which was published under the name of "The Scope of Review and Requests for Rulings in Equity Suits" in the Boston University Law Review, vol. 23, January, 1943, No. 1, pp. 66-106.

In January, 1943, I joined the Army as a private. I was sent to West Virginia University where I studied advanced mechanical engineering under ASTP. From there I was sent to Greensboro, North Carolina, where I became Director of Lecturers. Then I was sent to the Aviation Mechanics School at Gulfport Field, Mississippi. On March 29, 1944, I was graduated as an aviation and engine mechanic. Then I attended the B-24 bomber (Liberator) school which was an adjunct to the Ford Plant at Willow Run, Michigan. I graduated from that school on May 30, 1944. From June 1944 to September 1945, I worked for the Troop Carrier Command on the line as a full-fledged (skilled) airplane and engine mechanic, in the repair and maintenance of C-47 and C-46 cargo and troop transport planes, at Bowman Field, Louisville, Kentucky, and Baer Field, Fort Wayne, Indiana. At the latter field, I also delivered orientation lectures. I was discharged from the Army on Sept. 26, 1945.

At the present time, I am associated in the practice of law with the same law firm but at a new address, 84 State St., Boston. I am now a member of the Committee on Amendment of the Law of the Boston Bar Association. I am also the Judge Advocate of the Boston Metropolitan Post No. 1 of AMVETS and the Judge Advocate of the "American Veterans of World War II, AMVETS—Department of Massachusetts."

The problems of war have been uppermost during the last five years, and the hospital field has been no exception. However, we have managed to meet the health needs of the public with fewer doctors and nurses and a lower grade of general help through a cooperation of effort. Many of our former staff are now returning and we look forward to more stable conditions. Outside activities which have developed during these years include: Director and Secretary-Treasurer, Merrill Coal Co.; Director and Secretary-Treasurer, Frozen Industries, Inc.; Director and President, Logan Paint Co. For relaxation as well as assistance from the food standpoint has been maintenance of the family farm where we have grown an abundance of vegetables, fruits and grains, and have kept sizable numbers of cattle, cows, hogs, sheep and chickens. At home we have been blessed with the addition of another fine son, Class of '65.

War Service: Army. Entered 2nd Lieut., Dec. 29, 1942; separated Captain, Nov. 1, 1945; Staff of the Quartermaster General, Washington. Also served as Civilian Consultant to War Dept., Jan. 1942 to Dec. 1942.

Five years ago (Feb. 1941) found me still in New York in retail store work at Bonwit Teller. I was married in April of that year as per statistics above. After the outbreak of the war I accepted a consultant's job in the War Dept. at, as it turned out, a desk next to Jerry Bliss. This was in the Office of the Quartermaster General where I was fortunate in being assigned the highly interesting job of clothing and equipping Army Task Forces, Overseas Operations, Special Missions, etc. This was cloaked in a degree of secrecy that led to my being commissioned so I continued in the same job in uniform. To plan for the supplies for an amphibious landing, to rush the last-minute shortages of shoes, helmets, cartridge belts, etc., to troops about to embark was at times hectic and harassing, but I wouldn't have missed it.

Received my discharge at Camp Lee, Va., last November and am now in business deep in the South in partnership with a fellow officer. We manufacture women's and children's slips, nightgowns, sun-suits,

After eight years as harem-master in Wellesley College, I passed on, in September 1940, to Princeton University. There I conducted the choir, did some teaching, and played the organ in the University Chapel (commonly known as the "White Elephant"). After a couple of abortive (thank God!) tries at an Army commission, I became connected with "Training Within Industry," a branch of the War Manpower Commission, engaged exclusively in war work. Acting first as a trainer in various industrial plants, I then became Assistant Director and later Director of Job Relations Training for the state of New Jersey. A splendid opportunity to gain an insight into the ethics—or lack of them!—of the average business man! Since the agency folded, last September, I have been living in the Sunny South, taking a year off to lick my wounds and restore my faith in human nature.

Married: Buzya Rich, Sept. 12, 1932, New York, N. Y.

War Service: Volunteered for Armed Forces—Rejected. Served on Selective Service Board.

In 1928 I entered the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, from which I received, in 1932, the degree of Rabbi, Teacher, and Preacher. As became the cloth, I married some three months later a young lady, Buzya Rich, who had come to Newark via Russia, Germany, England and Ellis Island. That same year I assumed the position of Rabbi at the Beth-El Synagogue, Waterbury, where I have been for the past fourteen years. In 1936 I was a member of a delegation that traveled to the World Jewish Congress at Geneva, Switzerland. In 1939 I represented the Zionists of America at the World Zionist Congress in Switzerland. I have served as a member of the Executive of the Rabbinical Assembly of America, as well as the National Executive of the Zionist Organization of America. Articles written by me have appeared in the Anglo-Jewish press. The years 1941 to 1946 were, as with most people, dedicated in great measure to War service and relief activities.

Children: Shirley Carter, March 9, 1933; Anne Seguenot, Nov. 9, 1936.

Harvard Class of 1926

There has been no change in my business connections, nor any in my family status since the issuance of our last report. And it is uncertain how long I shall continue to be, as I have remained up to now, a week-end commuter between New York and Baltimore, a journey which by this time seems little more than long enough to read the papers.

LEROY WHITNEY GROSSMAN

Occupation: Banking—Asst. Vice President.

Home Address: 8224 N. Gray Log Lane, Milwaukee 11, Wis.

Business Address: Marine National Exchange Bank of Milwaukee, Milwaukee 1, Wis.

Married: Dorothy Nickerson, June 16, 1927, West Hartford, Conn.

Children: Thomas Whitney, April 29, 1929; Leroy Whitney, Jr., Dec. 29, 1931; Richard Parker, May 9, 1934.

My activities in the last five years have included the following:

Clubs: City Club of Milwaukee, Fox Point Club, Harvard Club of Milwaukee (President), Harvard Business School Club of Milwaukee, University Club of Milwaukee, Milwaukee Bond Club (Director).

Community Service: Milwaukee County Community Fund and Council of Social Agencies (Member), Family Service of Milwaukee (Vice President, Director), Stark Hospital (Treasurer, Director), Fox Point School (Treasurer, Director), Milwaukee Country Day School (Secretary, Director), Milwaukee County Association of School Boards (Vice President), Milwaukee Friends of Music (Treasurer, Director).

Teaching: Marquette University, College of Business Administration (Lecturer on Investments); American Institute of Banking (Instructor in Finance).

Publication: Book "Investment Principles and Practice," published by Longmans, Green & Company.

Professional: Wisconsin Bankers Association (Member Credit Council), American Finance Association (Advisory Council).

War Agencies: Community-War Chest Campaigns (Chairman of General Solicitation for Milwaukee County), Milwaukee County Committee Russian War Relief (Treasurer, Director), Wisconsin War Finance Committee, War Price and Rationing Board, Air Raid Warden.

War Service: U. S. Coast Guard; Public Relations.

EDMUND DERBY HAIGLER

Occupation: Instrument Engineering—Manager Application Engineering.

Home Address: 12 Huntington Ave., Sharon, Mass.

Business Address: The Foxboro Company, Foxboro, Mass.

Married: Oleta Fowler, Oct. 12, 1929, Lakewood, Ohio.

Children: Edmund Derby, Jr., May 22, 1936; Sarah Ann, Jan. 17, 1940; Richard Fowler, Oct. 23, 1941.

War Service: Civilian Scientific Consultant, Technical Industrial Intelligence Branch (Joint Chiefs of Staff), July 19, 1945, to December 17, 1945, European Theater of Operations.

In a critical war industry, the last five years have provided plenty of engineering to occupy and interest me. I have worked on problems from plasma and penicillin all the way to alcohol and aluminum, and of course with just a touch of the atom bomb to be up to date. Continuing my work in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, I was chairman of the Instrument Division this past year. Recently I became a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and of course I attend the Harvard Engineering Society when possible.

As an antidote for engineering I joined the Sharon Fish and Game Club. Also I am chairman of the parish committee of the local Unitarian Church, and member of the board of a joint Sunday school enterprise.

Suddenly last July I was in uniform and aboard the clipper for London, and the next five months were spent on industrial intelligence work involving extensive survey, interrogation, and interpretation in Germany, with visits to France, Belgium, Holland, and Switzerland. Another brief visit to London permitted looking up a friend from 1927 Exchange Fellowship days, and saying Hello and Goodbye to our London plant where during V-bomb time there had been as many as 33 trips to the shelter in one day. Then home again by plane in time for Christmas with the children on the family farm in Ohio. Several hundred pictures, some in color, form an intermittent record of the trip as time and weather permitted.

PRENTIS CARNES HALE

Occupation: Public Utilities—Treasurer.

Home Address: 410 South Grand Oaks Ave., Pasadena, Calif.

Business Address: Southern California Edison Company Ltd., Los Angeles 53, Calif.

Married: Janet Lindsay Clark, Nov. 25, 1933, Santa Barbara, Calif.

Children: Linda Monroe, Nov. 30, 1941; Thomas Lindsay, Dec. 2, 1944.

My principal interest is my two children and the home they so richly bless. I work-out regularly with my weights; play badminton; ride; play volleyball, and work in the yard. I have to keep “young” enough to enjoy my children and I do not know of any good games that are played in a rocking chair.

Business Address: 743 High St., Dedham, Mass., and 262 Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Isabella Hopkinson, Nov. 25, 1930, Manchester, Mass.

Children: Elinor, Jan. 23, 1932; Thomas Addison, Oct. 8, 1933; Charles Hopkinson, Oct. 2, 1936; Isabella, May 8, 1938.

War Service: Army (Medical Corps). Entered Major, May 15, 1942; terminated Lieutenant Colonel, Jan. 19, 1946. 6th General Hospital, Casablanca, Morocco; Rome and Bologna, Italy. HQ Fifth Army for seven months near Florence, Italy. Overseas service consisted of 15 months in Morocco and 15 months in Italy. Legion of Merit.

Since the last report I have been in the Army for $3\frac{1}{2}$ years but am now reconverted, doing about the same type of medical practice as before, namely internal medicine in a medical group in Dedham. I am interested in functional illnesses and in disorders of the gastrointestinal tract in particular. I am on the staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital and of the Faulkner Hospital and am an Assistant in Medicine at the Harvard Medical School. I have published a few papers before the war and also during it.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

My war service consisted of nine months of organized boredom at an Army camp in Florida, but was followed by good breaks overseas. I was a member of the 6th General Hospital which had stations at Casablanca, Rome and Bologna. For seven months I was attached to the Fifth Army in northern Italy. Here I was engaged in directing a Gastrointestinal Center in forward areas where physical and psychiatric factors were evaluated in soldiers with stomach disorders. This had considerable military value because if patients with such disorders were sent back to rear hospitals for extensive studies they were generally lost for further combat service.

As in all Army units, there were long periods where there was nothing to do, professionally. In this I was exceptionally lucky in being in Morocco where I lived with a French family and made some good friends, finding that people are the same no matter what the nationality. I also ate a few of the best meals I have ever had in an Arab household, the method of eating being strictly limited to the fingers. I visited most of the cities and found it a fascinating country. In Italy I was lucky enough to be in Rome, Florence, and Bologna so there was plenty to see and do when unoccupied.

The education of my four children gets more and more expensive year by year so that sometimes the responsibilities of again being a civilian seem overwhelming.

HERBERT MOORE HAMBLÉN

Occupation: Attorney.

Home Address: 711 Plateau Rd., Spokane, Wash.

Business Address: Hamblen, Gilbert & Brooke, Paulsen Bldg., Spokane, Wash.

Married: Helen Whitehouse, Sept. 16, 1933, Spokane, Wash.

Children: Laurence H., March 20, 1938; Catherine F., July 22, 1941.

I have devoted the greater portion of my time during the past five years to the general practice of civil law, with emphasis on probate and title matters, and with a fair amount of trial work. I have enjoyed a little politics, serving two terms in the State Legislature as a member of the minority party. I have also served as a trustee of the Spokane Community Welfare Federation, as President of the Board of Directors of the YMCA, and as chairman of our local Labor-Management Committee. I can still assure my classmates that the West is the best place to live, although (selfishly) I regret that so many others are increasingly arriving at the same conclusion!

CHARLES LEWIS HARDING, JR.

Occupation: Textile Factoring—Vice President and Director.

Home Address: Split Rock Rd., Syosset, Long Island, N. Y.

Business Address: Meinhard, Greeff & Co., Inc., 51 Madison Ave., New York 10, N. Y.

Married: Marie Parish, Oct. 31, 1930, New York, N. Y.

Children: Charles L., 2d, Jan. 29, 1934; Edward Parish, Jan. 6, 1936; Marie, Nov. 13, 1941.

War Service: Navy (S.C.). Entered Lieutenant, Sept. 14, 1942; terminated Lieutenant Commander, Oct. 15, 1945. Stationed at Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, Washington, D. C., until May, 1945, and then at Army-Navy Purchasing Office, 111 East 16th St., New York, N. Y.

Before joining the Navy in 1942, I was with my present company, Meinhard, Greeff & Co., Inc., textile factors, as assistant vice president handling their various mill accounts and soliciting new business. During the spring of 1942, I attempted to get a commission in whatever branch of the Service would take me in and the first opportunity was offered by the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts in Washington to take charge of the purchasing of the Navy's woolen piece goods and blanket requirements. I started as a civilian employee in August, 1942, and got my commission a few weeks thereafter. I stayed on this job for the entire period of the war. I was located at Washington except for the last six months when our buying unit was transferred to New York City. My purchases ran around $100,000,000 a year and I had up to 85 different woolen and worsted mills operating for the Navy during that period.

After getting out of the Navy on October 15, 1945, and taking a vacation in Florida, I went back to my old company as vice president and director.

I belong to the Racquet & Tennis Club, the Harvard Club, the Manhattan Club, and the Merchants Club. I continue to play quite a lot of squash and tennis.

Occupation: Lawyer, General Counsel, Office of Economic Stabilization.

Home Address: 1628 30th St., N.W., Washington, D. C.

Business Address: Office of Economic Stabilization, Washington, D. C.

Married: Mary Jane White, Dec. 3, 1932, Glens Falls, N. Y.

Child: Elizabeth Tyson, May 27, 1943.

War Service: Associate General Counsel for Price, Office of Price Administration, June 1942 to Oct. 1945; General Counsel, Office of Economic Stabilization, Oct. 1945 to date.

I have been trying for four years to help hold down your and other people's prices and costs—an activity which some of you no doubt think has become superfluous but which still seems to me important. Important, however, does not mean pleasant, and I look forward with eagerness to returning to law teaching in the fall.

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 2001 East Eleventh Ave., Denver, Colo.

Business Address: 420 Equitable Building, Denver, Colo.

Married: Jane Kelsey, Oct. 19, 1935, Salem, Mass.

Children: Katherine, June 5, 1938; Sarah Jane, May 14, 1940; John Jerome, Jr., March 14, 1944.

During 1937 I was Senior Attorney, Office of the Chief Counsel,

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Bureau of Internal Revenue. In 1938 I became associated with Henry McAllister in the practice of law. In addition to this association I am now acting as Secretary of the Reorganization Committee of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Company.

In 1942 I was successful in the Democratic primary for the Colorado Legislature, but was defeated in the election, 51,416 votes to 50,795. In 1942-43 I was President of the Rocky Mountain Harvard Club. I am now enjoying my twenty-fifth winter of skiing.

THERON MACDOWELL HATCH

Occupation: Dentist.

Home Address: 97 Ardsmoor Rd., Melrose, Mass.

Business Address: 12 Porter St., Melrose, Mass.

Married: Mabel Tukey, Feb. 12, 1935, Somerville, Mass.

Children: Victoria Ann, May 8, 1938; Theron M., 3d, Dec. 16, 1939; Stephen Lindsay, Feb. 14, 1941; Christopher Tukey, June 6, 1942.

During the last five years my chief activity has been taking care of the needs of a rapidly growing family. On the side, I have continued my activities in local politics and at present am serving my eighth consecutive year as alderman from our ward in the Melrose City Government. I have been elected to this position in four city elections, the last three times unopposed. This political experience, especially for a professional man, has been very interesting and educational. As with most of us, however, my major activity has been with the home and family.

ALFRED HOLL HAUSER

Occupation: Banking—Trust Officer.

Home Address: Old Hollow Road, Millburn, N. J.

Business Address: Chemical Bank & Trust Co., 165 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Married: Helen Bassett, Dec. 24, 1926, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Children: Joan, Jan. 19, 1929; Mary, Feb. 23, 1930; Edward, Dec. 28, 1937.

There has been little change in my activities since the last report. I have expanded the field of operations to include membership on the local board of education and have added paddle tennis to the curriculum as an offset. Investments continue to intrigue me, especially when they go up. My family spent the last few summers in the Poconos, where I enjoyed sailing a small boat. It is hard to believe that my older daughter will enter Wellesley next fall.

Business Address: P. O. Box 156, Kentfield, Marin County, Calif.

Married: Anna Walcott, June 27, 1931, Marblehead, Mass.

Children: Martha Walcott, Aug. 3, 1932; Sarah Bourn, Aug. 21, 1934; Francis Bourn, Jr., Aug. 30, 1937.

War Service: Army Corps of Engineers. Entered Private, Nov. 11, 1942; separated Corporal, June 26, 1945. Good Soldier's Medal following "Battle of America"—an interesting and awakening experience flavored with moments of boredom.

THEODORE DWIGHT HAZEN

Occupation: Merchandising.

Home Address: 2400 No. Deere Park Drive, Highland Park, Ill.

Business Address: Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill.

Married: Jean McLean, May 17, 1931, Goderich, Ont., Canada.

Children: Theodore, Jr., Aug. 10, 1937; William James, Dec. 5, 1942.

During the past twenty years I have been engaged in the sales and merchandising of various imported and domestic commodities. My activities have afforded an opportunity for extensive travel, which has been both interesting and enjoyable. I find life very pleasant with a happy little family, situated in a comfortable home on a bluff overlooking the restive waters of Lake Michigan.

HERBERT EMANUEL HEDBERG

Occupation: Physician.

Home Address: 40 Drury Lane, Worcester, Mass.

Business Address: 36 Pleasant St., Worcester 8, Mass.

Married: Leone Beryl Irish, Oct. 6, 1928, Boston, Mass.

Children: Stephen Emanuel, 1929; David Leigh, 1931; Richard Bancroft, 1933; Nancy Leone, 1935.

War Service: Army Medical Corps. Entered Capt., Oct. 21, 1942; separated Capt., May 17, 1943.

After a brief but pleasant vacation in the Army from Oct. 1942 to May 1943, I resumed the practice of obstetrics and gynecology in Worcester. Because of the acute shortage of civilian doctors, my life since that time has been just one baby after another and there has been no time for extracurricular activities. My only outside interest at the present time is concerned with the Harvard Club of Worcester of which I am now President—not a very difficult job since we have only two meetings a year.

All of my work is done at the Worcester Memorial Hospital where I hold an appointment as Obstetrician. I am a member of the following medical societies: American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology; Boston Obstetrical Society; N. E. Obstetrical and Gynecological Society; Mass. Medical Society, and the American Medical Association. My hobbies are golf and bridge to which I devote as much time as possible at the Tatnuck Country Club and the Worcester Club.

EARL WENTWORTH HEMMINGER

Occupation: Physician—Eye, Ear, Nose, Throat Specialist.

Home Address: Uniontown, Pa.

Business Address: Uniontown, Pa.

Married: Evelyn Cromwell Chenoweth, Jan. 2, 1937, Ellicott City, Md.

War Service: Navy. Lieutenant Commander; still in service outside U. S. A.

[The above information apparently came from someone at Hemminger's last address, presumably not a member of his family.]

Married: Louise Erdman, May 25, 1929, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Children: Harold Erdman, Apr. 30, 1933; Charles Belknap, Jan. 25, 1936.

War Service: Deputy Director of the Territorial Office of Civilian Defense during 1942.

My community activities include being president of the Honolulu Community Chest; trustee of the Honolulu Blood Bank; director, Hawaii Chapter American Red Cross. My business connections include being vice president and director of the Ewa Plantation Company, Honolulu, the Waialua Agricultural Co., Ltd., Honolulu, the Kohala Sugar Co., Honolulu, and the Hawaiian Pineapple Co., Ltd., Honolulu, as well as director of the Hawaiian Trust Co., Ltd., and the Coca-Cola Bottling Company, Ltd., both of Honolulu. I am a member of the Pacific Club, Hawaii Polo Club, the Outrigger Canoe Club, and Wai-ala-e, all in Honolulu, and the Pacific Union in San Francisco.

KENNETH ATWOOD HENDERSON

Occupation: Investment Counsel.

Home Address: 238 Chestnut St., West Newton, Mass.

Business Address: Cromwell & Cabot, Inc., 80 Federal St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Elizabeth Berry Marshall, June 10, 1944, Cambridge, Mass.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieut., Sept. 3, 1942; separated Lt. Comdr., Jan. 27, 1946. Aleutian Islands and Naval Air Station, St. Simon's Island, Ga. Served in various administrative capacities at N.A.S. and N.O.B., Adak, Alaska, for 18 months; later stationed at N.A.S., St. Simon's Island, Ga.

In spite of the war, our existence has not changed much during the last five years.

A baby (our third boy) arrived in 1943, which shook us somewhat out of our middle-aged lethargy.

In 1941, we organized two additional businesses, the Yardley Plastics Company and the S. & W. Moulding Company, the first to manufacture various types of moulded plastics, the second to merchandise and manufacture plastic and metal mouldings. Fortunately, both of these have prospered.

During the war, we made a transition into a large percentage of war orders and completed thirty-nine prime contracts, mostly with the Air Corps. We produced such items as oxygen testing kits, photographic developing and printing kits, carbon monoxide testing units.

To the previous list of clubs has been added an active membership in the Big Brothers Association, with a splendid "little brother," and Y.M.C.A. Boys' Work Board, of which I am Chairman.

Our eldest boy (Frederick, 3d) was too young for active duty, but enlisted in the Navy, with a First Class Seaman's rating, since he passed the Eddy test and was scheduled for radar training. Now, however, he is located nearby, in Toledo, and is able to commute home almost every week.

CHARLES WELLESLEY HILLARD

Occupation: Publishing.

Home Address: 3506 Byron Ave., Nashville 5, Tenn.

Business Address: Longmans, Green & Co., 55 Fifth Ave., New York 3, N. Y.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

War Service: My Army service can be best described by quoting from a Satevepost poem, "An insignificant cog was I in the Service of Supply." Was at the Army Air Base, Lincoln, Neb., for about a year; then at Consolidated-Vultee in Nashville, which was a good break because I could live at home. Had no training, and did not even go through a Separation Center when discharged. All very unmilitary.

Have now returned to the pleasanter atmosphere of college textbook publishing.

Children: Anne Carolyn, Feb. 9, 1931; David Lawrence, April 12, 1935.

War Service: U. S. Engineers Office, New York District.

I reported five years ago that my clientele was broadening, but a year or so later it was narrowed down again to one client, the U. S. Army Engineers, one of whose civilian employees I became at that time. I supervised the construction of some large industrial camouflage projects, and later handled administrative work on contracts for military construction, all in the New York area. As this was a major embarkation point, plenty of construction was needed, and we had a busy office until early in 1944. By that time the program was about completed and things tapered off, so I opened a New York office and returned to a private practice consisting largely of residential alterations, but also including some industrial and commercial work. Now, things are busy—on paper—and if we finish with strikes and shortages, we'll be building on a big scale.

Politically, I again tried to tilt with the R—— City Committee, this time by running for Councilman last fall, but they are still the "entrenched majority," and I was not elected. Confidentially, it was not even close.

My favorite avocation has become gardening—defense, victory, or post war.

CECIL NORMAND HOAGLAND

Occupation: Machine Tool Manufacturing—Production Engineer.

Home Address: 119 Sterling Pl., Bridgeport, Conn.

Business Address: Bullard Company, Bridgeport, Conn.

Married: Frances Lindstrom, Oct. 10, 1931, Bridgeport, Conn.

Children: Nancy Jane, May 30, 1936; Mary Elizabeth, June 26, 1937.

Harvard Class of 1926

In the spring of 1942 I left the Lindstrom Company, and went down to Brooklyn to the Murray Manufacturing Corporation as Manager of their 60mm Shell Division. By reason of commuting daily between that city and Bridgeport, I became very well acquainted with the New Haven Road, Grand Central Terminal, and the subways; and during the next three years devoted myself to working and riding the rails. Late in 1944 I had the opportunity to come back close to home, to the Bullard Company, where I am now moving along as Production Engineer, with the overall responsibility, through the departments under my jurisdiction, for manufacturing methods and the selection or design and fabrication of the necessary equipment and shop tools. Actually, for the past several months I've been concentrating on pulling our new machine models through production, and then putting them through their paces.

Memberships: American Society of Mechanical Engineers, American Society for Metals, Alternate Representative of the National Machine Tool Builders Association on the American Standards Association Council, Harvard Club of New York City, Brooklawn Country Club of Bridgeport.

GEORGE HOAGUE, JR.

Occupation: Terminal Leave.

Home Address: Larchmont Acres, Larchmont, N. Y.

Married: Irene Hardy, Oct. 18, 1943, Lanslan, England.

Children: Daphne, July 3, 1930 (by previous marriage); George, 3d, Oct. 18, 1945.

War Service: Royal Navy. Entered Lieutenant, Aug., 1941; separated Lieutenant, Oct., 1942. U. S. Navy. Entered Lieutenant, Oct., 1942; separated Lieutenant Commander, March 7, 1946. E.T.O. Invasion of France. Legion of Merit, Croix de Guerre.

CARROL JAMES HOFFMAN

Occupation: Investment Securities—Partner.

Home Address: 35 Vineyard Rd., Newton Centre, Mass.

Business Address: Draper, Sears & Co., 53 State St., Boston, Mass. {

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Married: Evelyn Baird, Nov. 14, 1921, Chicago, Ill.

Children: Harriet Baird, Oct. 28, 1931; Carrol Julian, Jan. 28, 1933; Rollyn, Jan. 2, 1940.

The last five years have been rather uneventful compared with those of my classmates who have been directly involved in the war. However, as a partner of Draper, Sears & Co. (Investments), I have had the interesting job of "keeping the home fires burning" for five partners who were in the Armed Forces. As it turned out the home fire burned more brightly than when they were home and I have just had the pleasure of welcoming them home to their old jobs again and turning over to them a business several times as large as when they left.

In politics I have just retired from six years as Alderman in Newton with the strong conviction that very few people can be interested in fighting to maintain good government until it gets really bad. Things are rapidly approaching that stage in Newton. I hope to spend some time in the next few years in trying to persuade leading citizens that Newton should adopt the City Manager Plan. I hope we can succeed before the situation gets as bad as it did in Cambridge. How about some volunteers from Newton residents of the Class of 1926?

SIDNEY HOFFMAN, JR.

Occupation: Florist.

Home Address: 16 Addington Rd., Brookline, Mass.

Business Address: 490 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.

Married: Audrey Franklin, Sept. 5, 1932, Boston, Mass.

Children: Barbara Carol, March 19, 1934; Paul Franklin, Jan. 30, 1937.

I am still the Class of 1926's only florist. Since our last report I have moved to a new location on Back Bay's Commonwealth Avenue, where I try to take care of Boston's need for flowers for weddings, births, anniversaries and coming-out parties (now that the war is over). I have just opened a branch shop in the Hotel Somerset, Boston's newly reopened place for the ultra-smart people to gather (advt.). I am a member of the Mass. State Guard, Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts, the Luncheon Club of Boston, and am District Representative of the Florist Telegram Delivery Association.

RAYMOND CLIFTON HOLGATE

Occupation: Leather Manufacturing—Merchandise Controller.

Home Address: 3336 Divisadero St., San Francisco, Calif.

Business Address: Zinke Renewing Shoe Corp., 1183 Market St., San Francisco, Calif.

Married: Helen P. Ahola, July 3, 1942, San Francisco, Calif.

The last four and a half years have been occupied with the mundane and silly business of "earning a living." However, a new vista has opened up and the spiritual and significant business of "helping others" has become a passionate and all-consuming avocation.

ALVA MUNROE HOLLANDER

Occupation: Advertising Agency—Partner.

Home Address: 161 W. Forest Ave., Arcadia, Calif.

Business Address: Welsh-Hollander, 412 W. 6th St., Los Angeles, Calif.

Married: Helen Tomey, Feb. 15, 1940 (second marriage).

Children: Alva L., 2d, Feb. 11, 1929 (by previous marriage); Theresa Anne, Dec. 2, 1933 (by previous marriage); Susan Wrightington, Sept. 12, 1945.

Not much to tell, I'm afraid. After being turned down for war service by the Navy, Army and Coast Guard, I joined the Night Watchmen's Clubs: State Guard, Auxiliary Police, etc. My only other contribution to the Great Effort was in advertising and publicity for the local salvage campaigns. I am in the advertising agency business in Los Angeles, under the firm name of Welsh-Hollander, Advertising. My pleasures are tempered to my years: fishing, gardening, a little tennis—and two martinis (usually). My present interests: holding the waistline, and getting back to Cambridge in June; University Club; director, Harvard Club of Southern California.

Sudden thought: The "forties" are not so dreadful as they seemed!

IRA METCALF HOLMES

Occupation: Research Engineering—Supervisor Carburetor Laboratory.

Home Address: 4120 Commonwealth, Detroit 8, Mich.

Business Address: Chrysler Corp., Engineering Division, 12800 Oakland, Detroit 31, Mich.

Married: Harriet Lewis, April 4, 1931, Detroit, Mich.

Child: Mary Katherine, June 2, 1934.

Some of you are not so fortunate as I. For fifteen years I knocked around in a variety of jobs and now I have the kind of work that I think I have always wanted. Research in automotive carburetors includes a multitude of problems and I look forward to many interesting years. I will promise that we will do our best to give you all 50 or 60 miles to the gallon.

ROGER WELLINGTON HOLMES

Occupation: Education—Professor of Philosophy.

Home Address: 3 Stanton Ave., South Hadley, Mass.

Business Address: Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass.

Married: Louise Taylor, June 30, 1933, Chicago, Ill.

Children: Adria, April 28, 1935; Janice, Sept. 11, 1938.

In 1945 I was promoted to Professor of Philosophy at Mount Holyoke College and for two years have been chairman of the department. My major contribution to the war has been training officer candidates in cryptography and cryptanalysis for the Army and Navy; wish I could tell about the grand job they did on the German and Japanese messages. Like other rural 4-F's, I also went in for Victory gardening. In the spring of 1945 I was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Eastern Division of the American Philosophical Association and member of the National Board of Officers. I still enjoy my family and my teaching and Life much more than this would suggest.

CARL HOLZHEIMER

Occupation: Finance—Investment Counsellor.

Home Address: 825 S. Linden Ave., Highland Park, Ill.

Business Address: 135 S. La Salle St., Chicago 3, Ill.

Married: Harriet Freiberg, Jan. 6, 1930, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Child: Arthur, March 17, 1932.

I have been in the investment counselling field for the past ten years with Security Supervisors. As a partner of that firm, I have had frequent occasion to consider Taussig's "other things being equal." The fact that they never are has provided interest and a successful business life.

Occupation: Journalism—Assistant Financial Editor.

Home Address: 9 Ravine St., Arlington, Mass.

Business Address: Boston Herald, 80 Mason St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Charlotte Lloyd, April 27, 1935, Arlington, Mass.

Children: Rosamond, Jan. 5, 1938; Stephen William, Feb. 25, 1941.

War Service: U. S. Treasury War Finance Committee, Nov. 1942 to Dec. 1945;
State publicity, War and Victory Loans.

War service has been without glory and also without brass. It consisted of War Bond cajolerie for radio, bond shows and scores of Massachusetts newspapers by day, and supervised publication of these pleas in at least one newspaper by night. A lot of GI's seemed pleased, come the end of the month. Found time for a couple of magazine articles. Sand wedge and putter have given way to rake and hoe and strangely enough they produce stuff we can eat. No more than normal family worries, but then, my offspring are not yet teen-agers. Newspaper editing, and the inevitable interesting people, take up the rest of the waking hours, with occasional time off for sleep.

Married: Lydia Lee Smith, Oct. 26, 1935, Ilion, N. Y.

Child: Anne Mowbray, Dec. 13, 1938.

In every group of 100,000 people there is generally one person foolish enough to think that the people really want better government. Accordingly, in 1942, as chairman of the Plan E Committee and with the aid of other similarly deluded citizens, I successfully sponsored a change to the Plan E form of city government. As the most modern city charter, Plan E (Cambridge papers need not copy) provides for a city council elected at large by proportional representation, which body in turn elects a mayor and city manager. In 1943, brandishing my radio script in one hand and my cigarette holder in the other, I succeeded in being the second highest candidate for the city council in a field of 100. In January, 1944, I was elected mayor by a majority of the city council. By virtue of this elevation (?) I became chairman of the city council and school committee, and official head of the Spindle City.

Faced with a job that would require the combined talents of Pericles, Horace Mann and Grover Whalen, I tried to raise a standard to which the wise and honest could repair. Such an appeal, in this day and age, has its distinct limitations, but I persevered with the obstinacy which, unfortunately, is my outstanding characteristic.

During 1944 and 1945, a good part of my time was spent battling referendum petitions, mandamus petitions, and other less subtle forms of abuse, including an abortive attempt by certain members of the council to throw me out of office. Quaere: what price municipal reform? Perhaps Lowell (not to be confused with A. Lawrence) is allergic to Harvard men. There hadn't been a Harvard man as mayor since 1882, so you can imagine what condition the city was in.

Despite all this, I put on weight and November, 1945, found me again submitting my ego to the indignities of public appraisal. Thanks to the Australian ballot, I was reelected with the highest vote received by any of the 59 candidates. This time, however, I was too strong meat for my brother councillors, who relieved me of the extra duties of mayor. Sic transit gloria mundi.

I shall always take pride, if I may, in the following portion of an editorial which appeared in the Lowell Sun, an independent Democratic paper:

"We would be remiss in our recognition of public service should we fail to say a word in tribute to the out-going Mayor, Councillor Woodbury F. Howard, who, in the past two years, has devoted himself to municipal business on a full-time basis, probably neglecting many personal affairs because of his zealous attention to public responsibilities. Both as Mayor and Councillor, Howard constantly showed that the City of Lowell was uppermost in his mind, that he had the courage of his convictions and that he considered his public office a sacred trust."

1946 finds me taking things easier, no longer the Atlas of my little universe. Final Observation of a Sadder and Wiser Man: If my experiences with human depravity are any example, the theory of evolution is no compliment to the ape family.

NATHANIEL SALTONSTALL HOWE

Occupation: Stock Brokerage.

Home Address: East Main St., Oyster Bay, Long Island, N. Y.

Children: Margaret Barclay, Aug. 7, 1934; Nathaniel Saltonstall, Jr., May 24, 1937; Barclay Gardner, Sept. 1, 1941.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant (j.g.), June 1, 1941; terminated Commander, Dec. 6, 1945. Atlantic—Caribbean—Convoy Escort duty. Shake-down Staff work. Submarine chaser and large amphibious vessels.

After four and a half years of active duty in the United States Naval Reserve, I am presently enjoying the more pleasant and less strenuous routine of civilian life. I am a member of the Harvard Club of New York.

THOMAS CARR HOWE, JR.

Occupation: Art Museum Director.

Home Address: 2345 Hyde St., San Francisco 9, Calif.

Business Address: California Palace of the Legion of Honor, Lincoln Park, San Francisco, Calif.

Married: Francesca Deering, April 9, 1932, San Francisco, Calif.

Child: Francesca Deering, Dec. 9, 1937.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieut., Jan. 28, 1943; separated Lt. Comdr., March 23, 1946. Hq. Western Sea Frontier; U. S. Third Army, Hq. U.S.F.E.T. Frankfurt, Germany.

After attending Indoctrination School at Tucson, Arizona (February–April, 1943), served as War Diary Officer and substitute Aide to Commander Western Sea Frontier until April, 1945. In May, 1945, went to Germany as a “Monuments, Fine Arts & Archives Officer” with G-5, SHAEF. Have just returned (March 22) to the U. S. and am about to resume my civilian work as director of one of San Francisco’s two municipal museums. During the last four months of my activities with the Monuments, Fine Arts & Archives program in Germany, was Deputy Chief of the Section with headquarters in Frankfurt-am-Main.

Children: Annelisa Hurst, July 3, 1937; Edward Allen, March 5, 1940.

No war service. Rejected for debilitation by all branches. Remained home to assist in the siege of Taunton and Camp Myles Standish—no eight-hour shift! Commission as surgeon in Emergency Unit set-up of U.S.P.H.S. Principal efforts directed toward trying to get a better set-up for care of patients in Taunton—little discernible progress in ten years. Sidelines have included a term or two as head of a small private school for children in first years of schooling (founded by Mrs. Hubbard); membership in Rotary, which has been very active in community progress, director of local new Association of Commerce; membership on a small committee which was instrumental in changing the Commonwealth's legal situation regarding river pollution. Involved in personal campaign to rectify the lighting of public schools in Taunton. All of these I recommend to those who yearn for activity as being stimulating and extraordinarily educating.

Since our last report, there is little new to add. We are all five years older, have more grey hairs, and more worries. And World War II has made us all realize the insignificance of man. I regret I have no war record. Both the Army and Navy turned me down physically because of impossible ears. Therefore, my life has gone on although not in the exact same pattern, but along the same general lines. The brokerage business under President Truman has improved. The answer pure and simple, although Economics A did not teach it to us, is "Inflation." How long it will continue is a difficult question. "Labor & Capital," the present headliners, will eventually agree, much to loss of labor and with but little if any gain to capital. For labor must understand that capital is the savings of labor. But enough of this.

My daughter, Carolyn, is at Colorado College in Colorado Springs, preparing for the Harvard Medical School. My son, Tom, is at Browne & Nichols, preparing for Harvard where he should be a member of the Class of 1960. We still live in Cambridge in the winter and Swampscott or Marblehead in the summer. Occasionally I see some classmates—those in the security business; a great deal of Lee Todd and Harding Newman, who are also members of the Boston Stock Exchange, so that I have not lost complete track of the Class. My principal interests are still my family and my business. We belong merely to the Beach Club in Swampscott and the Corinthian Yacht Club in Marblehead. I have written nothing except a few letters to friends in the Armed Forces who should have had many more. I am still a strong Republican and take a good deal of interest in Cambridge politics where we are doing well under Plan E.

Best of luck to all the members of 1926, and here's hoping for a peaceful world in our remaining years. So on to our 20th—

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant, Dec. 22, 1942; terminated Lieutenant Commander, Feb. 22, 1946. Naval Training School (Indoctrination) Staff, Quonset Pt., R. I.; Narragansett Group, Eastern Sea Frontier (minesweeping), Newport, R. I.; Secretariat, Joint Chiefs of Staff, Washington, D. C.

The last three years in the Naval Service have provided an interesting interruption in the routine of life in and around New York City. In fact, an Indoctrination school is an excellent place to find one's long-lost College and Law School classmates. (Jack Maher and Charlie Platt were fellow officers with me on the staff at Quonset.) Although my assigned duties were disappointing from a "See-the-world" point of view, I was fortunate in having my family with me at all times, and we have had the experience of living in three different communities—and of trying to carry on the children's education while moving in the middle of each school year. Without any lack of appreciation of the kindness of many neighbors in East Greenwich, Newport, and Washington, I may say that we enjoy being home. Now I am in the process of resuming the practice of law at the old stand, where my partner has been valiantly holding the fort. Commuting on my railroad seems a barbarous practice, but I suppose will soon again be automatic, requiring only semi-consciousness. In the summer I hope to do some sailing and cruising, which I shall be less rusty at than I would have been if Bob Barton had not given me a life-saving week last summer on his boat in Maine. I am afraid that all I did for the war was to push a pencil. I pushed it a very long distance, but it was seldom that anybody had time to read, let alone digest, the end product of a great deal of hard work.

Harvard Class of 1926

As director of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, I was asked to supply all sorts of information about the sea to the Armed Services. Much Government money was poured into the laboratory and much research was undertaken. It is still too early to assess all this activity. In fact, it is still in progress. However, I would judge that some advances were being made in science, but that these had rather little effect on the war. It is evident that we frequently made the mistake of thinking that research could be done quickly. In a few cases we were able to make practical applications of existing knowledge in rather short order, but most of the research effort is only now beginning to bear fruit.

ERNEST ISELIN, JR.

Occupation: U. S. Naval Attaché, Belgrade, Yugoslavia.

Home Address: Davenport Neck, New Rochelle, N. Y.

Business Address: 31 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant, May 17, 1942; still in the service, Commander. U. S. Naval Air Station, Olathe, Kansas; Patrol Bombing Squadron 112, French Morocco and England; Naval War College, Newport, R. I.; U. S. Naval Attaché, Belgrade, Yugoslavia, with rank of Commander, USNR.

Following graduation from Harvard, I took a trip lasting eight months to India, Ceylon, Egypt, Greece, and Turkey before joining the banking firm of Lombard, Odier and Cie., Geneva, Switzerland, and later the firm of Guinness, Mahon and Company, London, England. I returned to New York and joined the banking firm of A. Iselin and Company in November, 1928, and I was a partner in that firm until its dissolution in 1936, at which time I became manager of the foreign department of Dominick and Dominick, New York, N. Y. I resigned from that firm in January, 1942, at which time I put in my application for a commission in the U. S. Naval Reserve. In addition, I was Treasurer and Director of the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal Company, Indiana, Pennsylvania; Director of the Mahoning Investment Company, Indiana, Pennsylvania; Treasurer and Director of the Adlin Corporation, New York, N. Y.; Treasurer of the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary; Director of the Southern Railway Company; Director of the Manhattan Storage Warehouse Company; and Director of the Neptune Realty Company, New York. I am a member of the Knickerbocker Club in New York City and the Travellers Club in Paris.

War Service: Flight Captain on transpacific schedule with Consairways, flying contract for Army Air Transport Command. Starting with a delivery flight of a B-25 bomber to the Dutch in March, 1942, when we were not sure whether we could beat the Japs to Australia or not, I continued to fly the Pacific throughout the war, carrying freight, mail, corporals and generals to Australia, New Guinea, Guadalcanal, and Manila. By VJ day I was told that my 97 crossings of the 7500 miles of water represented the largest number any pilot had to that date. Although we lost about five per cent of our personnel from enemy action and operational accidents, nothing exciting ever happened to me; I can't imagine why my hair is turning gray at the temples.

Married: Katherine F. Wescott, Feb. 17, 1934, Ripon, Wis.

Children: Susan, Nov. 19, 1934; Elizabeth Jane, May 2, 1939; William Wescott, Sept. 8, 1943.

I continue, as I have for the last ten years, to be a general newspaper reporter for the Capital Times, Madison, Wis., a crusading sheet of somewhat radical leanings. I am also, it seems, perennial president of the Madison Newspaper Guild, a CIO union of newspaper employees.

I made a major change in my way of living in the fall of 1943 when I bought a farm nine miles from Madison and moved to its somewhat primitive accommodations. Now I milk the cows, and care for chickens, sheep and pigs before and after the day's work as reporter. Most of the field work is done by a neighboring sharecropper, but I pitch in at haymaking and harvest time. I have also achieved elective office, being treasurer of the district for our one-room school, which is painted white, not red.

Occupation: Manufacturer of precision balances and weights.

Home Address: 72 Barrow St., New York 14, N. Y.

Business Address: Voland & Sons, Inc., 32 Relyea Place, New Rochelle, N. Y.

Married: Madeleine Goldsmith, Sept. 29, 1933, New York, N. Y.

War Service: Army. T/4, Signal Corps, Army Experimental Station, Pine Camp, N. Y.

After my discharge from the Army in June 1945, I took a job with the exporting firm of Dayton, Price & Co., Ltd. I intended to enter some business of my own as soon as possible, but wanted to get the feel of civilian and commercial life again before branching out for myself.

In January, my brother, James C. Jacobson '21, and I purchased Voland & Sons, Inc., for over fifty years manufacturers of fine precision balances and weights. This product is used by university, school and industrial laboratories, chemists, physicists, assayers, and jewellers.

I enlisted in the Army in December 1942 and was assigned to the 552nd QM Railhead Co., attached to the Armored Force at Ft. Knox. There, I had my basic, specialty and unit training all together. I was transferred from there to OCS at Camp Lee, Va. Unfortunately, an eye injury hospitalized me for nine weeks, after which, though still classified as "general service," I was not permitted to continue at OCS. The QM School picked me up and until March 1944 I taught field supply. I was then transferred to the Army Experimental Station at Pine Camp, N. Y., which was working on a new, "top secret" development. Details of this work, although some have reached the public, are still tabu according to the War Department. However, it was an interesting, constructive job, and as Army assignments go, a pretty good one.

My recreations still consist of bridge, golf, and the Yale football game. The rest of my spare time is taken up, as before, with the fight against fascism which is now more of a menace at home than abroad.

Children: Elizabeth Adams, Aug. 22, 1935; Katrina Allen, Nov. 15, 1938; Bronwen Adsit, Aug. 26, 1941.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant, June 17, 1942; terminated Lieutenant Commander, October 22, 1945. On the staff of the Chief of Naval Air Operational Training, Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla.

During the past five years I have spent some forty months in the Navy, almost all of which were spent in Florida. After receiving my commission in June, 1942, I was ordered to Pensacola to attend the Officer Instructor's School in Aviation Gunnery. Upon completion of this course, I was retained at Pensacola to instruct in that school. After about a year of this I was appointed a member of the Aviation Gunnery Training Standardization Unit, and soon afterwards I was made Officer in Charge of this Unit and put on the staff of the Chief of Naval Air Operational Training at Jacksonville. This job was concerned with the training of aircrewmen—the testing of new equipment, the publishing of training manuals and training film, development of new special devices, etc., as well as a good deal of traveling to the various training units on the East and West Coast and in the Hawaiian area. I also served on a joint Army-Navy-RAF-RCAF standardization committee which aimed to standardize the training of gunners in all branches of the Service.

I am now glad to be back at my old job at the Belmont Hill School—this time as a non-resident master. We are enjoying the life on our “farm” (14 hens and 2 rabbits) in Lincoln, and look forward to the summers of travel such as we used to enjoy before the war.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant, June 15, 1942; terminated Lieutenant Commander, Nov. 1, 1945.

Like those of so many other classmates, my activities since our fifteenth reunion have been largely devoted to the war effort.

I enlisted as a Lieutenant in the Supply Corps of the Naval Reserve in June, 1942, and reported to the Boston Navy Yard where I was assigned to the Ship's Outfitting Section of the Supply Department. In December of that year orders came through transferring me to the Staff of Commander Service Force Atlantic Fleet. I found myself Supply Officer of a newly formed Pre-Commissioning Board whose function was to supervise the progress of construction, outfitting and personnel training of minesweepers and other types of Auxiliary Vessels being constructed in shipyards of the northeastern section of the country, which were scheduled to report to Commander Service Force for duty.

Having accomplished its mission by March of 1944, the Board was dissolved, and I received orders to the USS Graffias AF(29) for duty in connection with its fitting out and to serve as Supply Officer when commissioned. The Graffias was a fourteen-thousand-ton refrigerated provision ship, designed for fleet issue. We operated in the Pacific for a year. I was relieved in August, 1945, and was at home on leave on VJ-Day. Having sufficient points, I was returned to inactive duty early in September.

I am now back with the S. D. Warren Company in their New York office and was fortunate in being able to find a suitable place to live in nearby Bronxville. I have joined the Harvard Club of New York.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

March 27, 1943. Served in the 87th General Hospital Unit, Battle of Fort Devens, Lovell General Hospital Area. Received Honorable Discharge with Ruptured Duck.

The past five years have been devoted to making up for a lot of lost time. Within this short span of years I have acquired a very superior, small, and entirely satisfactory family. I enlisted as an ambulance driver with the rank of private, and got out to continue my war effort as a 2nd Class Learner Electrician in the Quincy Yard of the Bethlehem Steel Co. It was a long but rather interesting grind from 4:30 a.m. to about 4:30 or 5 p.m., commuting from Concord to Quincy. During my term of service in the shipyard, I chose to be a wartime scab rather than join a wildcat strike and suffered through several rather exciting days afterward. And I am delighted to be able to state that so far, at least, I have not been compelled to pay tribute to anyone for my right to work. My exposure to and observation of Labor Union methods and practices is not the sort to win friends, even though it may influence politicians. At Sub Signal, first we were madly trying to meet the heavy demands for electronic equipment—Radar and Sonar—which we never seemed able to do. Now, after madly trying to reconvert while the Government was busy terminating its contracts, we are finally caught in the entanglements of merging our company with a nearby concern. I can and do sympathize with the squirrel in a revolving cage. In the meantime, I take considerable pride in the splendid fruit that Plan E is bearing in Cambridge and Lowell. These municipalities are enjoying a renaissance of civic virtue that seemed impossible five years ago; and now Boston may follow suit! Who knows—this may be another example of that ancient proverb about the great oaks and little acorns, or do coming events cast their shadows before? Anyhow, since the newspapers have dubbed me “the father of Plan E (the Cincinnati Plan) in Massachusetts,” I have not ceased being proud of this, my first offspring. In spite of my supposed parentage, the voters of Cambridge did not see fit to put me on the City Council in the years 1941 and 1943.

War Service: Fought in Battle of Washington. Started working for Alaska Branch on Army Air Forces mapping program in Dec., 1941, and am still at it.

In Sept., 1941, my Ph.D. dissertation, "Trias at New Pass, Nevada (New Lower Karnic Ammonoids)" appeared in the Journal of Paleontology. Shortly after Pearl Harbor the Government engaged me as an Engineering aid. In Dec., 1942, an addition to our house was completed and our fourth child arrived. My father died in Washington and my father-in-law in France, both in July, 1943. My mother-in-law had died a short time before, after first fleeing the advancing Germans but later returning to their home in Le Havre. My sister-in-law later had the house brought down about her ears. She was excavated from the basement after two hours under the ruins, without a scratch.

I have been made a director and vice president of two family companies. These duties are carried out along with my duties as a Government employee. Directors meetings cut into annual leave, rather a hardship during the six-day week, I thought.

Occupation: Merchandising—Division Realty Manager.

Home Address: 51 Ward Parkway, Kansas City, Mo.

Business Address: Safeway Stores, Inc., Argyle Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Married: Catherine Wittig, Sept. 1, 1934, Northport, Mich.

Children: Stephen Bond, Feb. 6, 1938; Christine Murray, Sept. 1, 1939.

For nine years after college I worked as a property manager for the Bay State Land Co., a management concern for Boston investors. A year in politics beginning the campaign to rid Kansas City of Pendergast followed. A six-months stretch with the N.R.A. finally sent me back to real estate as Assistant Loan Supervisor for the southwest district of the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company.

During the war I helped coach my school baseball team—an example of the stress of the manpower shortage. Since then I've been running the mortgage business by day and running a dormitory for my school at night—Whew! Now comes normalcy, a week at a new job as location manager for Safeway Stores—a large Western grocery chain.

As might be gathered from the above, my hobbies are young people and their development, my family, of which I am very proud, and building model boats, which is apparently an expression of a suppressed desire to be near the sea on which I was born ages ago.

During the past five years I have little to report in the way of high adventure in far places. I stayed at home, acquired two children and considerable gray hair. I wore a uniform on Tuesday nights in the New York State Guard (51st Regiment, Headquarters & Service Company) and on Monday and Wednesday nights helped others into a uniform (where the facts seemed to indicate that such course was appropriate) by acting as a Government Appeal Agent on a local draft board. Anyhow, I'm expecting to get to the Twentieth Reunion and see if the rest of the boys look and act their age.

War Service: Office Chief Signal Officer, Price Adjustment Section—Oct. 1942 to Jan. 1945.

At the inception of hostilities I was residing with my family across the Potomac in Virginia and commuting to Washington where I was a member of the Loomis, Sayles & Co. Investment Counsel staff. As war activities invaded the city, I, like most of my friends, got the desire to do something. A trip to the Navy Department Enlisting Bureau came to naught because of my allergic tendencies during hay fever season. Thereafter I somewhat reluctantly suppressed my capitalistic investment counsel philosophy and undertook the renegotiation of excessive profits as a member of the Signal Corps staff. Though a thankless grind, my experience proved intensely interesting and the satisfaction of having a small though essential part in the war effort provided adequate compensation. Eventually the operation was diversified through regional offices and the work in Washington dwindled. Consequently, in February 1945 I assumed my duties with the group of fire insurance companies known as the Fire Association of Philadelphia. The responsibility of managing the investments of these companies has kept me well occupied during the past year, particularly so since the period has included the headaches of a family migration, battles with real estate brokers, decorators and other obstinate types such as grocers, butchers and local telephone company autocrats.

Children: Anson, June 27, 1935; Robert, July 19, 1937 (by previous marriage).

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant (j.g.), Feb. 1, 1941; terminated Commander, Nov. 4, 1945. Pre-Pearl Harbor (Atlantic); Atlantic Duty; Pacific Duty; Europe and Mediterranean Duty; participated in the occupation of Guadalcanal and in the invasion of Southern France.

For the past five years I have been in the Navy, most of the time afloat. My first command was the AN 23 in which I went from Cleveland, Ohio (1941), to the South Pacific, being relieved out there in June, 1943. My next duty was as executive officer on the DE 699 U.S.S. Marsh (no connection with Jordan Marsh) and later as C.O. We were on Atlantic convoy duty and for five months in the Mediterranean with the Destroyer's 8th Fleet. I was relieved in San Diego in Nov., 1944, while on the way to the Pacific and assigned as executive officer to the U. S. Naval Training School at Purdue University in Lafayette, Indiana. That was welcome duty after being afloat for so long.

Since leaving the Navy, I have been going through the agonies of readjustment and recently became associated with an organization which is planning the consolidation of a group of stores. I am looking forward to staying in one place for a long time and, incidentally, to the quiet of civilian life.

Graduating from Harvard Law School in 1929, I was admitted as an attorney in New Jersey in 1930 and as a counsellor three years later. My practice has been varied, interesting and increasingly active. More recently I have been associated, on behalf of the Public Commission supplying water to Passaic Valley, in proceedings involving the condemnation of water rights and matters ancillary thereto.

Having been born in New Jersey, I returned to make my career, and am now rooted here firmly enough to make it highly probable that, together with my wife and family, I shall remain here as long as I can. In our spare time, though, we have traveled about a good deal and expect to continue doing so.

War Service: Red Cross Field Director. Served in the South Pacific, most of the time in the Solomon Islands, with headquarters at Tulagi Naval Base and the Russell Islands.

In June 1943, I was given leave of absence from my teaching to volunteer for unlimited Red Cross service. Upon completion of a brief period of indoctrination, I was assigned temporarily to Scott Field, and then in the fall of 1943, transferred to Romulus Army Air Field just outside of Detroit. After three months there, I received my orders to report to Washington and clear for overseas duty. Our party of 40 Red Cross personnel arrived in Noumea, New Caledonia, in March of 1944. In due time I was sent to the Russell Islands and after ten months there I was transferred to the Tulagi Naval Base. Upon my return to the States in the summer of 1945 I was asked to take over the position of Veterans' Counselor for the city of Ann Arbor, Michigan. My leave of absence has been indefinitely extended to carry on the work of veterans' counseling.

As I presume with most of us, the past five years have passed by for me with amazing swiftness. My years with the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company, from 1933 to 1945, were quiet, happy, and pleasant. But last year I felt it was time to seek new fields of endeavor and so left New England for fast-growing, hustling, boastful Texas. I had been in the Real Estate Department with the Massachusetts Mutual and had traveled over a good part of the United States on business duties. This wandering led me in time to Texas and I was duly impressed with its continuing growth and business possibilities. So I left Springfield, Massachusetts, in June, 1945, and moved 2,000 miles to San Antonio, to enter the real estate business for myself. Then in December of that year I received an offer to come here to Houston to be with this firm of Hester & Wise, Inc., the outstanding commercial real estate concern in the Southwest. So we wind up in Houston, a "red hot" business city, growing fast, and within ten years destined to grow to a million population (at least, so the local folks would have you believe). Have just bought a new home here and hope soon to join a country club, provided the waiting list is not too long. Our winter and spring weather is grand, much better to us than the rigors of cold New England. Summers will be hot, but I hope to install air conditioning in my new home, provided strikes will be over soon.

Twenty years out of college! They find me with thinning hair and

The machine tool industry during the pre-war and war years was strenuous and exciting; and it was gratifying to have a share in a number of the important developments that helped bring victory. I was particularly concerned with the numerous applications of Keller Machines in war industries, handled all Lend-Lease and other export sales for my Company, and was a member of the War Production Board Rotary File and Bur Industry Advisory Committee. At the end of 1944 I made a trip through the Latin-American countries to establish sales connections, and a few months ago was appointed Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Sales of the National Machine Tool Builders' Association. In the social and philanthropic fields I managed to take on more responsibilities than I had time to perform comfortably. I served on the Budget Committee of the Greater Hartford Community and War Chest, in a number of capacities in the Hartford Jewish Federation which raises funds for overseas relief, on the Hartford U.S.O. Council, and for the last several years I have been Chairman of the Executive Committee of National Refugee Service. Clubs include Tumble Brook Country Club, Harvard Club of Connecticut, and Harvard Club of New York City.

During the past few years, I have come to feel at home in Newton and hope to stay here indefinitely, still maintaining, however, my interest and activity in my New Hampshire associations. Bad eyes kept me out of the Navy, and, ironically, lack of knowledge of admiralty law kept me out of the Army; so I joined the Newton ARP in June 1941 and had to confine my war work to those domestic efforts in which so many shared. Just now, I am President of the Oak Hill District Improvement Association, a responsibility from which I may be gently relieved at its annual meeting in April. For somewhat longer, I shall be a member of the Vestry of the Church of the Redeemer, Chairman of its Church School Committee, teacher of a class of boys, and occasional singer in the choir. I continue a director and the vice president of the Woodsville (N. H.) National Bank and for some time have been director of a few and clerk of several corporations—most are small, but there are those that love them. My practice is in brief suspense. On leave of absence from Sherburne, Powers & Needham, I am acting as Executive Secretary of the Boston Bar Association. As such, I handle many grievance complaints, watch legislation, edit the monthly Bar Bulletin and generally try to justify the ways of lawyers to mankind, and vice versa. However, by June the Association will no doubt have found a secretary for a term of years and restored me to such of my clients as could wait a time in patience—or did not realize I had gone!

The last five years have been spent in the mute and inglorious business of helping St. John's to stay afloat despite the stresses of war upon the student body and the attacks of the United States Navy, which covets our 18th-century campus for the Naval Academy. In spite of everything, the St. John's program of Liberal Education has survived and some flickering reflections of the light it has shed upon the educational world may be discerned in the recent Harvard report on General Education in a Free Society.

ARTHUR GUSTAVE KING

Occupation: Medicine—Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Home Address: 3416 Brookline Ave., Cincinnati 20, Ohio.

Business Address: 701 Union Central Bldg., Cincinnati 2, Ohio.

Married: Marthe Leftovith, July 24, 1931, Boston, Mass.

Child: Angela Paula, June 14, 1941.

War Service: Army Medical Corps. Entered Major, Aug. 4, 1941; terminated Colonel, April 17, 1946. 29th Division during 1941 manoeuvres; Americal Division, Jan. 23, 1942 to Nov. 1, 1942, New Caledonia; observer with 1st Marine Division, battle of Guadalcanal, Oct. 1942; Headquarters, Service Commands of New Caledonia and New Hebrides (as Surgeon of the Command) Nov. 1942 to June 1944. Chief of Service (Obstetrics and Gynecology) successively at Regional Hospital, Fort Knox, Ky.; McCaw General Hospital, Walla Walla, Wash.; and Bushnell General Hospital, Brigham City, Utah.

Four years and eight months of the last five years were spent in the Army. For two and a half years of it I was overseas in the South Pacific Area doing administrative work, mostly as Surgeon of a large Service Command. My only combat experience was as an observer with the 1st Marine Division during the Japanese counterattack on Guadalcanal in October 1942, and a few air-raids in the New Hebrides. After my return to the United States my assignments were professional in nature in the field of obstetrics and gynecology. Now I am resuming private practice in that branch of medicine and surgery.

PAUL GRATAN KIRK

Occupation: Justice, Superior Court of Massachusetts.

Home Address: 180 Franklin St., Newton, Mass.

Business Address: Suffolk County Courthouse, Boston, Mass.

Married: Josephine O'Connell, Sept. 19, 1934, Boston, Mass.

Children: Kathleen, 1935; Josephine, 1936; Paul G., Jr., 1938; Maud Ann, 1940; Edward, 1945.

War Service: Army. Entered Colonel, Jan. 16, 1941; terminated Oct. 25, 1945. Col. 101st Inf. Reg't to Sept. 1943. Thereafter with Mil. Gov't and Allied Commission. Five battle participations. Some minor honors.

FRANCIS DEANE KIRMAYER

Occupation: Manufacturing—Sales and Promotion, Drug Products Dept.

Home Address: 33 Pearl St., Bridgewater, Mass.

Business Address: Procter & Gamble Co., 40 Central St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Frances Jones, Feb. 10, 1934, Lincoln, Nebr.

Children: Barbara Jean, Aug. 1, 1923 (adopted); Catherine Anne, July 4, 1936; Virginia Vail, July 18, 1943.

War Service: Mass. State Guard, Sgt., May 4, 1942–May 4, 1945.

Harvard Class of 1926

Spent five more years with Procter & Gamble building up sales and distribution for Drug Products Division in New England. Special interest now in testing and introduction of new products. During the war served in the local company of the Mass. State Guard as platoon sergeant. Am Junior Warden of Trinity Episcopal Church, Bridgewater, and treasurer of the local players group. In the absence of younger talent I took parts in six plays in the last five years. Hobbies are still hunting, fishing and photography. Mild farming, animal husbandry and cabinet-making have been wartime additions to the hobby list.

HOWARD CHARLES KISTLER

Occupation: Abrasive Engineer.

Home Address: 22 Park St., Easthampton, Mass.

Business Address: Simonds Worden White Co., Dayton, Ohio.

Married: Kathryn E. Keilman, Jan. 22, 1927, Tamaqua, Pa.

Children: Anne Louise, Nov. 29, 1931 (died Aug. 15, 1939); Linda Caroline, March 1, 1944.

* ISRAEL KLEIN

[Died January 26, 1942, at New York, New York.]

LAWRENCE GRINNELL KNOWLES

Occupation: Fire Protection Engineer.

Home Address: 25 Barberry Hill, Providence 6, R. I.

Business Address: Grinnell Company, Inc., 260 West Exchange St., Providence, R. I.

Married: Isabel Gilmore Watts, Jan. 2, 1937, New York, N. Y.

Children: Lawrence Grinnell, Jr., March 5, 1939; Michael Gilmore, Jan. 24, 1942.

The last five years of my life have not provided much excitement in spite of the war. No branch of the Service felt that the war would be won any faster with my help so I served my country fearlessly by becoming an Air Raid Warden (I was absent from the field of action fully 40% of the time so that my wife did all the work during tests) and by picking up scrap on the streets. I also was a volunteer hospital orderly, but that didn't "pan" out so well, so I "ducked" it after about a year.

One other thing I did to win the war was send a couple of brilliant ideas to the proper authorities, but they turned them down. However, the English did use one even though it was no good according to His Majesty's Government.

Outside of those exciting activities my life has been very humdrum except for the birth of my second boy. I am still working for the same concern, which shows a certain lack of imagination and the adventurous spirit, a curse which comes to most when their twentieth reunion is upon them.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

JOHN ELLIOTT KNOWLTON

Occupation: Agriculture (oranges)—President.

Home Address: Sylvania, Dominica, B. W. I.

Business Address: Caribbean Plantations Ltd., Sylvania, Dominica, B. W. I.

Married: Hetty Rochford Archer, April 19, 1938, Roseau, Dominica, B. W. I. (second marriage).

Children: Placidia Richmond, Nov. 28, 1928; Gwendolyn, March 25, 1933 (by previous marriage); Hetty Archer, April 9, 1939.

War Service: Registrar under Selective Service for Dominica, B. W. I.

The war years were for me full of combat of a non-military nature. The orange business had to be carried on without steamer service, without fertilizer and other necessary supplies, and in spite of the loss of almost 100% of our pre-war markets. As Registrar under Selective Service, and restricted to an island for nearly four years, I had an insight into the potentialities of quite normal human beings . . . some of them apart from good and evil.

HERBERT RICHARD KOBES

Occupation: Director, Division of Services for Crippled Children.

Home Address: 2009 South 5th St., Springfield, Ill.

Business Address: University of Illinois, 1105 South 6th St., Springfield, Ill.

Married: Marguerite R. Harriman, June 6, 1934, Glenwood City, Wis. (died January 1937); Helen Horton Nichols, Dec. 18, 1937, Haverhill, Mass.

Children: Karen, Oct. 7, 1938; David and Peter, Oct. 21, 1940.

After graduating from the Johns Hopkins University School of Hygiene and Public Health as a Master in Public Health, I remained with the State of Maine Department of Health and Welfare until August, 1945. At that time we all moved to Illinois where I am now Director of the Division of Services for Crippled Children of the University of Illinois. We are slowly adjusting from the pleasant easy Maine life to the bustle of the Midwest.

MILTON ARNOLD KRAMER

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 25 E. 86th St., New York 28, N. Y.

Business Address: 50 Broadway, New York 4, N. Y.

Married: Enid Saper, Aug. 31, 1934, New York, N. Y.

Children: John Robert, Aug. 17, 1937; Alison Jane, July 18, 1940.

As of January 1, 1946, I resigned as counsel to the firm of White & Case and in association with others formed the law firm of Paine, Kramer and Marx, with offices at 50 Broadway, New York 4, N. Y. I am a director of United Artists Corporation. I am also a member of the Harvard Club of the City of New York and the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

ALFRED KRANES

Occupation: Physician.

Home Address: 55 Lincoln St., Belmont, Mass.

Business Address: 330 Dartmouth St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Dorothy Jones, Aug. 17, 1935, Georgetown, Mass.

Children: David Alfred, Dec. 18, 1937; Richard, Aug. 10, 1940.

War Service: Army. Entered Major, May 15, 1942; terminated Lt. Col., Jan. 19, 1946. 6th General Hospital, North Africa and Italy; three battle stars, Bronze Star medal.

GEORGE DOUGLAS KRUMBHAAR

Occupation: Physician.

Home Address: Princeton, Mass.

Business Address: 321 Dartmouth St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Ruth Cheney, April 8, 1942, Brookline, Mass.

Children: Andrew Ramsay, July 13, 1934; George Douglas, Aug. 17, 1936 (by previous marriage); Laura Walcott Reynolds, Feb. 20, 1932; Ruth Sears Reynolds, April 8, 1934; Elizabeth Cheney Reynolds, Oct. 10, 1936 (stepdaughters).

War Service: Navy. Entered Lt. Comdr., Jan. 31, 1944; terminated Comdr., Jan. 4, 1946. Eight months as Medical Officer V-12 and ROTC Units at Holy Cross College and Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass. Five months Naval Receiving Barracks, Portland, Ore. Eight months Senior Medical Officer of U.S.S. Neville APA9 in San Diego, Calif., and points west.

There is not much to add to the facts in the questionnaire. I lived in Brookline, Mass., and practiced obstetrics and gynecology in Boston. My wife having died in 1941, I married again in April 1942, thereby acquiring, in addition to my own two sons, three charming daughters. In January of 1944 I went on active duty in the Navy and was released again in January 1946. I am once more back in Boston practicing as usual and spending what spare time I have looking for a home.

STANLEY JASSPON KUNITZ

Occupation: Writer.

Home Address: Bennington College, Bennington, Vt.

Married: Eleanor Evans Danysh, Nov. 21, 1939, Richmond, Va.

War Service: Army Air Corps. Entered Pvt., Jan. 4, 1943; separated S/Sgt., Aug. 9, 1945.

My latest published volumes are "Twentieth Century Authors," a somewhat monumental work of collective literary biography (H. W. Wilson Co., 1942) of which I was co-editor and "Passport to the War," my second collection of poems (Henry Holt & Co., 1944).

Poetry: A Magazine of Verse awarded me its Oscar Blumenthal Prize for Lyric Poetry in 1942. At the completion of my war service I was non-commissioned officer in charge of Information and Education for the Air Transport Command, stationed at AAF Headquarters, Washington, D. C. My wife, during the war, became Chief of the Ship Naming Section of the Maritime Commission in Washington and was responsible for christening some 3000 Liberty, Victory, and other vessels of our merchant marine fleet. On my discharge from the service, I was fortunate enough to receive a John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation Fellowship for creative writing. At the moment my wife and I are living on the 2500-acre estate of Ernest Thompson Seton, the naturalist, a few miles from Santa Fe, New Mexico, where I am at work on a novel. When we return to the east in August, I shall begin teaching poetry at Bennington College in Vermont.

WILLIAM CONKLING LADD

Home Address: c/o Mrs. William C. Ladd, Swing Lane, Louisville, Ky.

[The information printed above is taken from the Secretary's files. Ladd did not return a questionnaire.]

GEORGE MORGAN LAIMBEER

Occupation: Food Manufacturing.

Home Address: 1 The Close, Porchester Terrace, London, W. 2, England.

Business Address: Grape-Nuts Co. Ltd., 24 St. James' St., London, S.W. 1, England.

Married: Doris Bryan, May 11, 1933, Lansing, Mich.

Children: William, Nov. 5, 1934; George Morgan, Jr., Nov. 25, 1936.

Harvard Class of 1926

Since our 15th reunion I have again moved back to England. From 1941 until April 1944 I continued living at Manhasset, Long Island, and was in charge of General Foods Government business, dividing my time between New York and Washington. I was closely connected with the assembly of the K-ration and Ten-in-one and also with the manufacture of dehydrated potatoes and other food products for the Armed Forces.

In April 1944 I came over to England in a convoy and have been here more or less ever since. I went through the buzz bombs in London and might add that they were most unpleasant. All this was in connection with restarting the business of General Foods in England which is now getting going again. My wife and two boys joined me here in June 1945 and we have bought a house and settled down for a long stay. I will be getting back about every two years to the U. S. A.

I still manage to play quite a lot of squash racquets and also tennis in the summer and do a certain amount of fishing. While life over here is fairly difficult at the present time, any members of the Class of 1926 who show up in London can be promised a pretty good time.

GERARD KIRSOPP LAKE

Occupation: Textile Manufacturing.

Home Address: 60 Richmond Hill Rd., New Canaan, Conn.

Business Address: Pepperell Manufacturing Co., 40 Worth St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Eleanor Hard, Oct. 7, 1931, Washington, D. C.

Children: Anne Courthope, Jan. 19, 1936; William Anthony, April 2, 1939; Lydia Van Someron, June 21, 1942.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieut., May 7, 1941; terminated Comdr., Feb. 25, 1946.

Bureau of Ordnance, Washington, until June 1945. Special duty in connection with textile production, Brazil, June 1945 to Nov. 1945. Commendation by Secretary of Navy for duty performed in Bureau of Ordnance.

I left my job as production manager for the Pepperell Mfg. Co. in March 1941 and while waiting for my commission to come through served the Bureau of Ordnance as a civilian employee. Thereafter, until I was sent to Brazil on a special assignment, I did purely administrative work for the Navy. The monotony was occasionally broken by special assignments. I served on various boards selecting sites for Ordnance activities and must share the responsibility for the location of the Naval Ammunition Depots, Macalester, Okla., Hastings, Nebr., Earle, N. J., and the Naval Ordnance Plant, Camden, Ark. I also served two months on a selection board for the promotion of Lieutenants to Lieutenant Commanders. Except for a few months deep in Brazilian politics, I did not see much of the world, but I learned a lot about the United States.

I am now back in research and development for the Pepperell Mfg. Co.

CHESTER TEVIS LANE

Occupation: Bureaucrat—Deputy Foreign Liquidation Commissioner, State Department.

Home Address: McLean, Va.

Business Address: Department of State, 1818 H St., N.W., Washington, D. C.

Married: Persis McClennen, Sept. 12, 1927, East Harwich, Mass.

Children: David, Sept. 15, 1935; Julia Ann, April 4, 1937; Dinah, May 21, 1945.

In the 15th report I recited Government service which had already lasted longer than it should. In the 20th, the tale of Government service has doubled its length. Ten years must surely justify the title of "bureaucrat."

My wartime Government service has been strictly of the desk variety (my application for a commission in Military Government having been caught, by about 24 hours, in the "freeze" which in October, 1943, was placed on Army commissions for civilians). Following the SEC to Philadelphia as its General Counsel in March, 1942, seemed a little too remote from the war. For a while, on loan from the SEC, I helped the War Department to organize and operate a committee for the selection and screening of lawyers, and, as a sideline, I have been chairman of this committee ever since, receiving in 1945 the War Department's citation for meritorious civilian service, which I am told is not often given outside the Department. My full-time work with the War Department lasted only about 4 months, and I moved to the Department of Justice as Associate Chief of its Special War Policies Unit—dealing with every kind of novel headache which war problems brought to the Department. In the fall of 1943 the work of the Unit was absorbed into the regular operations of the Department, and I took a turn as a Supreme Court lawyer, for two years regularly briefing and arguing cases in the Supreme Court as a Special Assistant to the Attorney General, probably the ice cream of every lawyer's professional meal, and very rewarding, but also rather confining. In July of 1945 I joined the staff of Thomas B. McCabe, the Army-Navy Liquidation Commissioner, set up to dispose of all of our foreign war surpluses. Later in the same year his operations were transferred to the State Department and there, as Foreign Liquidation Commissioner, he took over also the bulk of the work of the Foreign Economic Administration. Since January I have been Deputy Foreign Liquidation Commissioner, in charge primarily of the Lend-Lease functions and staff inherited from FEA. As the operation is naturally on a liquidation basis, the test of my success will lie in how quickly I can work myself out of a job.

It may be, therefore, that by the next report I will no longer be entitled to be called "bureaucrat."

JOHN STEVENSON LANIER

Occupation: Education—Farming.

Home Address: Eliot, Maine.

Business Address: Eliot, Maine.

Married: Caroline Scattergood, 1933, Philadelphia, Pa.

Child: Roger Day, April 19, 1944.

War Service: Member of local War & Victory Loans Committee.

Spent most of past five years staying home and getting as much out of the farm as was possible with no help available most of the time.

BRENDAN DEMPSEY LEAHEY

Occupation: Ophthalmologist.

Home Address: 751 Andover St., Lowell, Mass.

Business Address: 9 Central St., Lowell, Mass.

Married: Mary Josephine O'Donnell, April 18, 1938, Lowell, Mass.

Children: George Brent, Aug. 20, 1939; Grant, June 10, 1942.

I am a member of the staffs of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary, Lowell General Hospital, St. John's Hospital, and St. Joseph's Hospital, Lowell; Consultant Surgeon, Massachusetts State Hospital, Tewksbury, Massachusetts; Instructor in Ophthalmology at Harvard Medical School. The clubs of which I am a member include the Vesper Country Club and the Long Meadow Golf Club (former president). I am a director of both the Lowell Cooperative Bank and Washington Savings Institution, Lowell.

I am secretary of the local Medical Society and member of a number of others, including American College of Surgeons, American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, and New England Ophthalmological Society.

Over the past eight years I have been doing considerable work in corneal transplantation and have presented several papers on this, including one published in the New England Journal of Medicine in 1943.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

RICHARD JAMES LEARSON, JR.

Occupation: Insurance—Vice President and Actuary.

Home Address: R. R. No. 1, Box 144, Indian Hill, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Business Address: The Western & Southern Life Insurance Co., 400 Broadway, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Married: Harriet MacKenzie Grever, June 22, 1935, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Children: Katharine Elizabeth, Sept. 28, 1938; Harriet Ann, April 1, 1941; Margaret Mary, Aug. 13, 1943; Richard, May 16, 1945.

* DAVID HENRY LEAVITT

[Died October 17, 1929, at Cambridge, Massachusetts.]

KENT LEAVITT

Occupation: Farmer.

Home Address: Millbrook, N. Y.

Business Address: Fraleigh Hill Farm, Millbrook, N. Y.

Married: Mary Boocock, Oct. 13, 1928, Prout's Neck, Maine.

Children: Charles W., July 10, 1929; Adele, Sept. 20, 1930.

During the years 1941 to 1946, I have operated a large dairy farm and milk business in Millbrook, N. Y. The combination of labor shortages, material deficiencies and the OPA regulations have made this a most difficult and confining task which has prevented my participation in many activities that I would have liked to join.

My principal interests have been those connected with the agriculture, the politics, and the social structure of Dutchess County where I am a Director of the Soil Conservation District, President of the Dutchess County Council of Boy Scouts, Head of the United War Fund Drive, and an active member of the Farm Bureau.

The complications of such a rural life, especially when it involves the delivery of milk to about a thousand customers, often gives one the feeling of being one degree behind the eight ball and two jumps ahead of the sheriff. It rarely gives one time to go fishing or read a good book, but combined with the activities of two almost grown children it is a full life.

Harvard Class of 1926

JOSEPH MAURICE LEBOWICH

Occupation: Pathologist, M.D.

Home Address: 98 Fifth Ave., Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Business Address: Saratoga County Laboratory, 211 Church St., Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Married: Gertrude Schwartz, Dec. 16, 1934, Elyrea, Ohio.

Children: Richard, May 18, 1936; Samuel James, May 4, 1941; Judith Ann, July 24, 1943.

As a pathologist, I practice at the Saratoga Hospital in Saratoga Springs and at the Mary McClellan Hospital, Cambridge, New York. My directorships include the Saratoga County Laboratory and the Saratoga County Tumor Clinic.

ROLAND STEBBINS LEE

Occupation: Rubber Manufacturing—New Products Development.

Home Address: 454 First Ave., Pelham, N. Y.

Business Address: United States Rubber Co., Rockefeller Center, New York, N. Y.

Married: Mary E. Clough, July 15, 1935, Canterbury, N. H.

Children: Stephen Haynes; Christopher Stebbins; Richard Bennett; Martha Ayres.

I find the development of new products and new lines of business for my company completely engrossing and interesting. My hobbies seem to center around our country place in Brookfield Center, Conn., and all the minor building problems we run into all the time.

CHESTER CLARKE LEES

Occupation: Education—Headmaster.

Home Address: High Street, Hinsdale, N. H.

Business Address: Hinsdale High School, Hinsdale, N. H.

Married: Gladys A. Lannigan, June 27, 1929, Fall River, Mass.

Children: Carolyn Elizabeth, Sept. 7, 1931; Barbara Edith, July 23, 1935.

GEORGE ROSS LEIGHTON

Occupation: Writer.

Home Address: 354 E. 51st St., New York, N. Y.

Business Address: The New Yorker, 25 W. 43d St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Josephine Gund, May 29, 1931, Lyons, N. Y.

Child: John Frederic Gunby, March 10, 1932.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

JOHN LEONARD

Occupation: Manufacturing and Merchandising.

Home Address: 122 Hemsley Rd., Northfield, N. J.

Business Address: Ballantines' Equipment and Supply Co., Inc., Absecon, N. J.

Married: Katherine L. Boykin, April 10, 1942, Washington, D. C.

Child: Lucy Phelps, Feb. 22, 1943.

War Service: May, 1942, to Nov., 1944, U. S. Department of Justice, Lands Division, Research Unit.

Five years ago, as last reported, I was engaged in the real estate business in Falls Church, Virginia, employed as salesman by "M. E. Church, Realtor" (and not as "realtor for the Methodist Episcopal Church" as it then appeared). As a member of the research staff of the Lands Division of Justice, many interesting matters came to hand, among them the acquisition of Hyde Park by the United States. I now divide my time between being purchasing agent and manager of a small machine plant, and purchasing and selling surplus materials on behalf of the plant's mercantile subsidiary. Being a trader from 'way back, these activities of mine are entirely congenial. If anybody wants a gadget developed or manufactured, we are the boys he has been looking for. Figuring out peacetime uses for warlike articles is also lots of fun. Since we live just six miles from Atlantic City, it shouldn't be too much trouble for any of you happening to visit the World's Playground to get in touch or to visit with us a little.

PAUL AARON LEVI

Occupation: Advertising and Publicity.

Home Address: 71 Bow Road, Newton Centre, Mass.

Business Address: Metropolitan Theatre, Boston, Mass.

Married: Edith Freedman, Feb. 14, 1939, Boston, Mass.

Children: Paul A., Jr., Sept. 4, 1940; Carol Jane, Aug. 30, 1943.

GEORGE ELIOT LEVINREW

Occupation: Social Worker.

Home Address: 455 W. 23d St., New York 11, N. Y.

Business Address: Bureau of Child Guidance of the Board of Education, 387 State St., Brooklyn 17, N. Y.

Married: Janet A. Tuck, Oct. 15, 1942, New York, N. Y.

I am one of the very few Harvard men who have entered the professional field of social work. For over eleven years I have been working in the Bureau of Child Guidance as a psychiatric social worker. For the past two and a half years my responsibility has been with children who have epilepsy, helping the overwhelming majority of them remain in school and participate as normal children in normal activities.

During the war my job as a psychiatric social worker was a tiny contribution to morale building on the home front. Now that we are building for peace and security, one of the jobs in reconversion that I am immediately concerned with is how to help lessen the great mass of unnecessary emotional distress and how to help secure the future psychological well-being of society.

As a professional social worker, I make my contribution not only on my job but also through my membership in professional organizations. I am chairman of the New York District Branch of the American Association of Psychiatric Social Workers, a member of the American Association of Social Workers, and a member of the American Group Therapy Association.

As a citizen, I recognize the need for social action, and the most satisfying political activity for me is affiliation with the National Citizens Political Action Committee. I am frightened by the strong emergence of reactionary forces as seen in the alignment in Congress of Republicans and Southern Democrats, and I am doing my share of fighting to protect and advance the social program of F. D. R.

For my leisure in the summer time, I have found the ideal recreational activity. This summer, for the first time since the summer of 1941, I will spend four weeks in the High Sierras of California. I will travel by "bus 11" in the thrilling vastness of our mountain wilderness, sleep in the open in a sleeping bag, get drunk on the rarefied air at 10,000 feet, drop a fly in mountain lakes and streams that have not been fished for years, enjoy mountain sherbet (snow and jelly) for luncheon desserts, and all in all enjoy those feelings of inspiration and peace which civilized men in our cities and farms do not yet have.

JACOB LEVY

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 81 Verndale St., Brookline, Mass.

Business Address: 92 State St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Ida R. Berezin, Dec. 26, 1937, Brookline, Mass.

Children: Eleanor Ruth, March 2, 1940; Carol Jean, April 9, 1943.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

1943: Litt.D. awarded honoris causa by Calvin Coolidge College of Liberal Arts, affiliate of Portia Law School, following six years of teaching in the law school and (one law subject) in the college.

When rejected for military service for physical (sic) deficiencies, found some relief of patriotic urge in U.S.O. work of religious nature.

As age's insidious advantage increases, the importance of college friendships gains appreciation. Would be most pleasant to exchange a word now and then with some of those who shared the problems and pleasures of undergraduate days.

MARION ISAAC LEVY

Occupation: Manufacturing Air Conditioning Equipment—President.

Home Address: 3156 Ludlow Rd., Cleveland, Ohio.

Business Address: Viking Air Conditioning Corp., 5600 Walworth Ave., Cleveland, Ohio.

Married: Charlotte Salzer, Sept. 10, 1929, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Children: Margery C., Aug. 17, 1930; Elizabeth Jane, April 16, 1935; Jill Annette, June 11, 1944.

Maybe you would call me a "hot air artist" making fans and blowers for the heating and air conditioning industry. But we earned our Army-Navy "E" producing parts for the M-4 tanks, Gliders, and Corsair planes. Now I am knee-deep in reconversion, in the continuing belief that "air conditioning is the coming thing."

DAVID LEWIS

Occupation: Chemical Manufacturing—Assistant to the President.

Home Address: 56 Center St., Clinton, N. J.

Business Address: J. T. Baker Chemical Co., Phillipsburg, N. J.

Married: Olive McLain, Jan. 29, 1938, Elkton, Md.

Child: Gwendolyn McLain, July 20, 1943.

War Service: National War Labor Board, 2nd Region—Industry Panel Representative; Bureau of the Budget Combined Committees for Government Questionnaires for the Organic and Inorganic Chemical Industries.

I am a member of the Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Committee of the New York State Bar Association.

WILLIAM HENRY LEWIS, JR.

Occupation: Attorney-at-Law.

Home Address: 42 Alden Rd., Dedham, Mass.

Business Address: Lewis & McGrath, Rm. 645-48, 294 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Edna Cooper, April 4, 1928, New York, N. Y.

Child: William Richard, Aug. 21, 1935.

I was Assistant United States Attorney, Southern District of New York 1931-32 under George Z. Medalie and Thomas E. Dewey. In 1933 was transferred to Boston as Assistant United States Attorney under Frederick H. Tarr. In 1933 resigned when Roosevelt Administration came in, and have since been practicing law in Boston at the above address and with the same firm.

Have been somewhat active politically in national campaigns in behalf of Republican aspirants to the presidency, particularly in support of Thomas E. Dewey. My ideas on political theory haven't changed very much, because it seems to me that men, not forms, determine the quality of government.

IRVING LIBMAN

Occupation: Textiles.

Home Address: 23 W. 73d St., New York 23, N. Y.

Business Address: 1441 Broadway, New York 18, N. Y.

Married: Elizabeth Brewster, Feb. 11, 1935, Cambridge, Mass.

Children: Elizabeth, April 29, 1936; Oliver Leland, Jr., Oct. 27, 1938.

While most of my classmates have been with the Armed Forces or in Government Service, many of them an inspiration to me through our correspondence, my work necessarily has been that of a stay-at-home civilian. My major objective has been to bring the Church to every possible usefulness on the home front. Servicemen from Maine, and thousands stationed within the State, gave sufficient challenge to keep us trying to minister effectively.

The clubs to which I belong include the Harvard Clubs of New York, Boston, Portland, and New Bedford. I accepted the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Bowdoin College, June, 1945.

Since 1939 I have plied my trade in the great oil-producing State of Texas where the demands of war for both men and petroleum have kept us busy. For the past two years I have actively participated in the reactivation of the Harvard Club of Houston, which now has 76 members. My principal interest at this time is a new son.

Married: Virginia Hayden, April 17, 1931, Boston, Mass.

Children: Peter Coe, March 20, 1934; Robert Fell, March 24, 1936.

War Service: Army Medical Corps. Entered Captain, May 15, 1942; terminated Major, Dec. 17, 1945. Served with 6th General Hospital in United States and in North Africa (Casablanca), with 51st Station Hospital in Oran, North Africa, with Fifth Army in Italy, and with Headquarters, Seventh Army, during invasion of Southern France, in France, and in Germany. I was with Headquarters, Army Ground Forces, Washington, D. C., 1945. Battle Stars: Two for Italy, Naples-Foggia and Rome-Arno; Southern France; Rhineland; and Central Europe. Bronze Arrowhead—invasion of Southern France.

Certainly the most important events for me in the past five years have been supplied by the United States Army, who interrupted my private practice (internal medicine and psychiatry) in Boston, by calling me to active duty on May 15, 1942. As a member of the 6th General Hospital (Massachusetts General Hospital affiliated unit) some ten months were spent in "training" in Florida, and we started for overseas in February 1943.

Progress toward North Africa was rudely interrupted for a group of us by an encounter with the Navy, which holed the ship and necessitated a stay of three weeks in Bermuda. This was a most pleasant interlude, utterly without responsibility. Our arrival in Casablanca was delayed until March 20, 1943. There I helped run the large psychiatric service for the 6th General Hospital until September when orders arrived transferring me to a psychiatric hospital in Oran. Here we cared for the psychiatric casualties from Sicily and the early phases of the Italian invasion. At this point it was decided that the care of such casualties would be improved if facilities for their treatment could be set up within the Army area, and consequently a Clearing Station in Fifth Army was designated as such a center and four of us organized and ran this station during the Italian campaign. From the experiences of the 601st Clearing Company were derived eventually most of the treatment and management policies for combat-induced psychiatric casualties in the European theater—at least in forward areas.

With the approaching invasion of Southern France, Seventh Army, which had been inactive since the Sicilian campaign, was reactivated, and I was ordered to their headquarters to be Consultant in Psychiatry. This involved organizing a psychiatric service for this Army, based on the model which had functioned in Fifth Army. Adequately trained psychiatric medical officers were almost non-existent, necessitating the training of medical officers on the job. Three stations were set up eventually, as this Army became, numerically, three times larger than the Fifth Army. Assignment to this position had come in July of 1944, and the invasion followed on August 15. Fortunately, it was a quiet affair. The duties involved chiefly the administration, staffing and supervision of the forward treatment stations. Once the service became well organized, over half of the psychiatric casualties seen could be returned to full combat duty after short treatment, and the rehabilitation of those unable to do further combat was greatly improved.

Following VE-Day came return to the United States by plane, re-assignment as psychiatric Consultant for Headquarters, Army Ground Forces, and on December 17, 1945, relief from active duty.

At the moment am occupied with loafing and looking forward to return to civilian work when terminal leave is over.

Since our last report the main feature of my business activity has been an expansion of territory. Instead of a purely local racket, I am now carrying on some specialized work in Chicago, St. Paul, Duluth, and Seattle. It has been quite a shock for a provincial New Englander to be exposed to the wild and woolly competition of the Great Northwest. As Regional Vice President in New England of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, I have also had a good excuse to cultivate intensively my knowledge of the charms and hazards of New England travel, winter and summer. Having given up long-range commuting in winter from Duxbury, I find that city life (eight minutes walk to the office) has many advantages for the flatulent forties. Some of our other classmates are getting the same idea and are bidding prices way up on Beacon Hill houses. We still do a little quiet skiing to keep our evening thirst up to par and in summer we find that salt-water sailing has a very beneficial effect on beverage consumption. My worst hobby is duck shooting. Fortunately I can usually sneak a few days on my autumn western trip to visit a new interesting swamp or river. This, in a way, comes under the label of business trip.

It may interest my classmates to know that the military affairs of the family are now in the hands of my son, Jack, U.S.N.R. Also we spent a winter weekend at Hanover, New Hampshire, as chaperons for my daughter at the Dartmouth Winter Carnival. It seems that since graduation twenty years ago, there's been a lot going on, but the old man can still have the privilege of paying the bills. Perhaps in the next report I can announce my retirement to the country to live on the earnings of the next generation.

My life has changed little since the last Report. The war, of course, limited the possibilities for summer sailing, and at the same time required such temporary activity as auxiliary fireman, etc. Because of depleted personnel at the Bank, I have had more than enough to keep me out of mischief; in fact, for about a year and a half, I was all they had in the way of a Research Department. In the past five years I have acquired another child, a daughter this time, and an old house in need of much repair. Thus between my family and the house there has been little time for anything else, though I do hope to get on the water again this summer.

DOUGLAS ARNOLD MacKINNON

Occupation: Radio Educator. (Pre-Army: Assistant Musical Counsel of National Broadcasting Company.)

Home Address: Westfield, N. J.

Business Address: Undecided.

War Service: Army. Entered Private, July 27, 1942; separated S/Sgt., May 15, 1945. Army Airways Communications Squadron until Aug., 1943, Australia. USAFFE, I & E Radio Unit, Jungle Network, from Aug., 1943, Australia and New Guinea. On loan to OWI last half of 1944, Australia.

Late in 1941 I left Radio Station WQXR in New York City, having helped start it in 1935 with the hope of making it an outstanding educational station and, chiefly through music, leading people to harmony in human relations. I aimed too high, and the station became purely commercial. In early 1942 I was appointed Assistant Musical Counsel of the National Broadcasting Company, Dr. Walter Damrosch being the Musical Counsel. In the summer of that year I was greeted by the War Department, assigned to the Air Corps, and trained in Cryptographic Communications.

In Aug., 1943, I applied at GHQ and USAFFE in Brisbane, Australia, to be sent to Special Services School for a commission, but was countered with the observation that, with my radio background, I needn't go to OCS, and would I like to be transferred to USAFFE as Program Director of the projected Jungle Network with a direct commission? I would—and I was: transferred . . . in grade as S/Sgt. When discharged a year and three quarters later, I was still a S/Sgt.! I attained the position of office clerk, did a pretty good job of setting up distribution of transcriptions of U. S. radio programs to our troops throughout the South Pacific—in fact, too good a job! I was replaced by a commissioned officer! (Later I was told that he bungled the job so badly that he had to be removed from the unit.) Anyway, I did whatever came my way, resenting the misuse of energy, but realizing that the Army was a monstrous, sprawling machine with little consideration for the individual; got myself placed on loan to the OWI, helping out in its broadcasts to the Philippines. On the whole, I felt that I gave perhaps a small percentage of latent energy to conquering ruthless greed in this world. That reminds me of being confined for seven long weeks at Kearns Field, Utah, late in 1942, after overseas training, when we were on the alert for all seven weeks and were forbidden to go even 14 miles to Salt Lake City for Christmas and New Year's! * * * Since it seemed we were shelved, a civilian worker remarked of our group, "It looks as if we were going to win the war without you." Then we were shipped to Hawaii, and from there we crossed the Pacific in an LST, taking 25 days!—and did our bit.

Now I am one of four ex-GI's who have applied for a license for a new radio station for educational purposes. Again I hope that, through Arts and Sciences and just plain humanity, my co-workers and I may contribute to forging that harmony among individuals that will eventually result in the world brotherhood I have heard of ever since I was knee-high.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant, Dec., 1942; still in service—Commander.

Staff Officers Indoctrination School, Quonset Point, R. I., Dec. 22, 1942–

Feb. 28, 1944. Staff Chief Technical Training—Chicago. Naval Air Tech. Tr.

Center, 1944 to present.

Almost four of the last five years have been spent in the Navy. I was declared too old for sea duty (ridiculous, of course, but just one man's opinion) and was retained on Quonset staff for a year with Pres. Huntington and Charlie Platt, also Class of '26, both of whom did superb jobs.

In the spring of '44 I was transferred to Naval Air Technical Training Command and sent to Memphis as Instructor Training Officer where I trained over 6,000 instructors and wrote two textbooks, "Basic Teaching Principles" and "Supervisor's Manual." Later I became Superintendent of Technical Training in charge of two Officers Schools, eight Line Maintenance Schools, Radio-Radar Schools, a Boot Camp, and all the Naval Air Mobile Training Detachments.

Currently, I am charged with relocating naval technical centers in Chicago; Norman, Okla.; Ward Island; Corpus Christi, Texas; and Memphis, and developing the Ready Reserve Program under the Mobile Trainers.

The rugged features of the war for me personally began after VJ-Day in that the rapid separation of Reserve Officers and men left us badly under-manned—so much so, in fact, that 97% of my 250 officers now are regulars. I've not had leave in over a year and haven't so much as left the limits of the reservation in three months. I am desperately afraid I will not be able to make Cambridge in June, despite the fact that I control 14 flyable aircraft and could legitimately schedule a mobile training inspection tour of New England area. Then I will really be sorry for myself because I have wanted and hoped to get back for the 20th.

Since February, 1946, I have been a full Commander and expect to be separated from the Service in August or September, returning to Choate for the fall term.

After enjoying many ups and downs in the brokerage business and with the stock market between 1926 and 1940, I spent the next two years attempting to find out if other pastures really are greener. During this period I was president, truck driver, and principal stockholder of a soft drink dispensing company, salesman for a company making milk into wool, and night foreman in a shipyard in Hoboken. As you can see from my present connections, none of the other pastures was even half so green and I am back at the same old trade or profession. In the meantime, I seem to have brought up a daughter (Spence '45) and a son (St. Paul's '51 and Harvard '55—I hope) and to remain reasonably happy, well fed, and hopeful.

Children: Marguerite, April 16, 1933; Kenneth, Jr., May 22, 1935.

War Service: Army. Entered Lieutenant Colonel, May, 1942; terminated January 9, 1946.

At the request of General Somervell, I served approximately 12 months on his staff, first as Deputy Director of the Production Division and later as Chief of the Plans Branch of the Requirements Division, where I was responsible for producing what was known as the Army Supply Program—a handy little document setting forth how the Army planned to spend thirty billion dollars in 1943 and 1944 on supplies and equipment, exclusive of aircraft. Getting itchy for overseas duty, I got myself transferred to General Wild Bill Donovan's outfit, known as the Office of Strategic Services, and in April of 1943 proceeded forthwith to North Africa, with headquarters at Algiers.

I was shortly transferred to HQ 5th Army and took the OSS detachment on to the beach at Salerno on D-Day plus one. After three weeks of that business I was unexpectedly ordered back to Eisenhower's headquarters in Algiers for duty in the G-3 Section, supervising French, British and American activities in intelligence, guerrilla warfare, and supply to resistance groups in the Mediterranean Theater, which included the patriots in Southern France, Northern Italy, Tito's boys in Yugoslavia, the Zealots in Greece, and many other points such as Rhodes, Cyprus, Corsica, and Sardinia. In March, 1944, I was ordered back to Washington to accompany a mission to Moscow, but the mission was cancelled and I ended up as Chief of one of General Donovan's branches in Washington. In July of that year I returned to the Mediterranean to complete some unfinished business, thence to France where I stayed with combat elements until we bogged down at Metz. I then returned to this country, remaining three months, and then proceeded on temporary duty to China, Burma and India. Upon my return from that interesting excursion I was transferred to General Clay's Control Council in Germany to revise downward the German steel-making capacity. However, VJ-Day came along and all of us with "points" fled the country and its beautiful fräuleins to return to business.

My terminal leave expired January 9, 1946, but I didn't return to Republic Steel Corporation for whom I have worked for about 20 years, starting my own firm in Washington by the name of Mann, Roller and Golibart, Inc. Maybe a year from now I will be looking for a job, but I shall have had an interesting, and I hope a beneficial, year.

To my intense regret I didn't quite make connections with the Army or Navy during the war. Instead I had to fight it out on the home front. As Bonneville's district manager in the Portland area, this kept us more than busy doing what we could to meet the problems of power supply in this war center. Now my interests have shifted to Bonneville's longer-range programs of river improvement and resource development. Some of us old-timers view the Northwest's future with mingled feelings. New population and industries are nice, but we do like our scenery and fishing.

Business Address: Goldman, Sachs & Co., 30 Pine St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Frances E. Varney, Sept. 12, 1931, Newton Centre, Mass.

Children: Anne Varney, May 20, 1933; Jean Dennett, Sept. 21, 1935.

War Service: War Production Board, Acting Director, Appeals and Order Clearance, Office of Civilian Requirements, and Special Assistant to Vice Chairman for Civilian Requirements, 1942-44.

Although from the point of view of many classmates who have noted my address on my several touch-up letters for the Harvard Fund it may appear that I recently have lived at Wadsworth House, I may say that, as in college at the time when a particularly unprepared-for exam was coming up, it was an address of convenience only. As in the case of many others, my address has been unpredictable and anything but permanent. For two years I was in Washington with the War Production Board mostly as Acting Director of the Appeals and Order Clearance Staff of the Office of Civilian Requirements and ending up also as Special Assistant to the Vice Chairman (at a period when there wasn't one). Just before leaving Washington to move to Connecticut, I acquired one white mouse. Within a remarkably brief span, I found myself with fifty-one white mice—symbolical, I suppose, of Washington tempo. Appeals for relief went unheeded but direct action finally freed me for other pursuits, the major one having to do with underwriting in the investment banking field. I have given birth to several issues, aided in the delivery of others, and am now in the state of further gestation.

EVERETT WELLS MARTIN

Occupation: Insurance—Supervising Engineer.

Home Address: 505 First Ave., West Haven, Conn.

Business Address: Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., 65 Whitney Ave., New Haven, Conn.

Married: Hermine Emily Seuss, Aug. 6, 1927, Leominster, Mass.

Children: Everett Wells, Jr., June 28, 1928; John Woodward, May 28, 1934.

My work during the war was that of supervising a group of Safety Engineers who operated in war plants located in Connecticut and Rhode Island. In addition, for three years I was an instructor for Yale in the War Training Program, with approximately 200 students in Industrial Safety Engineering. Time has gone very fast.

Harvard Class of 1926

My older boy is now a senior at Loomis and expects to enter college next fall. My younger boy is now at the point where he knows more than I do. This is no doubt the result of the Harvard education his father received.

Publications have been mostly confined to articles in magazines on problems involving industrial safety. One deviation was "Boating and Rehabilitation," published by Rudder Magazine. For a hobby during recent years, I have indulged mostly in the building of small sailboats. These have been constructed in a cellar workshop and, believe it or not, all of them have come out of the basement without tearing down the house.

For some years now I have been a member of the American Society of Safety Engineers, and at present I am President of the Connecticut Safety Society. Also, I have continued my educational work subsequent to the war, having a seminar in advanced safety work at this time. The students in this course are all safety directors located in large plants in Connecticut.

Along with many other Harvard men, I belong to the Graduate Club in New Haven.

THEODORE BENEDICT MASSELL

Occupation: Medicine.

Home Address: 414 N. George Mason Drive, Arlington, Va.

[Mail sent to the above address was forwarded to the Army Air Forces, March Field, California, but returned. We then tried his former address in Worcester where he had at one time been a practicing physician. Mail apparently was accepted there, but Massell did not return a questionnaire.]

RICHARD RADCLIFFE MASSEY

Occupation: Life Insurance—Manager of General Agencies.

Home Address: 2 Marvin Rd., Wellesley, Mass.

Business Address: John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., 197 Clarendon St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Martha Irwin, June 8, 1937, Lawrence, Kans.

Children: Richard Radcliffe, Jr., Aug. 24, 1939; Edmund Linton Davison, Feb. 21, 1943.

DUDLEY MERRILL

Occupation: Doctor.

Home Address: 3 Meadow Way, Cambridge, Mass.

Business Address: 51 Brattle St., Cambridge, Mass.

Married: Katherine Park, June 5, 1933, Englewood, N. J.

Children: Gertrude Park, Oct. 16, 1934; Dudley, Jr., Jan. 7, 1936; Adele Katte, Dec. 3, 1938; Katherine Park, July 29, 1940; Charles Park, Aug. 18, 1945.

As one can see from the above, I am by this time a confirmed family man. Being a Protestant, a doctor, and a firm believer in birth control (even if the voters of Massachusetts prefer to keep this state among the two or three most backward) the list of children above may be taken as evidence of my belief in the family as perhaps the most rewarding of human organizations.

I regard my second interest, medicine, as I do my wife, as an example of entirely undeserved good fortune. My reasons for choosing my profession were perhaps the most flimsy of all such inadequate reasoning. After two summers with the Grenfell Mission in Labrador, I came to the rather surprising conclusion that a life work that enforced extensive small boat cruising in salt water in the summer and a thousand miles of dog team travel in winter was the only thing for me. Now, after 20 years, I never yet have driven a dog team, and my cruising consists of having access to a sailing canoe at the mouth of the St. George River in Maine during the summer months. Ten months a year I practice medicine in Cambridge and find it a continuing source of great interest and satisfaction, which more than offsets those hopelessly inconsiderate individuals who will get sick in the night.

Having talked loudly and lengthily of the coming war in 1941 and having procured a majority in the medical reserve in the A.U.S. over the protests of my family, I developed a loose cartilage in my knee while stowing my office furniture under the eaves of the house preparatory to reporting for active duty in May, 1943. Hence my tour of duty was restricted to something like four days. Perhaps this bizarre occurrence was not a coincidence. At all events, I have been greatly interested in "psychosomatic medicine" ever since. During the war I was fortunate enough to be doing just exactly what I was trained to do in the place I had chosen to live and to just about physical capacity. My only real regret now is that I cannot wear an honorable discharge button. As one friend said, though, "You can't have everything."

GORDON DELBERT MESSINGER

Occupation: Shipbuilding.

Home Address: 25 Mansfield St., Allston, Mass.

JOHN HOMER MILLER

Occupation: Clergyman.

Home Address: 94 Maple St., Springfield 5, Mass.

Business Address: Hope Congregational Church, Springfield 9, Mass.

Married: Frances I. Van Avery, Oct. 23, 1926.

Children: Mary Frances, Aug. 8, 1927; John Homer, Jr., May 21, 1931.

War Service: Springfield Price Control and Rationing Board, 1942-45.

February 1 saw the completion of eleven years as minister of Hope Congregational Church, one of the four largest Congregational churches in the United States with nearly 2700 members.

In 1945 a Youth Chapel was completed in memory of ten young men in Hope Church who gave their lives in World War II. "Take a Look at Yourself," now in the sixth printing, was published in 1943, with Skeffington and Son putting out a first printing in England in 1945. "Why We Act That Way" will be published in the fall of 1946. Wedding booklet, "Secrets of Married Happiness," now in fifth printing, is used widely by ministers of many denominations. Magazine articles have appeared in Your Life, Christian Century Pulpit, Christian Herald, Advance, The Expositor, The Churchman, and in "Life in These United States" section of The Reader's Digest.

Member of Springfield Kiwanis Club, Reality Club, Springfield Ministers' Association, Hampden Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers, director of Cummings Memorial, member of Ludlow Country Club, King Cyrus Lodge of Masons, Bay Path Lodge of I.O.O.F.

WASHINGTON SAMUEL TYLER MILLER

Occupation: Manufacturing—Treasurer.

Home Address: 1021 Park Ave., New York, N. Y.

Business Address: Unical Corporation of America, 25 Broad St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Gertrude S. Vander Poel, Sept. 8, 1944, New York, N. Y.

War Service: Civil Air Patrol. Entered 2nd Lt., Feb. 1942; terminated 1st Lt., Sept. 1943.

I was based at Atlantic City where I flew my own plane as pilot on anti-submarine work. I flew approximately 70 missions or a total of about 300 hours over the Atlantic Ocean. We covered the area from New York Harbor to Delaware Bay.

After the Navy suspended our activities in September 1943, I became associated with the Commonwealth Aircraft in their executive offices in New York City. During that time I was Assistant to the President, engaged in expediting the glider program, and beginning in 1945, I also helped in the development of a small amphibian for postwar sales. In June of 1945, the Government cancelled the glider contract and through connections with certain men in New York, I became associated with the Unical Corporation of America, as Treasurer.

The last four-five years were years of hardship and suffering for nearly all the people of the world. Japanese-American residents of the

Twentieth Anniversary Report

West Coast underwent suffering and hardships unique and unprecedented in the history of the United States.

By the activities of economic pressure groups and by the decision of a prejudiced commanding general, all Japanese-Americans, citizens of the U. S. and aliens alike, were given from a few hours to a month's notice to vacate the West Coast. By this decision, without due process of law, all were uprooted from their homes and businesses and placed in camps, surrounded by barbed wire fences and guarded by watch-towers manned by soldiers with machine guns.

I learned by experience that constitutional rights mean very little in time of war—especially for an unpopular small minority group as were the Japanese-Americans. I learned that what rights and privileges you enjoy in time of war depend upon the will of the power that is—in my case the military.

In spite of this harsh treatment I point with pride to the records of our Nisei soldiers who fought or died so bravely for our country; I point with pride to the fact that there is not on record a single case of sabotage or espionage by a Japanese-American either in the continental U. S. or in Hawaii where the commanding general did not see the necessity of a wholesale evacuation like that which took place from the West Coast.

We, like the rest of the hundred thousand Japanese-Americans, were summarily removed from our home and business and placed in a camp. Thenceforward we literally became "American Refugees." For one full year the home for my family and me was a twenty-by-twenty room in a hurriedly constructed barrack furnished with but four canvas cots. My story of the year in confinement is the history of much mental suffering and physical inconvenience. How to explain to our children the reason for our confinement when we had done no wrong was hard. I haven't yet been able to explain that one satisfactorily. Race is the only explanation and I hate it.

I was finally given the right to leave camp and so May 29, 1943, my family and I took off to find a new home as we were not allowed by an army decree to return to our original home in the West. We wandered the Middle West looking for a home; even thought of coming back to Harvard, thinking it might offer us refuge. We were timid and afraid of public reaction to our presence. The terrible stories that kept on coming from the Pacific war theatres were no help to our mental well-being.

Harvard Class of 1926

With the aid of the many church groups which were giving tremendous help to the evacuees and of the many tolerant people we finally made our home in the small university city of Boulder, Colorado, where the U. S. Navy was maintaining a Japanese Language School for officers. Thanks to the Naval and civic officials here the reaction on the whole was quite friendly.

For a time my wife taught at the Naval School. As for me—I'm still in the process of trying to reestablish myself in my old business.

In spite of it all, I'm proud and thankful to be an American and living in the U. S. No hard feelings.

WILLIAM DAVID MOGEY

Occupation: Optical Manufacturer—President.

Home Address: 81 Myrtle Ave., North Plainfield, N. J.

Business Address: William Moge & Sons, Inc., Plainfield, N. J.

Married: Theodate Fitz-Randolph, Sept. 26, 1931, Plainfield, N. J.

Children: Robert Fitz-Randolph, Sept. 28, 1933; Sandra Lou, Oct. 22, 1939; Carol Lee, Dec. 18, 1945.

My activities for the past five years have been those of the President of William Moge & Sons, Inc., manufacturers of optical instruments for over 60 years. The unprecedented demand for military and aircraft instruments during the war expanded our activities to the limit. I have not had a real vacation for five years and don't have one in sight for another year.

HANS BARSO MOLHOLM

Occupation: Physician.

Home Address: 1420 Grattan St., St. Louis, Mo.

Business Address: Bliss Psychopathic Hospital, 1420 Grattan St., St. Louis, Mo.

Married: Margaret Robertson Latady, June 3, 1930, Hingham, Mass.

Children: John Thegn, April 21, 1934; Thomas Bond, July 11, 1935.

I am the Medical Director of the Bliss Psychopathic Hospital, a municipally operated institution of 186 beds, and an Assistant Professor of Psychiatry at Washington University School of Medicine.

I am particularly interested in seeing that the psychiatric casualties of Word War II are, and will be, treated more adequately than those of World War I.

Occupation: Dentist.

Home Address: 68 Burton St., Brighton, Mass.

Business Address: 475 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.

Married: Catherine O'Meara, April 8, 1944, Providence, R. I.

War Service: Army. Entered Captain, Feb. 26, 1941; terminated Lt. Colonel, March 10, 1946. Chief of Dental Service, 208th General Hospital, Iceland, and 327th Station Hospital, England. Also duty at Army hospitals in the United States (and Texas).

ERNEST KENICHI MORIWAKE

Last Known Home Address: 382 Wadsworth Ave., New York, N. Y. (Lost.)

[In 1941 Moriwake was with the Consulate General of Japan in New York, and presumably was not at liberty in the U. S. A. after Dec. 7, 1941. Whether he was sent back to Japan or is still in this country is not known.]

GEORGE MONROE MORLEY

Occupation: Banking (Mortgages)—Assistant to the Dept. Head.

Home Address: 2 Grace Court, Brooklyn 2, N. Y.

Business Address: Corn Exchange Bank Trust Co., 13 William St., New York 5, N. Y.

Married: Martha Hummel, May 23, 1936, Brooklyn, N. Y.

There has been essentially no change in my banking endeavors and I am still servicing and selling mortgages. As for the war, after several fruitless attempts to obtain a commission from both the Navy and the Coast Guard, I decided to divide my time between the Coast Guard Auxiliary and the Central Fire Alarm Bureau of the New York City Fire Dept. The latter association proved to be intensely interesting, primarily because it furnished an opportunity to put into effective use experience gained over many years from my absorbing hobby as a fire fan. Assignments to duty were on the evening and night tours, and we assumed considerable responsibility in the handling of fire traffic, dispatching of apparatus and transmission of radio signals. During this period I also managed to sandwich in several courses of study involving radio communications, celestial navigation and meteorology. Sailing will always be my favorite outdoor recreation, with annual cruises on a New York "forty" nicely solving the vacation problem. My membership in the Corinthians is certainly a worthwhile connection, and I also enjoy our small but unique Fire Bell Club. Once in a while we have a jam session, and Jim Moynahan often joins us in these.

JOHN DAVIS WILLIAMS MORRILL

Home Address: Glenridge Rd., Dedham, Mass.

Married: Joan Marsh, Oct. 24, 1943, Santa Monica, Calif.

War Service: AAF, ATC. Entered 1st Lt., May 16, 1942; separated Lt. Col., Jan. 10, 1946. Training aircraft mechanics, then in Air Transport Command Headquarters in Washington, D. C., supervising the ferrying of tactical aircraft to the various theaters. Then in North African Division of the Air Transport Command at Casablanca as Liaison Officer with the French Air Force and assistant to Chief of Staff for Operations. Returned to the U. S. in November 1945 and went on terminal leave Jan. 10, 1946, until April 14, 1946.

Am at present living in Chevy Chase, Md., and looking for a job and a place to live, which does not seem to be easy at our "advanced age." Hope to supplement this soon with an occupation and a home address! [Date of questionnaire—February 7, 1946.]

GEORGE PATRICK MORRIS

Occupation: Shipbuilding—Supervisor, Incentive.

Home Address: 811 East Broadway, South Boston, Mass.

Business Address: Bethlehem Steel Corp., Quincy, Mass.

Married: Anne F. Golden, June 24, 1933, Dorchester, Mass.

Children: George P., May 14, 1934 (died April 4, 1939); Ann Marie, Feb. 2, 1936; Dorothy Eleanor, July 6, 1937; Paul Geoffrey, June 21, 1939; Pauline, June 22, 1941; Robert, April 7, 1943; Joan, Aug. 27, 1945.

For several years I have been absorbing the buffeting of labor and management in my present work, which strangely enough I thoroughly enjoy. In between times the only satisfactory antidote for the tumult of the shipyard is retreat to northern New Hampshire and the Eastern Slopes region. My several children think this is a good idea too.

Occupation: Sales Manager—Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Home Address: 63 Van Buren Ave., West Hartford, Conn.

Business Address: 750 Main St., Hartford, Conn.

Married: Elsa S. Jaffin, Oct. 15, 1936, Jersey City, N. J.

Children: Anne Jaffin, July 10, 1940; Peter Jay, July 7, 1943.

After eighteen years of varied business experience in management of a finance company, theatres, insurance company and my own manufacturing business, I have finally found my proper niche with Britannica. The ideal combination of its fine educational program and unique position in the world of today, together with a dynamic, modern presentation, satisfy my requirements, both aesthetic and financial. I am taking full advantage of the breadth of scope of my liberal arts background at college to help a new generation overcome many of the pitfalls that lay before us when we first emerged into the world of the "Roaring Twenties."

Married: Marie Roche, Jan. 1928.

Children: Jane, Oct. 6, 1936; Toni, Jan. 1, 1939; Susan, Jan. 17, 1940.

Having spent a number of years in attempting to modernize methods in camouflage and protective concealment, my laboratories were fortunate in having the only completed plans for Army use when the Japs attacked Pearl Harbor. After completing this work for the Army, I retired to a quiet existence, with the exception of time spent in the Aleutian Islands where I was injured quite unromantically and still sport a little gimp as a result.

Other than John deBruyn-Kops, see very little of any classmates.

JOHN MORSE

Occupation: Banking—Vice President and Treasurer.

Home Address: 17 Hawes St., Brookline, Mass.

Business Address: United States Trust Company, 30 Court St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Aline M. Strauss, Feb. 2, 1929, Brookline, Mass.

Child: John, Jr., May 30, 1937.

War Service: Naval Aviation. Entered Lieut., May 1942; separated Lt. Comdr., Nov. 1945. Air Force, Atlantic Fleet.

Harvard Class of 1926

After a busy and interesting period of Naval service, I have returned to my family and have resumed my banking career. Poor but enthusiastic skiing in the winter months and an occasional swim in the summer keep my waistline within bounds.

NOEL MORSS

Occupation: Lawyer and Corporation Treasurer.

Home Address: 568 South St., Needham, Mass.

Married: Marion Hayward (Clancey), Dec. 17, 1937, Boston, Mass.

Child: Christopher, March 14, 1940.

War Service: June, 1944–March, 1946, Negotiator and Legal Reviewer, Price Adjustment Section, Boston Ordnance District.

For the first two years of war I was kept busy as treasurer of three war housing projects operating in Maine. Since then I have been in renegotiation work with the Boston Ordnance District while continuing in my "spare" time work for my companies and, by way of relaxation, recently becoming treasurer of a shipyard in New Jersey.

Children: Frederick S., 3d, May 4, 1928; James Brady, May 22, 1931; Ailsa, Aug. 23, 1935.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieut., Feb. 2, 1942; separated Commander, Feb. 25, 1946. I enlisted Feb. 2, 1942, and was ordered to report to Army & Navy Munitions Board, Washington, D. C. Dec. 21, 1942, I reported to Sub. Chaser Training Center, Miami, Fla., where I remained in school till assigned to U.S.S. P.C. 570. At that time stationed in San Francisco as Executive Officer. Took command shortly thereafter and operated out of San Francisco and later from Eureka, Calif. Detached Nov. 4, 1943, and ordered to return to Miami for one-month refresher course. Assigned to U.S.S. R. S. Bull DE-402 as Executive Officer before she was commissioned Feb. 26, 1944. Proceeded to Pacific Area where the division was ordered to report to the small carriers as anti-aircraft and anti-submarine protection. On Nov. 19, 1944, took command. Engagements: Morotai, Leyte, 2nd Battle of the Philippines, Linquayen, Iwo Jima, Okinawa. Decorations: Bronze Star Medal, American Theater, Asiatic Pacific (5 stars), Victory Medal, Philippine Liberation Medal (2 stars).

CITATION

For distinguishing himself by heroic and meritorious conduct off Leyte Gulf, Philippine Islands, while attached to the USS Richard S.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Bull. On 25 October 1944, as boat officer, Lieutenant Commander Moseley supervised the rescue of about fifty blast and torpedoed victims, all stretcher cases and survivors of the USS Eversole. Despite darkness, high seas, and the immediate presence of an enemy submarine he continued rescue work until all hands were safely aboard the USS Richard S. Bull. During this period, escort vessels made an attack upon an enemy submarine which was in the immediate vicinity. His inspirational leadership, utter disregard for his safety, and his devotion to duty distinguished him among those performing duties of the same character.

These last five years I have spent on the home front. Makes me feel a bit old to know that at least one of my German pupils acted as his company's interpreter in Germany, while I stayed here, classified 3A-H, which I believe means over-age (would otherwise have been 4F).

In 1941, I was still teaching in Middletown Township High School at Leonardo, N. J. Since then I have taught German and Spanish in Westfield, and now Spanish at North Plainfield, N. J. Have also coached track, and shall again this spring. Worked in war plants several summers.

My chief interests outside of education and languages are my family, home, and a very modest but growing collection of recorded music (not swing). Have, happily, come almost full circle, and now am near my old home town of Plainfield, where my parents still live.

Child: Elizabeth McKean, Aug. 16, 1937.

Instead of uniformed glory, home-front work with nose to the grindstone has occupied the last several years. Advertising during these war years turned from selling of products to customers to the selling of patriotic effort to employees. This took the form of various kinds of incentive activities, and I did my stint in operating many of these: training courses for employees and in civilian defense; plant openings, including the dedication of the synthetic rubber plants in West Virginia; and production award ceremonies, climaxed by the Army-Navy "E" award to the nine companies that built and operated the atomic energy projects at Oak Ridge, Tenn. These odd jobs sandwiched in with regular advertising and publicity programs kept me performing about at wartime level of "six men's work."

Now and again we get a little time off for music, but I have become more of a listener and less of a virtuoso these days.

ing their houses—and still gained fifteen pounds! Spent about two years in the U.S.C.G.R. War Service: Navy. Entered Lt. (j.g.), Oct. 1940; released to inactive duty Lt. Cmdr., Sept. 1945.

I have been a member of the Naval Reserve since 1933. I was called to active duty as Lt. (j.g.) in October 1940. Although I had been attached to an organized division in the reserve which was intended for destroyer duty in case of war, we were assigned to local defense duty in our “home” Naval District. As a result I drew a desk job at Norfolk, Virginia. Was ordered to a training center on Long Island in April 1945 as prospective commanding officer of a PT Base assigned to the Pacific, but hostilities ended before we actually left the States. Hence, no area ribbons, no battles, no decorations.

For personal reasons I am starting civilian life again in a new city and a new field. So far I’ve found the problems of “reconversion” considerably more difficult than the original transition to a military life.

EDWARD REED NASH, JR.

Home Address: 318 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieut., Feb. 27, 1942; separated Lt. Comdr., Jan. 6, 1946. USS Mahogany, Newfoundland and Atlantic 1942. Beachmaster Pacific Area, 1943-45. Invasions: Marshall Islands, Jan. 31, 1944; Peleliu Island, Sept. 15, 1944.

I went on active duty with the U. S. Naval Reserve on April 10, 1942, having applied for a commission shortly after the declaration of war. My first months consisted of Local Defense School, Boston, duty at Section Base, Woods Hole, Mass., and duty under instructions aboard the USS Teaberry, stationed at Boston. January 1, 1943, found me reporting for duty as Executive Officer aboard the USS Mahogany, then attached to the Naval Base at Argentia, Newfoundland. After six months in this wild climate, we set sail for Boston and I was then ordered to school at the Submarine Chaser Training Center at Miami, Florida. This was a terrific strain on my aging mentality and the heat of July and August in Miami, compared to the winter spent in Newfoundland, was indeed a contrast. In the fall of 1943 I was ordered to San Diego and thence to Pearl Harbor as Beachmaster (no one knew what they were at that time) with the 5th Amphibious Force. After three months' training we took off for the Marshall Islands invasion, landing on D-Day, January 31, 1944.

Our next excursion took us to Guadalcanal and Russell Islands in the South Pacific, where we met the First Marine Division and staged for the invasion of the Palau Islands. The landing on Peleliu Island on D-Day, September 15, was much more rugged than anything we had encountered in the Marshalls. Back to Pearl Harbor again and then, oh happy day, I was ordered to the west coast to train and equip two more beach parties. Incidentally, my various stays at Honolulu were greatly augmented by the hospitality of our classmate, Charles "Bunny" Henderson. We were later sent to Guam, expecting to stage there for the invasion of Tokuna, an island north of Okinawa. This was postponed and later cancelled. Arriving back once more in Pearl Harbor, I was ordered back to San Francisco and Boston after witnessing VJ-Day in Pearl Harbor and Honolulu, a celebration I shall always remember.

At present I am job hunting but soon expect to be associated with a company manufacturing and selling precision built homes, thereby, I

Harvard Class of 1926

I left our fifteenth reunion sobered by Greg Wells' speech on affairs in Washington. As I was already in the Army Medical Reserve Corps it was not long before I found myself in uniform. The unit to which I was attached, the 105th General Hospital, was 100% Harvard doctors. The Hospital served in Australia for two years, on Biak Island off the northwest coast of Dutch New Guinea for one year, later moving to the Philippines. An unfortunate and sudden illness necessitated that I be invalided home in the autumn of 1943, and later given a medical discharge early in 1944. One of the greatest disappointments of my life was to leave a fine group of men who were doing a great piece of work.

Returning to practice in Boston, I found the 4 F's and the older generation working as hard as the men in service. After a year of "limited service" I stepped into accelerated practice, hospital work and teaching. The birth rate is still rising and I am looking forward to the vacation afforded by our 20th reunion.

My extracurricular activities are golf and fishing.

In February 1942 I was called to active duty at Fort Devens, where I spent two years, first as Post Recruiting Officer and later as President of the Aviation Cadet Examining Board. I was transferred in 1944 to Camp Edwards and as a member of the Hospital Train Detachment accompanied both our own and enemy wounded to the various general hospitals throughout the country. After three years of service, I was discharged and have again taken up my business on the Boston Stock Exchange.

A survey of my activities for the last five years leads me to the conclusion that, if I have any interests worthy of note, outside of my family and the conduct of what seems to me a busy and time-engrossing practice, it must be in stealing time off for long summer week ends at our place in Vermont and long winter evenings with good friends.

War Service: My government service was mostly alphabetical. It started just at the time of our last reunion in 1941, when I was called back to Tennessee by the TVA to organize their Emergency Power Conservation program. This was followed later by dollar-a-year jobs with OPM, WPB, and OWI. In April of 1945, I went to Europe as one of the group of editors called by General Eisenhower to investigate and verify conditions in the concentration camps at Dachau and Buchenwald. We did some high-speed traveling throughout Western Europe—but nothing to equal Bill Ladd, whom I met by chance one day in Paris and the next in London.

On the home front I have continued with This Week Magazine, becoming Editor in 1943. In 1945 I also did a stint as intermission speaker on the Ford Sunday Evening Hour—as a result of which at least a dozen friends have reminded me of F. P. A.'s famous couplet about my predecessor:

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieut. (j.g.), Nov. 1940; separated Comdr. S(E), May 1, 1946.

At the time of the last report, I was on active duty with the Navy. This was as Degaussing Officer, 1st Naval District, with duties in connection with mine sweeping and anti-submarine work from Newport to all stations up to and including Newfoundland. Later was assigned as Liaison Officer to Canadian Navy on a special development with General Electric Co. In December 1942 was transferred to Staff, Commander Service Force, South Pacific Area and Force (3rd Fleet), and served for a year as D. G. Officer for that area from New Zealand to the Solomons. Finally was transferred to Bureau of Ships, Washington, D. C., in the Research Section on Special Weapons Countermeasures, working closely with the National Defense Research Committee on Anti-Submarine Warfare. This duty involved liaison and developments within Naval laboratories located in Boston, New London, Anacostia, Quonset, Ft. Lauderdale, and San Diego. At this writing, my active duty terminates on May 1, 1946.

After graduating and a year at the Business School, I spent an interesting two years with Stone & Webster. In 1929 the securities end of the business attracted me but proved less glamorous as the years went by. In 1942 I went into partnership with my cousin in my present connection and have certainly found plenty of activity.

As to wartime service, I still have my badge as an auxiliary policeman and my honorable discharge from the Aircraft Warning Service. Living on the seashore these two activities kept us busier than might otherwise have been, especially during the dim-out.

At present I am a Trustee of the Beverly Savings Bank, a Director

I left The Bristol Co., Waterbury, where I was five years ago, last summer. At about the same time, we sold a large house and 13 acres we had bought there. I had a try at more electrical instrument development with Conn. Telephone & Electric in Meriden, but that situation did not work out well either. Yesterday, Feb. 27, I accepted a very good offer from Edison, where, apparently, I shall be largely responsible for the development work of the Instrument Division. I sold two patents to that company in 1941, which paid for the above-mentioned house. I regret that Bristol Co. did not give me a chance to make inventive or other engineering contributions to the War. My only direct contribution was the design and construction of a very special galvanometer for the Navy, which I made in spare time last winter.

By the time this goes to print, we hope to be living in some new chateau (we hope, we hope), probably somewhere between the Oranges and Morristown, N. J. We haven't been happy in Waterbury and are eager to move. Then I hope to revive my old hobbies—model railroad-

I have enjoyed playing some court tennis, but have had few chances to improve my golf. I am secretary of the National Golf Links of America, and last year bought a small place in Bridge Hampton, Long Island.

HOWARD BURGESS PECK

Occupation: Medicine—Ophthalmologist.

Home Address: 610 South Carlisle, Albuquerque, N. Mex. (after July 1).

Business Address: Medical-Dental Bldg., Albuquerque, N. Mex.

Married: Aleen Della Hughes, Aug. 4, 1939, Mansfield, Ohio.

Children: Thomas Hughes, July 16, 1941; William Howard, Aug. 18, 1944.

War Service: AAF Medical Corps. Entered Major, Aug. 25, 1942; separated Lt. Col., March 15, 1946. Fought the whole war in California, Arizona, and New Mexico due principally to my extreme elderliness and willingness to go overseas. Special citations and decorations fall like rain in the above states.

Outside of being married and being limited to two fine sons by the hazards of Army life, nothing much has happened except to be pushed around by that Army. Professionally I have undoubtedly backslid like all doctors in the Services, and hope to recoup before it is too late. The one good thing the Army did for us was to introduce us to the weather and other attractions of the Southwest where we have decided to live.

Children: Sarah Gibbs, Jan. 18, 1931; John Bigelow, Apr. 17, 1934.

FRANCIS WILLIAM PERKINS

Occupation: Aviation.

Home Address: 11 Beverly Rd., West Hartford 7, Conn.

Business Address: Pratt & Whitney Div. of United Aircraft Corp., East Hartford 8, Conn.

Married: Josephine Lovell Francis, Jan. 14, 1933, Troy, N. Y.

Children: Francis W., Jr., June 27, 1934; Josephine H., Sept. 28, 1937.

For the last five years I have continued in the aviation business as in the past. In the latter part of 1942, when with American Airlines, I spent two months at the Presque Isle, Maine, Army Air Base, but trans-Atlantic flying over the northern route did not materialize that winter. Shortly afterwards, on Jan. 1, 1943, I changed over to Pratt & Whitney Aircraft in Hartford where I have remained. At this writing I have just concluded six months in Washington where I was a Consultant on full time to the War Assets Corp. on loan from Pratt &

Whitney Aircraft and working on the problems of the disposal of surplus property in the aviation field.

For exercise, it is tennis and swimming in the summer and squash at a reduced speed in the winter.

GEORGE HOLMES PERKINS

Occupation: Education—Chairman of Department of Regional Planning, Charles Dyer Norton Professor of Regional Planning.

Home Address: 63 Brattle St., Cambridge 38, Mass.

Business Address: Robinson Hall, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

Married: Georgia Hencken, June 3, 1933, Greenwich, Conn.

Child: Gray Hayward, Sept. 26, 1936.

War Service: National Housing Agency, Washington, D. C., Feb. 1942–Feb. 1945.

Three of the past five years my family and I spent in Washington channelling housing where it was needed for the war. I was an architect turned administrator and analyst; the shoes pinched at first for the money spent always had three ciphers too many to suit a New Englander. Battles between agencies for materials, headaches because of indecision on policy within our own agency and attempts to carry out impossible directions of the Army and Navy weighed on us daily. Yet looking back, with petty headaches long since forgotten, I marvel at the millions of persons we housed.

A major problem quickly became that of making some sense out of our program in relation to the future of the cities that we were deluging with permanent and temporary housing. To help we created an Urban Development Division (the word planning carefully avoided after Congress killed the National Resources Planning Board and forbade others to follow in its steps). The wartime housing experience brought home, painfully at times, the need for better integration of federal policy and local planning. We developed methods of housing analysis to meet this need and recommended federal aid for land assembly which have since appeared as parts of the Wagner-Ellender-Taft housing bill. After completing preparation and presentation of the testimony in support of this new legislation, the main war job was completed and the postwar job awaited action by Congress (and more than a year later still does).

Harvard for some time had been pressing for my return and so in February 1945 I resigned as Acting Director to return as head of the Department of Regional Planning. Only a handful of students were then enrolled but almost at once came the deluge, for today our department has double its highest prewar enrollment. But academic calm did not last long because this past November I flew to London with Compton of Tech and the Governor to try to persuade the UNO that it could find no better home than Boston. Twenty-odd other cities also were in the running. The two weeks were hectic, illuminating, and successful enough so that Boston and New York were the only two cities to be examined by the Site Committee in its trip to this country. As principal planning advisor to the UNO Committee for the Boston and Providence areas, I really learned to appreciate the advantages which we've always taken for granted around Boston. Though we lost to New York in the final decision, the experience was grand.

This new interest in planning has spread much further afield than among students only, to citizens everywhere. Staid Boston has a new Greater Boston Development Committee, of which I am a member, which hopes to bring a new renaissance to the city. The political aspects of planning constantly intrigue me quite as much as the technical phases, and I hope never to return to an exclusively academic life.

JOHN WILDER PERKINS

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: Dearborn Ave., Hampton, N. H.

Business Address: 164 Water St., Exeter, N. H.

Married: E. Ruth Riley, North Woodstock, N. H.

Child: John Calvin, Jan. 5, 1934.

Since the last report I have continued to practice law and to serve as Justice of the Hampton Municipal Court. In 1942 I was elected a member of the New Hampshire Governor's Council for a two-year term—my only political venture. I have also taken up skiing with the usual results: mostly downhill but not always on my skis.

GEORGE SAWYER PETTEE

Occupation: Education—Associate Professor of Political Science.

Home Address: 36 Snell St., Amherst, Mass.

Business Address: Amherst College, Amherst, Mass.

Married: Margaret Shultz, June 16, 1933, Quincy, Mass.

Children: George Benjamin, July 5, 1934; Margaret Susan, May 29, 1941.

War Service: Aug., 1941—May, 1942, OPM-WPB; May, 1942—March, 1943, OFF-OWI; March, 1942—Sept., 1945, BEW-FEA.

I went to Washington in August before Pearl Harbor as assistant to Professor W. Y. Elliott in the Stockpile and Import Shipping Branch of OPM, later WPB. In May, 1942, I went to the Intelligence Bureau of OFF where I worked under Keith Kane. When the Bureau was slashed in 1943, I moved to BEW-FEA where I eventually served as Chief of the European Enemy Division, working on economic intelligence problems concerned with the German war economy. In August, 1945, Amherst offered me a teaching job and I accepted it.

Child: James Davis, Nov. 6, 1935.

War Service: War Department, Feb. 15, 1943, to October 29, 1944, Renegotiation Division, Office of the Surgeon General; Army, Captain, JAGD from Oct. 30, 1944, to date. Legal Division, Office of the Surgeon General, Washington, D. C. Won Army Commendation Ribbon; American Theater ribbon.

Having volunteered for army service in 1942 without corresponding enthusiasm on the part of the authorities, I continued as Secretary-Treasurer and counsel to Pease Laboratories, Inc., and with the practice of the law; so far as the war went, just one of the boys in the Auxiliary Police, OCD, Westchester Defense Council.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

In February 1943 I entered the Renegotiation Division, Office of the Surgeon General, as a civilian negotiator. With the background of the law and administration of scientific research, I was soon assigned to the administration of the Royalty Adjustment Act 1942 on behalf of the Medical Department. It was just getting under way and there was some zest in helping to break new ground. There was a good bit of pullman and some plane hopping. They weren't junkets, the way traveling was, either, and Uncle Sam was saved a good pot of millions in war procurement cost. Evidently the inventors from whom "excessive and unreasonable" royalties were separated were not too disgruntled for the work was all accomplished by contract without the service of an order. Sales letters to nationals of Sweden and Switzerland brought in their contributions. There was variety. To avoid duplication in many of these negotiations, I represented the Secretaries of the Navy, Agriculture and Treasury and the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs as well as the Secretary of War. It was my pleasure to serve on a committee of three to prepare chapters on Royalty Adjustment and its coordination with renegotiation for the Army Patents Procurement Manual. At the end, an admiral was good enough to write a "well done" to my C. O.

Then there were negotiations with the Alien Property Custodian for Government royalty-free use of vested patents and licenses of enemy aliens, and there were requisitions both to file and to fill under the Patent Interchange Agreement 1942 between the United States and United Kingdom, and lend-lease matters with other Allies.

As liaison with the Patents Division, Office of the Judge Advocate General, there has been a part to play in preserving the Government's rights in the development of the acrylic artificial eye, prosthetics, penicillin, streptomycin, the anti-malarials, various developments of the Office of Scientific Research and Development, and some of the other things that made war a little less than Sherman dubbed it. These matters, supplemented with some good riding at Fort Myer and in Maryland, didn't leave much time to be bothered with the touted discomforts of wartime Washington.

By 1944, the Service Forces had come to see the use of all this and some of us who had formerly been rather outside the military pale were honored (and personally renegotiated!) with commissions. It has, however, been a great and satisfying experience to have had even this modest association with the outstanding people of the Medical Department and the bang-up job they did.

Most of the time I have lived in Georgetown, just down the hill from Harvard's Dumbarton Oaks. I attended a lecture there one evening by the ineffable and now, alas, immortal E. K. Rand, and watched the Chief Justice enjoy it. Incidentally, and as a supplement to the scientific and academic advance of University affairs, I think that full University support should be accorded the rare gardens at Dumbarton Oaks and the Arboretum; there are things that could and should be done in that connection.

It is mid February '46 and I am still Pentagon-borne and working like the devil to clean up the loose ends. A linen suit and a bright red tie by reunion time seem like a good idea.

Children: Lewis Stephen, 3d, Nov. 15, 1932; David Bogart, May 11, 1934; Nan Eleanor, March 11, 1937; Paul Schuyler, March 7, 1945.

War Service: Army Medical Corps. Entered Captain, May 21, 1942; terminated Lt. Col., March 8, 1946. 2nd Convalescent Hospital—Executive Officer and Chief of Surgical Service, May, 1942, to April, 1943; Fletcher General Hospital, Cambridge, Ohio—Chief of General Surgical and Women's Surgical Sections, May, 1943, to Jan., 1945; Lovell General Hospital, Ft. Devens, Mass.—Chief of General Surgical Section and Chief of Surgical Service (4,000 surgical beds), Jan., 1945, to Dec., 1945.

I have been practicing surgery in Newton and Boston since 1934 when I completed my surgical training at the Lahey Clinic. At the present time I hold the positions of visiting surgeon at the Newton and Waltham Hospitals (on leave of absence in military service) and associate surgeon at the New England Baptist Hospital. My two principal interests are the two very prosaic ones of my profession and my family, but I find them both sufficiently exciting so that I do not feel the need for any other major hobbies, except for the usual run of social and recreational activities (indoor and outdoor). If I tend to relax and try to enjoy the pleasures of advancing old age, my children soon argue me out of it, so I am still reasonably active and vigorous. I have written articles in various medical and surgical journals (three this past year). I am a member of the Harvard Club of Boston, West Newton Neighborhood Club, Newton Medical Club, American Medical Association, Massachusetts Medical Society, American College of Surgeons, etc.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant, Nov. 19, 1942; terminated Lieutenant, June 28, 1945. Ground Aviation: Feb., 1943–Jan., 1944, Naval Air Station, Quonset Point, R. I., Drill Officer at Indoctrination School; Jan., 1944–March, 1945, Naval Auxiliary Air Facility, Groton, Conn., Officer-in-Charge; March, 1945–June, 1945, Naval Air Station, Willow Grove, Pa., Civilian Personnel Officer.

It has been five years since I have written to you and, although there is nothing very interesting to tell you, you asked for it. I resigned from Chestnut Hill Academy in 1942 to look for Japs, but didn't see any. I took part in the great Battle of Quonset, indoctrinating "Golden Boots" shoulder to shoulder with Twenty-sixers Prescott Huntington and Jack Maher. I later fought the Battle of Groton, without benefit of former classmates; then Willow Grove, known around the circuit as "Happy Acres"—no battle fought there. It was a tough war, but many of us never got a chance to find out.

After some time back in Philadelphia, I decided for family reasons to move to Boston, so we sold our house in Ambler, bought one in Dedham, all within a week last February, and are still in the woods—so the wood-chopping department can function as of old. I got a job in Boston today, just in time to meet your deadline. I will write you again in five years and tell you all about it.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieut. (j.g.), May 26, 1941; separated Lt. Comdr., Nov. 4, 1945. Assignments: USS YMS-1, Commanding Officer from March 27, 1942, to Feb. 17, 1943; USS Direct (AM90), Commanding Officer from May 31, 1943, to November 10, 1943; USS Pheasant (AM61), Commanding Officer from Nov. 13, 1943, to Sept. 29, 1944; USS Vinton (AKA83), Executive Officer from Feb. 23, 1945, to Aug. 24, 1945.

The YMS-1 (a 136-foot district minesweeper) was based at Key

Harvard Class of 1926

West, Florida, the Direct (a 173-foot minesweeper) at Bermuda, and the Pheasant (a 220-foot fleet minesweeper) at Norfolk, Va. These vessels were all equipped with anti-submarine gear and while I was attached to them performed only escort or patrol duty in the Atlantic and Caribbean, up to mid-May 1944. At this point, the Pheasant, having reached England, was assigned minesweeping duties and participated in the Normandy and Southern France invasions.

The Commander, U. S. Naval Forces in Europe, awarded me the Bronze Star Medal with the following citation:

"For meritorious service and courageous devotion to duty as Commanding Officer of the U.S.S. Pheasant during the initial assault on France and the bombardment of Cherbourg on June 25, 1944.

"Lieutenant Commander Pratt, when the U.S.S. Tide struck a mine and badly damaged, took his ship alongside unhesitatingly, despite the omnipresent danger of enemy mines, embarked many of the personnel of the stricken vessel, including the injured, and removed them to safety. The prompt and decisive action he took contributed in large measure toward keeping the loss of life to a minimum.

"During the bombardment of Cherbourg, Lieutenant Commander Pratt, despite the fact that he was under heavy shore battery fire from which battleships and destroyers had already withdrawn, proceeded shorewards and conducted his sweeping operations. With the assistance of destroyers he then proceeded to make smoke and screen the battleships until the bombardment phase was complete.

"The courage and devotion to duty of Lieutenant Commander Pratt was in keeping with the best tradition of the United States naval service."

The Provisional Government of France awarded me the Croix de Guerre with Bronze Star for exceptional war service rendered in the course of operations in the liberation of France (specifically, the action of my ship together with other sweepers in our unit during the Cherbourg bombardment).

The Vinton (a C-2 hull assault cargo ship) during the closing months of the war carried, and on one occasion unloaded and assisted to land, military and general cargo in the Pacific.

My assignments in the Navy were stimulating, absorbing, and, as must have been the case with many of our classmates, brought many new personalities into my life.

The ships to which I was assigned for duty took me to a number of seaports, harbors, and roadsteads practically none of which I had visited previously and many of which have much to recommend them. These include: Boston, Mass.; Newport, R. I.; New York, N. Z.; Pearl Harbor and Honolulu, Oahu and Waikulu, Maui in the Hawaiians; and Eniwetok, Guam, Ulithi, and Okinawa.

At present I am trying to appraise current developments and trends with the intention of increasing my business activities. I also am giving time to philanthropic and civic matters.

The war years saw the advertising business transformed into a kind of national propaganda ministry—democratic style. My clients were busy advertising war bonds, accident prevention, and donations to the Red Cross Blood Bank instead of insurance, telephone service or type-writer ribbons. I had the satisfaction of seeing a client win national recognition for producing one of the hundred best war advertisements during two out of the three years when such awards were made.

After enlisting as a private in the State Guard in March 1942, I steadily sank down through the various grades to Lt. Col. on the State Staff, in charge of Public Relations for the Commonwealth.

The Army, the Navy, and even my draft board turned me down for physical requirements, thereby depriving me of the opportunity of writing much of a report. Preferring activity to a job at a desk in Washington, I went to work on the night shift of a war plant, where for a couple of years I managed to put in some fifty hours a week, while running my business during the daytime. Net results: I did a lot of commuting; I became a Class A grinder; I am a so-called capitalist and a member in good standing of the C.I.O. It wasn't very rugged, but it was about all you could expect from an old man with bum underpinning.

I am still the head of the Music Department here at Wheaton, and continue to enjoy it. The choir gets a good deal of my energy, for I help out the college organist by doing some of the music arranging for it, and spell him in the conducting of it. Nothing quite like having a hundred girls looking at you and pouring out their souls. In fact, I often pour out my own soul with the second altos whenever they get down into my range, which has resulted in my being elected an honorary member of the second alto section. Due to the impetus and the energy of the organist here, some of our choir arrangements have been published by the Boston Music Company.

In addition, this year I'm conducting an orchestra of about thirty, made up of both college and townspeople. Wonderful fun, and I've added materially to my stock of facial expressions as a result. One can't be inhibited and still conduct an orchestra.

For other activities, we watch for the first snowdrop and the first migrating birds, after which we migrate ourselves as soon as possible to Mount Desert Island. There I plan what a great deal of work I'm going to do some day, and then go swimming. Life really is very enjoyable at the moment.

Children: Allen E., Jr., Aug. 2, 1933; Louise C., Dec. 20, 1934; Susan D., Dec. 9, 1938.

I was transferred from Boston in 1938 to Syracuse, N. Y., as District Manager of the Tabulating Machine Division of Remington Rand Inc. In March, 1939, another transfer found me in Kansas City, Mo., as Branch Manager. A desire to return to New England and to become, with my family, a more permanent part of a community, resulted in accepting an offer in December, 1942, from the Submarine Signal Company in Boston as Assistant to the Treasurer. In June, 1944, I was appointed Controller where I am now struggling with the problems of reconversion and terminations. I bought a home in Weston, Mass., in 1943 and am now enjoying life there with my wife and three children, growing older and probably more rotund, but not worrying about it. My chief hobbies are photography and gardening.

Business Address: Dexter School, 169 Freeman St., Brookline 46, Mass.

War Service: Coast Guard Auxiliary.

During the last five years I have been more than busy teaching at the Dexter School in Brookline, Massachusetts, but I have managed to find time for a little music, playing my bass clarinet in an orchestra, and singing bass as a member of the Saengerfest. As soon as School has closed in June, I have headed for my cottage in Cohasset where I "stood by" as a member of the Coast Guard Auxiliary. I have for some time belonged to the Cohasset Yacht Club and last year served on the Executive Committee as Director of the Children's Activities. Inasmuch as cruising was out of the question during the War, I spent my time during the summer months fishing, lobstering and mossing—raking sea Irish moss from the ledges below half-tide mark. The latter two enterprises proved delightfully lucrative and, what is equally important, were decidedly beneficial to my waistline. As I look back over these last five years, I feel that I have changed but little, for I am still a sea-going "bach" who loves to teach and "live a humble."

Looking back in my endeavor to bridge the gap between this Class Report and the last, I continue to find close to incredible the fact that for me, as for so many other Harvard 1926 men, strife began at forty and that I should be so long in uniform overseas at a time when all those around me were strongly of the opinion that I should have been safe at home doing something like sitting in a low armchair out of doors in the late summer sunshine and composing my own equivalent of De Senectute. My Squadron book and my Group book are souvenir albums of a type that until most recently I never expected to find my name and photograph within, but there the records are, in type and screen.

Against what befell me in the Armed Forces, I vent no diatribe. I was an enlisted man all the while. By the end of my first year I had climbed up middling high in the ranks, and there I stayed until my discharge more than two years afterward. My official duties were inconspicuous, but enliveningly varied. Many of my tasks were what might have been expected for one of my age and interests and specific gravity; as many more tasks were not. Often the Army Air Force seemed bent on assigning me to cover as much territory as Dryden makes Simri spread himself out over in the "course of one revolving moon." But I made out all right in the end, and I was on the whole pleased with this multiplicity of movement; I had no idea that I could be so protean. I am of course glad for whatever I was active enough to contribute to the war effort, but I am aware of some of those things which I missed by being almost exclusively a member of the Air Force ground echelon. Yet I found out what the five most intense moments are in every Serviceman's life; I learned what question in the ETO was of far more importance than "When is the war going to be over?" or "When are we going home?" I hit upon the epithet that was constantly used as anathema in the last war, but seldom even as a curiosity heard in this, and I discovered the one term hitherto in good repute which had become so obnoxiously unpopular in this war that it was never except slightly applied in serious conversation. As to what part higher education played in winning the war, however, I am not so sure, for in my two years across I came upon no more than a couple of dozen college graduates—including one Harvard man who was an officer, and two who were not—and I saw only two Ph.D.'s, one fewer than I saw generals, and both of them enlisted men. I was stationed in England most of the time, the rest in southern France. When off duty, I did a fair amount of traveling, not as much as I should, but rather more than some; we GI's were for the most part unhistorically minded and un-touristically inclined. I journeyed to Scotland on furlough, I visited Devon and Warwick and Yorkshire, I flew twice to Rome on pass. At my camp toward the center of the East Anglian bulge, I saw England at its climatic worst and at its lesser known best. I have pulled guard on the darkest and most frigid of midnights; no terrace at Elsinore could have been nippier. I have walked through warm moonlight so luminously indigo that Shakespeare himself could give only inspired hints of its blue brilliance. The outstanding bit of good fortune that came my way under army auspices in England was the week's course I attended at Balliol College in Oxford University; my fellow students were enrolled from all ranks and branches of the Allied forces; the lectures were of the highest order. And as clerk in the Intelligence Dept. of a fighter squadron for $2\frac{1}{2}$ years, both at home and abroad, I came in daily contact with some twoscore solo combat pilots who together shot down more enemy aircraft than did the pilots of any other squadron in our Group; even from a distance, this contact was the most pleasantly memorable in all my military experience. Yes, my stretch in the Service has brought me much that is agreeable to look back upon.

Last fall I returned home to find illness so grave in nature that it multiplied my civilian responsibilities and kept me from my regular work. So for me the road back has been and will be slow. Matters seem to be running a little more smoothly at present, and I am hopeful that next September will see me once more facing academic aisles from the imparting side of my teacher's desk.

Having checked the Decennial and Quindecennial Reports, I approach the Twentieth (what's the Latin?) Report with a feeling of having short-changed my room-mates and erstwhile intimates, in spite of whom I managed to graduate in the year 1926 (with what class I have forgotten). Ten years ago I was naïvely unaware of the fine style in which Harvard would set up my remarks. Five years ago I was more concerned with pulling my wife out of a long illness than with telling anyone about myself. Twenty years out of college is in itself so incredible that I might as well let myself go, being willing to believe whatever the other fellows write—and I hope it's fulsome.

Five years more finds me with the same wife, now exceedingly healthy, the same child, the same addresses, the same firm (the senior partner is dead now) and substantially the same interests. On looking myself over I find I am married to a college professor and am "Daddy" to a most interesting person of six for whom I seem to be willing to get up progressively earlier in the morning as suits her convenience and the inconvenience of schools. A war seems to have come and gone without touching much more than an undue proportion of my wholly earned income, like the doctors and hospitals which took away at least a year's gross.

My college tutors were wont to deride me for taking "Mil. Sci." year in and year out with the query, "What do you want to be, a soldier?" Well, I graduated and became and remained for fourteen years a Reserve Officer. Then life dished up a concatenation of circumstances in which I had the choice of "one year of active duty training" (1941) or of standing by my wife "in sickness," to quote a well known ceremony. It was no choice. The frenzy of war had fortunately not gone too far. My humble efforts in the great misfortune took the form of helping in the War and Victory Loan drives. My college education in economics was no help there. It completely disqualified me as a promoter of the sales appeals hatched up by the advertising fraternity.

Aside from earning my living and my taxes in the practice of patent law, I teach a course in that subject in Columbia Extension in collaboration with a friend. I have published in excess of a hundred pages in professional journals in an effort to clear up some of the muddy thinking about patents due to the anti-monopoly furore stirred up by a couple of Yale profs who were for a time associated with the Government. Somebody made me a vice president of the N. Y. Patent Law Association. Somehow I got to be a director of one of my clients, from which I get liberally educated in the headaches of "business."

I do my bit to help carry on the activities of Harry Emerson Fosdick's Riverside Church where Sunday morning finds me conducting a parents' group and ushering.

In the acquisition of 15 acres of wooded hillside with an enormous oak and a view in Newtown, Conn., I have for the first time become a landowner with a distant hope for a quiet retreat from the city's din in the midst of friends. At present it lacks every vestige of civilization except its ancient stone wall boundaries. Friends desiring outdoor exercise with an axe are invited to communicate with me.

PAUL HILLERY RICHARDSON

Occupation: Telephone Communication Engineer—Supervisor of Design Group.

Home Address: 7 Elm Place, Chatham, N. J.

Business Address: Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., 463 West St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Nathalie M. Hurd, Sept. 16, 1933, Concord, N. H.

Children: Paul David, Dec. 20, 1935; George Peter, April 23, 1940.

My peacetime job became a wartime job and I had a finger in a number of useful (?) developments for the Armed Services, including Underwater Sound, Gun Directors, Carrier Telephone System for the Army, Mine Detectors and the like. Not very heroic, but necessary, I gather. I hope now to really make the acquaintance of my family and even to play some golf.

BERNARD ABRAHAM RIEMER

Occupation: Attorney.

Home Address: 115 Sewell Ave., Brookline, Mass.

Business Address: 159 Devonshire St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Marion Eisenman, Aug. 22, 1933, Brookline, Mass.

Children: David I., Nov. 11, 1935; Robert L., Nov. 14, 1938.

My achievements are of little public importance. My greatest interests have centered around the home, tempered with golf at Pine Brook Valley Country Club, of which I am a member, a little squash—not little enough for my ailing body—at the Newton Squash and Tennis Club, and a little fiddling on the violin. Occasionally I have become a little religious-minded and attended services at Temple Emmanuel where I am a director. I am also a member of the Boston Bar and Massachusetts Bar Associations, and a director in a few corporations. My greatest pleasure involves training my two sons to be good athletes, probably to make up for my own shortcomings.

VOLNEY FOSTER RIGHTER

Occupation: Spot Radio Industry—Representative for 40 Radio Stations.

Home Address: Bedford Hills, N. Y.

Business Address: Edward Petry & Co., Inc., 17 E. 42d St., New York 17, N. Y.

Married: Sarah Williams, Oct. 3, 1931, Bedford Hills, N. Y.

Children: James Volney, May 31, 1935; Robert McCormick, March 30, 1939.

I was fortunate or unfortunate, depending on the way you look at it, and stayed home during the war, sticking at the same old job in the spot radio industry and living in the same old home.

As lots of other people found, it wasn't the same as it had been—there were very few of my friends left to see and in an effort to be useful, I did various community things ranging from sleeping at the Bedford Volunteer Fire Department to being chairman of the Boy Scouts for Northern Westchester County. In addition, was active in our local church in which I am a Vestryman, and in this connection helped to organize a discussion group.

Even with this kind of activity, I still missed my friends who were away, and as a boost to our morale, my wife and I took some night courses at Columbia—the best of which was on Shakespeare, given by Professor John H. H. Lyon. This effort was sheer delight and made me think of my misspent four years at Harvard and started me outlining a course of study for my boys which would prevent their taking Military Science and the Nibelungenlied. On further thought, I have decided that maybe all undergraduate work is meant to do is to excite curiosity and make it possible for you to give yourself some education after college.

Paradoxical as it seems, I was one of the few Harvard graduates using the New York Harvard Club during the war, so they put me to work, and I have been Secretary of the Admissions Committee for the last couple of years.

I have continued to spend my two-week summer vacation cruising on small boats and during the war discovered the Great Lakes! I predict that they will become strong competition for the coast of Maine because, for one thing, they have no fog and you can cruise every day of your vacation instead of being land-locked for four days as I was at Boothbay last summer.

Children: John Hallam, Aug. 1929; Mary Barbara, April 1944.

The staffing and operational problems of a hospital should have been enough for any sane person during these war years, but I seem to have acquired other responsibilities including (1) the operation of an apartment house near Ft. Lauderdale, Florida (which gives me an occasional excuse for leaving Northern problems in favor of a Florida beach), (2) a major interest in a new real estate firm known as Vacation Land Realty Co. (which gives me an in-town office without having to pay the rent), and (3) the job as Representative in the Great and General Court of Massachusetts from the 28th Middlesex District which, my constituents willing, I should like to hold for a few years more because I find it fascinating work. As Chairman of our local Finance Committee for five terms, I became much interested in government—and although I certainly stuck my neck out when I left the Finance Committee in favor of Beacon Hill and in spite of the fact that the procedure and tactics of the worthy Opposition frequently give me symptoms of sea-sickness, I am thoroughly convinced that more people ought to take an active part in government. Of course, this work does give me a chance to get into everybody else's business! I am presently a member of

There has been no important permanent change in my status since 1941. My thirty-three months in the Army gave me a pleasant relief from the asperities of teaching and made the return to them all the sweeter. I enjoyed reading the Post Commander's mail at Fort Sill, testing illiterates at Portland, Oregon, and Los Angeles, and interviewing military offenders at the Northwestern Branch of the United States Disciplinary Barracks. I even enjoyed getting kicked out of Officers' Candidate School at Camp Barkeley. In fact, I doubt whether I could have spent three sabbatical years to very much better advantage; and a recent promotion softens the irony of having the young lieutenants, captains, and lieutenant commanders enrolled in my classes still gracefully address me as "Sir."

War Service: UNRRA—Chief Regional Medical Officer. Sept., 1945–March, 1947 (an 18-month term).

[Mrs. Roots wrote us telling of Roots being college physician at the Central China College in a mountain village called Hsichoro, Yunnan Province, China, not far from Tibet. The family lived in a Buddhist Temple, and Roots was very busy treating malaria, dysentery, minor surgery, helping in two local hospitals, teaching courses in public health and first aid, and helping during a cholera epidemic.

Mrs. Roots also enclosed copies of two long and very interesting letters describing her husband's and her own activities in China and then in Auburndale, where they have been living since they came home late in 1944. In China the children had as much work and play and good food and warm clothes (sometimes Chinese padded ones) as they needed; however, there weren't many new clothes in five years and the adults made their old ones do, the existence of a pair of good stockings being very rare indeed. The Chinese, who taught the Roots how to survive in the poverty and scarcity, though used to difficult times most of their lives, considered this period a peak in hard times. Roots climbed mountains, bicycled 12 miles to the hospital in Tali, and walked many miles to see his many patients. "The Hump" shielded this area from the Japanese, though the Japanese started down the Burma Road to it.

Roots flew back to China on Oct. 1, 1945, with a temporary leave from the Mission to serve under UNRRA for 18 months as a medical liaison worker.

Although we couldn't quote completely the letters which Mrs. Roots sent to us, leaving out many interesting facts, we are sure Mrs. Roots would be glad to send copies of these letters to anybody who requests them.]

When war broke at Pearl Harbor in 1941, I was deep in fuel and lubricating oil research for the U. S. Navy as a civilian consultant. It was a case of bringing Guam, Okinawa, Guadalcanal, North Africa and Attu into the laboratory before anyone even knew that these engagements would occur. Along about June, 1942, the Navy problems were about solved so it was on to Army Radar; i.e., the power generation phase. Incidentally, the beach at Belmar, New Jersey, was not too hard to take. At the turn of the year 1943, I became interested in Diesel engines and so accepted associate editorship on a leading Diesel publication. I learned many things they forgot to cover at Harvard Engineering. (Or maybe I was just too dull to absorb them at the time.) This sort of life lasted about two years; then things got sort of draggy and routine and, engineer-like, I looked for new and strange things to SNAFU.

As year number 20 of the anniversary of being quietly asked to leave the environs of Cambridge approaches, I am a free-lancer in engineering and writing, especially in internal combustion engine and related matters. It sounds kind of "highfalutin" but actually I shall never be accused of designing an automobile engine to run on atomic energy. My interests and talents run more along the line of interpretation of technical facts and findings for the layman and the busy engineer. For example, I create lubrication charts for farm tractors for use by farmers; I write articles for popular technical and semi-technical publications; and there are manuals for study, information and standardization. I'll never get rich at it, but it's fun helping folks to a better understanding of technical matters.

I am a member of both the Society of Automotive Engineers and the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and am a licensed Professional Engineer, State of New York.

Occupation: Medicine.

Home Address: 154 Payson Rd., Belmont, Mass.

Business Address: 4452 Washington St., Roslindale 31, Mass.

Married: Edith Robbins, Feb. 1946, Boston, Mass.

War Service: Navy Medical Corps. Entered Lieut., May 1942; terminated Lt. Comdr., Feb. 1946. Attached to Fleet Marine Force in South Pacific. Served in three major engagements, three letters of commendation, Legion of Merit medal, July 1944. Enlisted in Navy in May 1942, preferring duty on clean ship on clean water to the mud and marching of the Army in which I had been a reserve officer for ten years. After two weeks of naval duty I suddenly found myself attached to the Marine Corps and following five months of field combat training at "Tent City," New River, N. C., we were shipped to the South Pacific at the end of 1942 where I remained till the end of 1944. We took part in landings and invasions in the Solomons and the Marianas.

I am a member of the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants, an associate of the American Institute of Accountants, and cubmaster of Pack 5, Allston Cub Scouts.

WENDELL FRANK SAWYER

Occupation: Industrial Consultant.

Home Address: 3 Slaytonbush Lane, Utica, N. Y.

Business Address: 214 Mayro Building, Utica, N. Y.

Married: F. Virginia Armstrong, June 1933, Oak Park, Ill.

Children: Robert B., April 24, 1936; Thomas P., March 26, 1938.

Harvard Class of 1926

My war service consisted in staying at home and being caught in the industrial furor, which, as most of you know, was the same old story of trying to get along with all comers in and out of uniform, sparring with some, arguing with some, and entertaining the rest either by necessity or choice. These things were taking place while I was in the respective spots as chief engineer for Utica Drop Forge & Tool Co. and as manufacturing manager for the combined Divine Bros. Co. and Munson Mill Machinery Co. In March, 1945, I opened my own office as Industrial Consultant and found to my satisfaction that Geo. S. May can own his golf course but still cannot get all the business. Although we are busy and expanding, there is still time to enjoy the model-making in the workshop, trying to teach the boys something of sports, and have time left for the Fort Schuyler Club. Any Harvard men coming this way are invited to stop for business, for pleasure, or for both.

HYMAN GABRIEL SAXE

Occupation: Manufacturing and Sales of products for the shoe trades.

Home Address: 181 Woodland Rd., Chestnut Hill 67, Mass.

Business Address: Eastern Shoe Products, 179 Lincoln St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Dora Feldman, Feb. 21, 1933, Boston, Mass.

Children: Pearl, Dec. 12, 1933; Barry, Oct. 27, 1935; Joyce, July 12, 1939; Jane, March 21, 1944.

In twenty years I've grown moderately paunchy, reasonably gray, but no less toothsome and sparsely pated than before—by the graces of my wife and children.

My activities are still centered in and around the shoe industry from which I stray on occasion for a chance meeting with classmates scattered all over the country. To those of the members I have not seen in person, warm greetings are extended.

Occupation: Minister.

Home Address: 7 Charles Field St., Providence 6, R. I.

Business Address: 7 Charles Field St., Providence 6, R. I.

Married: Clara H. Johnson, Sept. 9, 1931, Weston, Mass.

Children: Robert Marshall, Dec. 16, 1934; Arthur Hartwell, July 1, 1942.

A major event in our family life in the last five years was the taking in of a three-year-old English girl in January, 1941, who returned to her parents in England in April, 1945. She was an only child and so was our boy. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. George A. Pitt. She came from bombed Plymouth, but has returned to them in their new home in Salisbury. It was a most satisfactory adventure all 'round.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

The war years found me an extra busy parson on the home front. With about 100 young men and women of our parish in the Service and all community service boards and committees drained of important helpers, both parish and community commitments demanded extra work. I had to go back as president of the World Affairs Council of R. I. which I had helped form in 1934. It seemed only fair to continue as president of the Volunteers of America, R. I. Jurisdiction. I still possess the relics of my Air Raid Warden days. With Scoutmasters in Service, we either had to end the troop meeting in our Church or I become again a Scoutmaster. I did. I have also continued as president of the Board of Trustees of Proctor Academy, Andover, N. H. Two years ago the Gordon School here in Providence, where my older boy was then going, reached a crisis in its life where I lent a helping hand in its reorganization as a school run cooperatively by the parents, and was "rewarded" by being made chairman of the Board of Governors. I am still president of the little R. I. Philosophical Society and at the moment am sweating over a paper on The Nature of Man: A Survey and Estimate. My wife and I belong to a little play-reading group known as the Bacon Club. I belong to a paper-reading group of ministers, professional men and Brown faculty members known as Dodeka. I am serving the Unitarian fellowship on its Committee for Recruiting the Ministry. Enough of these dull recordings.

By way of a bit of class news, Frederick "Peet" Taft came to help run huge Grace Episcopal Church with Dr. Clarence Horner a year ago, and is in a house across the street from us. We are enjoying immensely our renewed friendship. The only fly in the ointment is that our dog has a tendency to scrap with his. However, Episcopal propriety and Unitarian restraint are keeping this matter in control. This fall Bob Parker helped us redecorate most satisfactorily with wallpaper from his concern—the largest in Rhode Island.

I have a highly varied, exhilarating and sometimes exasperating life-work I wouldn't trade for any other. My life is tied intimately to the needs of many families and individuals where our common efforts at the enrichment and strengthening of life under all circumstances bring values and satisfactions which transcend any others I know. I just hope the rest of my classmates are having at least half the thrill and fun out of living that my family and I obtain.

PAUL ALEXANDER SCHACK

Occupation: Tobacco Buyer.

Home Address: 63 Ridge Road, Glen Rock, N. J.

Business Address: Macy's, Herald Square, New York, N. Y.

Married: Helene Marie Colerick, Sept. 12, 1931, Union City, N. J.

Being a civilian during the war, my story seems dull against the records of those who served in the Armed Forces. I have rounded out my tenth year with Macy's, where I hold forth as manager of the Tobacco Department.

FREDERICK HERMAN SCHARLES

Occupation: Physician.

Home Address: 4801 Roanoke Pkwy., Kansas City, Mo.

Married: Amy Michaels, Oct. 9, 1939, Montreal, P. Q., Canada.

Child: David William, Sept. 28, 1942.

War Service: Army Medical Corps. Entered Captain, May 26, 1942; separated Lt. Col., March 22, 1946. 7th Armored Division, Woodrow Wilson General Hospital, 308th General Hospital, 364th Station Hospital. Asiatic-Pacific Theater and Japan.

OSCAR ASMUS SCHLAIKJER

Occupation: Law and Banking—Vice President and General Counsel.

Home Address: 18 Sudbury Rd., Weston, Mass.

Business Address: Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, 30 Pearl St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Georgia Street, Sept. 19, 1928, Omaha, Nebr.

Children: Jay Arthur, Oct. 5, 1929; Paul Frederick, Oct. 15, 1932; Carl Roger, March 3, 1940.

The invitation to submit a brief outline of my activities of the last five years leaves me unable to report any war service with the Armed Forces. Neither can I report any war service for the Government, although most of my friends conclude otherwise when they learn that I am now employed by the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston in the capacity of Vice President and General Counsel. Notwithstanding (a) the efforts of Representatives Patman of Texas and Voorhis of California, (b) a general public misconception of the nature of the institution for which I work, and (c) a widespread foreign trend toward bank nationalization, the institution for which I now work is still not a part of the

Twentieth Anniversary Report

United States Government. In August 1943 I came to the Reserve Bank, terminating my connection with the Boston law firm of Herrick, Smith, Donald, Farley & Ketchum, where I was theretofore associated for 15 years in the general practice of the law. Here at the Bank during the rest of the war period my time was devoted largely to problems of financing war production.

My principal interests aside from my work continue to be, as last previously stated, my three boys, my guns, and the dogs, grass, and garden. The degree of emphasis has, however, changed: the dogs, having served one of the primary purposes of the project, namely, revelation to the boys of one of the fundamental laws of nature, have been reduced in number from 9 to 2; my attention to grass-cutting and gardening declines in some proportion to the effect upon the body and mind of the passage of years, and in somewhat greater proportion to the serviceability of the boys; and my interest (parental, sentimental, financial, and otherwise) in the boys and guns grows unabated. The first boy, for whom college entrance is an imminent prospect, at 16—height 6 ft. 3 inches, weight 185 pounds—outranks me in those dimensions and in his opinion, naturally at that age, in mental stature also. The second boy is hard on the heels of the first in most respects; and what the third, at 6 years, lacks in weight and stature he possesses in the form of energy. I regard them all with a sense of satisfaction, knowing that credit for the quality of the product is owing in no small measure to their mother.

RICHARD HARRY SCHMIT

Occupation: Physician.

Home Address: 1215 Kensington Ave., Buffalo 15, N. Y.

Business Address: 87 Bryant St., Buffalo 9, N. Y.

Married: Josephine Dill, June 30, 1934, Portland, N. Y.

Child: Carol Louise, Feb. 11, 1944.

ROBERT SIDNEY SCHWAB

Occupation: Physician.

Home Address: 24 Pinckney St., Boston, Mass.

Business Address: Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, Mass.

Married: Dorothy Miller, Aug. 26, 1932, Peterboro, N. Y.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant, Dec. 18, 1941; terminated Commander, March 5, 1946. Served 22 months in a number of Pacific Islands (such as New Zealand, New Hebrides, Guam) in hospital as chief of neuro-psychiatric service. Was medical officer on LST611 in the landing and invasion of Leyte.

Harvard Class of 1926

I followed my hobby of sailing overseas—sailing a ketch called Mandalay in Auckland, N. Z., a dugout canoe in the Hebrides, and a home-made catamaran on Guam.

Since last reporting I have been in practice in neurology at Massachusetts General Hospital, doing electro-encephalography and, except for four and a quarter years in the Navy, I have spent all my free time at Cotuit, Massachusetts.

SAUL BOLTON SCHWARTZ

Business Address: Passaic Herald News, Passaic, N. J.

[The information printed above is taken from the Secretary's files. Schwartz did not return a questionnaire.]

LEO WALDER SCHWARZ

Occupation: Writer and Lecturer (at present engaged in administrative overseas relief work).

Home Address: 60 W. 68th St., New York 23, N. Y.

Business Address: AJDC, c/o American Embassy, APO 887, Postmaster, New York, N. Y.

Married: Ruth Newman, Dec. 11, 1945, St. Louis, Mo.

War Service: Army Medical Corps. Entered Private, May 1942; separated 2nd Lieut., Dec. 1945. 5th Medical Training Battalion, Camp Pickett, Va.; 53rd Medical Battalion, Camp Barkeley, Texas; 105th Malaria Control Unit, Camp Ellis, Ill.; 7th Convalescent Hospital, England and France; 40th General Hospital, France.

[The above was received from a member of Schwarz's family who believes it is accurate. He received some citation for special service at the 40th General Hospital.]

FRANCIS MINTURN SEDGWICK

Occupation: Rancher.

Home Address: Los Olivos, Calif.

Business Address: Los Olivos, Calif.

Married: Alice de Forest, May 8, 1929, New York, N. Y.

Children: Alice; Robert Minturn, 2d; Pamela; Francis Minturn, Jr.; Johnathan Minturn; Katherine; Edith; Susanna.

My endeavors to enlist in the armed forces having been thwarted by asthma, I settled on my ranch and devoted myself to raising a few cattle and quite a lot of children.

Ranching had the undoubted advantage of providing beef and pork,

Twentieth Anniversary Report

chickens and rabbits, and milk and eggs as well as vegetables; and also the doubtful advantage of spare time for indifferent sculpture, worse painting, and a novel "The River," worst of all, the latter published in April 1945, since four hours a day in the saddle sufficed for the cattle work.

In these peaceful pursuits I have been bucked off three times, thrown twice, had a horse fall on me three times, and, for real excitement, bid in the Grand Champion and Reserve Champion Pens of Bulls at the Great Western Livestock Show at prices below average for the show—very dangerous for blood pressure. Strange uses for a Harvard degree!

I am a trustee of the Cate-Vosting School.

THEODORE SEDGWICK, JR.

Occupation: Banking—Assistant Secretary.

Home Address: P. O. Box 807, 10 Mill River Rd., Chappaqua, N. Y.

Business Address: Irving Trust Co., 1 Wall St., New York 15, N. Y.

Married: Emily Adair Hurt, July 6, 1931, Yonkers, N. Y.

Children: Emily Bend, April 15, 1932; Catherine, May 15, 1938.

ARTHUR FORSYTH SEREQUE

Occupation: Chemist.

Home Address: 28 Chestnut St., Shelton, Conn.

Business Address: Sponge Rubber Products Co., Shelton, Conn.

Married: Ann Kozik, Oct. 30, 1931, Warren, R. I.

Children: Shirley Ann, July 27, 1934; Arthur Forsyth, Jr., Oct. 8, 1935; Joyce Becker, Sept. 4, 1943.

After twelve years in the printing business, I returned to technical work in 1942. I am now head of the Physical and Chemical Testing Laboratory of the Sponge Rubber Products Co.

LEOPOLD URIEL SHAPIRO

(see LEE SHERRY)

MELVILLE AARON SHAPIRO

Occupation: Real Estate—President.

Home Address: 32 Curtis Ave., W. Somerville, Mass.

Business Address: Mt. Auburn Realty Co., Inc., 11 Cross St., Somerville, Mass.

Married: Pearl Chorover, Dec. 31, 1944, Swampscott, Mass.

For the past five years I have been active in remodelling and renovating dwelling property in Somerville, Cambridge, and Greater Boston generally.

Harvard Class of 1926

OSCAR MOORE SHAW

Occupation: Lawyer—Member of Firm.

Home Address: Lake Shore Rd., Beverly, Mass.

Business Address: Ropes, Gray, Best, Coolidge & Rugg, 50 Federal St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Margaret Curtis Pickering, Nov. 2, 1929, Beverly, Mass.

Children: Margaret Curtis, July 18, 1934; Edward McMichael, April 27, 1937.

I am still practicing law in Boston with the firm with which I have been since Law School and of which I have been a member since 1937. My practice is mostly of the corporation variety, although during the past five years or so I have done a good deal of labor work—negotiating agreements, War Labor Board dispute cases, and the like—and have found it a tasty sauce for the corporation lawyer's dish. On the extracurricular side, I have played some poor golf and have found my time pretty well occupied by two no longer small children during our summer holidays at Stage Harbor in Chatham. Director: The American Thread Company; Railway and Light Securities Company. Clubs: Union, St. Botolph (Boston), Harvard (N. Y.).

WILLIAM ALBERT SHERMAN

Occupation: Banking—Secretary-Treasurer.

Home Address: R. F. D. 1, Newport, R. I.

Business Address: Newport Trust Co., Newport, R. I.

Married: Marion King, Sept. 24, 1932, Newport, R. I.

Child: Sally King, Feb. 7, 1934.

During the past five years I have continued as Secretary-Treasurer of the Newport Trust Company. I devote much of my spare time to various community organizations and manage to play a good deal of tennis.

LEICESTER HAYDON SHERRILL

Occupation: Advertising Agency—Vice President.

Home Address: 17 Bonnie Briar Lane, Larchmont, N. Y.

Business Address: Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc., 383 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.

Married: Kathryn Lyon Keeler, Oct. 6, 1928, New York, N. Y.

Children: Leicester H., Jr., Oct. 21, 1928; Christopher K., June 8, 1932.

My activities include being vice president of the above corporation, president of Mount Royal Importers (Black Horse Ale), a member of

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Bonnie Briar Country Club, and a member of Waccabuc Country Club.

LEE SHERRY

JAMES ROGER SHIELDS

Occupation: Attorney, Personnel Relations Dept.

Home Address: 109 South Highwood Ave., Glen Rock, N. J.

Business Address: American Tel. & Tel. Co., 195 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Married: Alice MacKerracher, July 4, 1931, New York, N. Y.

Child: Marilyn, May 26, 1940.

CLIFFORD KENYON SHIPTON

Occupation: Librarian.

Home Address: Shirley Center, Mass.

Business Address: American Antiquarian Society, Worcester, Mass.

Married: Dorothy Boyd MacKillop, June 11, 1927, Cambridge, Mass.

Children: Ann Boyd, June 10, 1930; Nathaniel Niles, Feb. 20, 1935; George MacKay, June 22, 1936.

For me the war meant chiefly doubling up for the younger men who went into the service. I had planned to pull out of the Harvard University Archives and devote all of my time to the American Antiquarian Society, but the Army and the Waves took my trained staff members. The government wants them to gather up the remains of the paper war, so I am still swinging between Cambridge and Worcester. I have brought the series of Harvard biographies down through the Class of 1725 and written a volume on Roger Conant. In town affairs I have been chairman of the town finance committee and clerk and moderator of the First Parish.

HAROLD HOWARD SISSON

Occupation: Insurance Broker.

Home Address: 6 Croftdale Rd., Newton Centre, Mass.

Business Address: 112 Water St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Bessie E. Moro, May 27, 1929, Boston, Mass.

Children: Jane, March 9, 1933; Wallace Egerton, May 17, 1935.

Still in the general insurance business; generally very busy and generally still trying to take life a little easier.

In the past few years I have mastered the strenuous indoor pastimes of gin rummy, the collection of antique china and rhumba dancing. If these hobbies plus the ever hopeful aspiration of reclining in the warm and sunny climate of the South the latter years of my life picture the approach of old age—the picture does not lie. Before this period of blissful retirement sets in, however, my work and my hobbies and happy get-togethers make the days interesting and enjoyable.

JOHN EDWARD SKILLING

Occupation: Member of Law Firm.

Home Address: 136 Hesketh St., Chevy Chase 15, Md.

Business Address: Williams, Myers & Quiggle, 817 Munsey Bldg., Washington 4, D. C.

Married: Marion Virginia Bernard, 1927, Chevy Chase, Md.

Children: Nancy Anne, 1928; John Chauncey, 1933.

Following eight years of service as a Government lawyer, I have been engaged in the private practice of law in Washington. Marion and I miss Nancy around our home, Nancy being at Vassar College, Class of '48; however, Johnny, at St. Albans School for Boys, Class of '51, keeps us on our toes in her absence.

DESSA MASON SKINNER, JR.

Occupation: Banking.

Home Address: 104 Library Place, Princeton, N. J.

Business Address: National City Bank, 55 Wall St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Mary Lee Poe, Aug. 9, 1941, Baltimore, Md.

Child: Mary Lee, Sept. 29, 1942.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant (j.g.), July 15, 1941; terminated Lieutenant Commander, Feb. 11, 1946. Served as Navigator of U.S.S. Concord (CL 10), taking part in numerous bombardments of the Kurile Islands, Japan, and in the occupation at Ominato, Japan, September, 1945.

I am a member of the University Club of New York.

JOSEPH SKINNER

Occupation: Teacher.

Home Address: 103 Irving St., Cambridge, Mass.

Business Address: Massachusetts College of Pharmacy, 179 Longwood Ave., Boston, Mass.

Married: Sarah Elisabeth Steckel, Aug. 28, 1931, New York, N. Y.

Child: Jacob Fulham, Aug. 19, 1942.

War Service: Office of Strategic Services, March 1944 to August 1945.

In 1942 I joined the faculty of the Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and at the same time taught history at Northeastern University in the evening division. In 1944 I asked for leave of absence for the duration of the war and went abroad for the government. In 1944 I was made an honorary member of the chemical and pharmaceutical fraternity, Phi Delta Chi. I returned to my position at the College of Pharmacy in 1945. I am a member of the American Oriental Society and of the Society of Biblical Literature and Exegesis. Since the last report I have bought two farms in New Hampshire. Before I went abroad I spent three summers raising crops of foodstuffs, mostly potatoes and beans, a most enjoyable hobby which I intend to keep up.

GEORGE SLAFF

Occupation: Law—Counsel.

Business Address: Samuel Goldwyn Productions, Inc., 1041 North Formosa Ave., Los Angeles 28, Calif.

War Service: American Red Cross, Sept., 1942, to May, 1944. England, North Africa, Italy and France.

My business address will have to suffice since the task of acquiring living quarters in California is worse than the job I was occupied with for a short while a couple of years ago, namely, finding a building that hadn't been bombed in Bizerte. Ultimately we found one there—for the use of the American Red Cross—so I presume that ultimately I will find some living quarters for myself here. I really haven't been here long enough to start complaining, since I just arrived here a few weeks ago to take up my extremely interesting job of being Counsel to this organization. Prior to that I had been Chief Counsel at the Federal Power Commission since shortly after getting back from overseas and leaving the American Red Cross, namely, from May of 1944; back before that, from September, 1942, I had been overseas with the American Red Cross in England, North Africa, Italy and France. I was extremely fortunate, after getting turned down by every Armed Service there is and finding myself 4-F'd by my draft board—all of which I claim is a base slander on me—to discover that I could get overseas, and fast, with the Red Cross, which I promptly proceeded to do in the summer of 1942.

That ought to give you a pretty fair fill-in on me since the time of the 1941 report.

The last five years have been the most eventful of my life, due to the fact I entered the Armed Service; got married; and finally moved my residence from good old New England to Lake Forest, Illinois.

Shortly after Pearl Harbor I was commissioned Lieutenant in the Naval Air Reserve and entered the first class of indoctrination at Quonset Point, Rhode Island, on February 16, 1942. My first tour of duty sent me to Navy Pier, Chicago, Illinois, where I spent 26 months as Security Officer and finally as Assistant Executive Officer. By August 1944 I was sure I was going to fight the battle of Navy Pier for the rest of the war, so Gladdie and I decided to buy a home and, like most officers in the service, I got my orders six hours after we had signed the purchase agreement on our home—to report to the Navy's Lookout Recognition School as Executive Officer. It was not long after I had settled in Columbus, Ohio, that I was made Commanding Officer of the School and at the same time the Navy Department transferred the school to Gulfport, Mississippi, where I finished out my tour of duty with the Navy. I received my discharge under the point system on August 31, 1945, and since arriving home I have devoted my entire time and energy—minus two days' terminal leave—to opening up the Chicago Office for Slayton & Company in the Field Building. Our latch key at 760 Waveland Road, Lake Forest, Illinois, is always out, and if you can't spend a night with us, call us at Lake Forest 1477 and we will meet you in town.

Five by five—and now the 20th. How long can this go on? May be that the atomic scientists will shape nature so that '26 will be the first class to celebrate its 100th. But first we better have a good UNO and a real World Federation.

During the war I was a run-of-the-mill civilian. In the aftermath I would like to be more valuable. At a class luncheon Don Spencer unwittingly gave me food for thought during a conversation. He has made an admirable contribution in Cambridge to the State of the Union, helping to slough off civic corruption by applying wit and foot-work in generous portions. Perhaps because his work is local and unsung it appears to me to be more heroic than the deeds of many well-publicized protagonists. Nor would I be surprised if it were more important, too. Anyhow, no one can deny that the country needs more sincere and intelligent people in politics and government.

the end of life." . . . I begin to appreciate the Biblical declaration that work is a blessing but I do not relinquish my credo that pleasure, in the original meaning, is the noblest human paean to God (this is neither as narrow nor as paradoxical as it could be construed). . . . The atom bomb, I will confide in you, makes me feel no more comforted about either the finite or infinite. . . . To those who may not have read it I heartily recommend Ayn Rand's "The Fountainhead."

LST 456, New Guinea campaign. 1944: CQM aboard U.S.S. LST 138, Normandy campaign. 1945: Executive Officer and briefly C.O., aboard U.S.S. LST 1122, Pacific.

Too lazy and poor to resume commercial farming at the present time, I got a job as "writer-in-residence" at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio, doing some teaching and going home week-ends to clean out the hen-house. I am not writing about the war, and have a few notions and ambitions in the field of light fiction.

Children: Alvan George, Jr., Feb. 24, 1932; Langdon Mitchell, Apr. 24, 1934; Elizabeth Langdon, July 27, 1938 (died Feb. 23, 1943); Jeffrey William, July 27, 1944.

During the last five years I have continued in the same business and the same bank in which I started shortly after leaving Harvard. (I started to write "profession" until I remembered Bill Beggs' remark that business served human needs; the professions, human weakness.) I have thoroughly enjoyed my years of credit training as an investigator and analyst and later, as the scope broadened, the handling of loans. There are few organizations that could equal the esprit-de-corps of our Credit Department during the years 1930-40 due to a fortuitous combination of times, bank management, and the man at the head of the Department. At least five other members of the Class of 1926 can testify to that. I have found the banking business fascinating due to the various lines of business with which one comes in contact and the many human, as well as business, problems. Possibly, I shall sing a different tune some years hence after we have gone through another severe depression, but I hope not.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

We are fortunate in having three healthy boys who bid fair to outstrip their old man physically at the age of sixteen. They are really a lot of fun and it is good to have a young one coming along so that I will be over sixty before he is through college. That should help to keep the Smiths young. Our little girl was doomed from birth with congenital heart disease, but neither my wife nor I have ever regretted a moment of the four and one half years we spent trying to see that she enjoyed life to its fullest extent. She seemed endowed with a maturity and a sense of humor far beyond her years. Our only regret is that could she have lived another two and one half years, new surgical techniques would have enabled her to live to maturity, a healthy individual.

My war service was practically nil, and I am afraid that my contribution of time to community activities has likewise been very small; therefore, I have no charitable boards, etc. etc., to report. Three years ago I did learn that I had to ensure more leisure time and spend it properly. I have, therefore, played some squash at the Harvard Club of Boston and golf at the Winchester Country Club. In one sport I am a tinker and in the other, a hacker. Around December 1, 1945, my leisure time vanished. The reason? The Twentieth Report!

Ye editor—I hope—will excuse the delay in responding to his inquiry which was caused, as observing readers will note, by the arrival of a blessed event. Midnight feedings, floor walking and damp triangles to this reporter seem unchanged in the changing postwar world.

In a business way I have left the relatively staid and sometimes leisurely ways of banking to return to the more hectic field of construction. Associated with the Rockefeller Center people in their new building program, my days are spent in finding out, among other things, which parts of the building will be missing when most urgently needed.

With the war over I hope to work on a somewhat neglected golf game and hope to have more luck in hitting the greens than I have had in hitting the bull shooting on a rifle team.

And so time marches on.

GOUVERNEUR ELWES SMITH

Occupation: Shipping—Asst. Mgr., Passenger Division.

Home Address: Berry Hill Road, Oyster Bay, Long Island, N. Y.

Business Address: 25 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

War Service: British Ministry of War Transport; August, 1941, to present.

During most of the past five years I have been with the British Ministry of War Transport helping to handle priority passengers on the Atlantic and to all parts of the world. For security reasons I was unable to discuss what I was doing, much less mention the name of a ship. I spent my vacations on Mackinac Island, Michigan, at the Moral Re-Armament training center where leaders of management and labor gathered together with members of their families to work out the answer to industrial and family strife in the nation with a program of sound homes, teamwork in industry, and a united nation. Last summer it became a world assembly with representatives from twenty nations.

Occupation: Manufacturing—Factory Manager.

Home Address: 176 Claflin St., Belmont, Mass.

Business Address: F. S. Webster Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Married: Doris Dickie, April 28, 1927, Melrose, Mass.

Children: Robert D., Aug. 13, 1928; Stanley E., Oct. 11, 1929.

My activities in the last five years have been confined entirely to keeping a factory running with a handful of employees and in spite of Government restrictions. I have had neither the time nor the energy for other interests or activities. My elder son is in his freshman year at Harvard, and my other son expects to enter this fall.

Occupation: Aviation.

Home Address: Hamilton, Mass.

Business Address: 100 Nashua St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Janice Vaughan, May 21, 1938, Falmouth Foreside, Maine.

Child: Crocker, Jr., Feb. 21, 1940.

War Service: Air Corps Ferrying Command. Called to active duty as 1st Lieut., Sept. 12, 1941, to develop Presque Isle, Maine, and Northwest River (Goose Bay), Labrador, for ferrying tactical aircraft to Britain. Appointed commanding officer of the North Atlantic Sector in January 1942, and executive officer of the North Atlantic Wing of the Air Transport Command when that organization was formed. Duty in the States, Labrador, Baffin Land, Greenland, Iceland, and Scotland.

Harvard Class of 1926

I was ordered to Washington in January 1943 to survey, as ATC representative, a proposed air ferry and cargo route to the Vladivostok area to be used in the event of certain diplomatic possibilities, or if the Japs attacked Russia. Transferred from the ATC in April 1943 for combat duty.

I trained the Snow Provisional Group, 40 B-17 combat crews, and delivered them to the Eighth Air Force. I was assigned to the Twentieth Bomber Command (which later grew into the Twentieth Air Force) in January 1944 and was ordered to organize the 498th Bomb Group, which became the first B-29 force to arrive in the Pacific area. I was acting CO, then deputy commander and operations officer of this outfit, landing on Saipan on October 18, 1944. Led the 498th in the first Tokyo mission on November 24.

I moved in February 1945 to the parent (73rd) Bomb Wing as assistant chief of staff for General Rosie O'Donnell. While there, I got mixed up in the atomic bomb job, chiefly telling the Japs via leaflets what it was all about.

I flew 14 B-29 missions against Japan. Got the air medal, bronze star medal, various theater ribbons and campaign stars. Brought a war-weary B-29, plus myself, home, departing Saipan on August 29, arriving Cape Cod on September 1. Went on terminal leave Oct. 6, 1945.

Just before the war I was Director of Aeronautics for Massachusetts, and spent a large part of my time trying to get military airports developed by civil agencies before the Army was in a position to do much.

[Just before the Report went to press, Snow became Director of Aeronautics for Massachusetts once again.]

Occupation: Federal Government—Special Assistant to Secretary of War.

Home Address: 3216 Macomb St., N.W., Washington, D. C. (temporary).

Business Address: Room 4E886, Pentagon Bldg., Washington, D. C.

Married: Alice Decker, June 30, 1939, New York, N. Y.

War Service: Army Air Corps. Entered 1st Lieut., Aug. 19, 1942; terminated Lt. Col., Dec. 19, 1945. Air Technical Service Command, Wright Field; Office of Assistant Secretary of War. Legion of Merit with Oak Leaf Cluster.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

The last five years consists of a dimly remembered period as a practicing lawyer as a member of the firm of Parker & Duryee in New York City, followed by the Army. By the time this report is published, I may know what I will be doing during the next five years; presently I have no idea.

War Service: Mass. State Guard. Entered Private, Feb. 17, 1941; separated Staff Sgt., Feb. 17, 1946. Headquarters Troop, First Motor Squadron, no action.

When the headlines of the June 15, 1941, edition of the Boston Herald scurrilously laid bare my private life, it was nip and tuck for a bit whether my bride-to-be was going to cast me aside. It was such a near thing that I resolved to change my public relations policy of the veiled life to one which could be nothing else but an open book. Sufficient unto the evil thereof, I became the owner of a good-sized piece of residential property which requires about all the energy I have to keep going inside and out as befits it. To break away from these wartime acquired habits and commence a modest era of taking it easy after business hours will be my next five-year plan.

After fifteen years of activity as an insurance broker, I became a member of the insurance firm of Elmer A. Lord & Co. in 1943. This year we merged with another agency and changed our name to Brewer & Lord. I am pushing the production of all lines of insurance, but concentrate on those pertaining to vehicles, aircraft, and bonding which we place for brokers.

War Service: Texas State Guard. Corporal, 1943-45. Company A, 19th Batt.

Five years ago, I was serving as Master of History at Brunswick

Harvard Class of 1926

School, Greenwich, Connecticut. In 1942 I was made Associate Headmaster. The next year I left Brunswick and accepted a position as Dean and Head of the History Department of Hockaday Junior College, Dallas, Texas. There, I was one of four men on a campus with 550 women. In sheer self-defense I joined the Texas State Guard, so that I would have at least a little masculine companionship. I enjoyed my two years at Hockaday enormously, but my duties were such that I had very little time to write, and at least three books were struggling for authorship somewhere within me. Consequently, when my father made me a very generous offer to return to the Iroquois Publishing Company, with an opportunity to produce my books along with other interesting and remunerative work, I accepted. Thus I am now Secretary of the company and also an editor, and the first of my new books is well along through its period of gestation. My daughter is now a sophomore at Cornell, and my two sons are in high school and junior high respectively. Whether either of them will get to Harvard is a moot question, though I hope they will.

In 1943, due to rigid adherence to sound policies such as taking no exercise, eating plenty of starches, and smoking three packs of cigarettes a day, I had become, at 37, a model of physical fitness. I was trim, alert, "a credit to the nation," and "the very flower of young manhood." In short, I was 1-A; I was "in."

As an inductee at Fort Devens I learned about Army life from a fellow soldier detailed to cut the grass in the company area. "Look, son,"

Twentieth Anniversary Report

I said to him paternally, "you can't cut any grass that way. You are running the lawn mower upside down."

He looked at me pityingly. "I know it," he said, "but as long as they hear the sound of the mower, they are happy."

Later I was assigned to work in plain clothes as an Army gumshoe man. We attended a curious school where we took turns shadowing each other around a city at night just for practice, and learned about codes and ciphers, moulage and microphones, and how to draw a Colt 38 from our belts in Oklahoma cowboy style. I was lightnin' on the draw, pardners, but it didn't help me none since once I had "drawed her," I couldn't hit the side of a barn door.

There was nothing in my later experiences one one-hundredth so exciting as the school curriculum itself. Still, because people seem to expect it of me, I occasionally—in strict confidence, of course—relate the inside story of two big operations, "The Case of the Irreligious Mohammedan" and "The Spy with the Peptic Ulcer." Neither one of these stories has the slightest basis in fact, but they sound good, particularly when no one is around who served with me and knows the truth.

Children: Malcolm Lang, Oct. 29, 1939; Ambrose Ranney, July 12, 1942; Charles Hutton, April 6, 1944.

Like so many of the rest of us, I have tried to keep the business rolling and the jobs open for the 40% to 50% of our staff who served the war needs directly and indirectly. I fought the battle of the blackout—for sale cheap: one steel hat, armband, and whistle. I became proficient at spreading on week ends in the spring what some accuse me of spreading daily all year and raised flourishing crops. I worked three nights a week in a machine shop—that was pretty good fun as a matter of fact. And, as you will see from the above listing, I tried to live up to the other responsibilities of the stay-at-home civilian.

I am very proud of my classmates who had or made an opportunity to contribute more directly to this victory.

War Service: State War Inspection Service under Facility Security Division—First Civilian Defense Region, April 1943 to June 1945.

Have experienced another five happy years since the last reunion and am looking forward with keen anticipation to seeing the Class of '26 at the Twentieth. Two years ago a better opportunity presented itself with a larger organization and the change has proved to be a wise one. My field has been narrowed down to just eastern Massachusetts and, while still primarily a traveling man, am rarely away overnight and therefore able to enjoy an unselfish and loving family. Have just completed a year as Chairman of the Executive Committee of the New England Insurance Exchange and at present am serving as Vice President of the Bay State Club. Within the last few years I had the opportunity of playing the role of Hiram Abiff and the rabbit insists on poking his head out of the tall silk hat on occasions.

During the past five years I have been busier than ever—or at least as busy as ever—in the practice of law. The scope of my work has broadened considerably and I have done a substantial amount of corporation work. My extracurricular legal work includes serving on several Bar Association committees which study and report on proposed legislation in New York affecting wills and decedents' estates, lecturing on the same subject at the Practising Law Institute in New York City, and this season conducting their course in Wills and Estates. In addition, several years ago I became interested in the Legal Aid Society's war work for soldiers and at their request drafted model will forms for use throughout the country and wrote a pamphlet "Wills for Servicemen" which the National Association of Legal Aid Organizations published and which the Army and Navy distributed to their Legal Assistance Officers.

Recently I have been "co-authoring" a manual on "Drawing Wills," to be published by the Practising Law Institute and the American Bar Association as part of their refresher work for veterans returning to the law.

Occupation: Teaching.

Home Address: 92 Beals St., Brookline, Mass.

Business Address: Staley College, 162 Babcock St., Brookline, Mass.

Married: Ida Gross, Feb. 23, 1930, Paterson, N. J.

Children: Robert David, March 9, 1932; Arthur Gordon, Jan. 2, 1936.

For the past five years I have been teaching at the Staley College of the Spoken Word. This school is almost fifty years of age and has an eminent list of graduates. After several years of study at Staley College, I received my Master's and my Doctor's degrees. This school is recognized to be the only special senior college empowered to confer the highest degrees in oratory. I am in charge of the English Department and I teach the following courses: The Art of Creative Writing, Argumentation and Debate, English Grammar, Radio Script Writing, English Prose Composition, Advanced Public Speaking, and Americanization.

WILFRED SCHAFFER STONE

Occupation: Patent Lawyer.

Home Address: 620 Davis Terr., Glen Ellyn, Ill.

Business Address: Stone, Artman & Bisson, 105 W. Adams St., Chicago 3, Ill.

Children: William Kunkel, March 15, 1936; Elizabeth Ann, April 5, 1938; Dan Frederick, Oct. 21, 1940.

In February 1942 I participated in organizing the patent law firm of Stone, Artman & Bisson. At that time, business did not look promising because most engineers were moving from development to production. However, matters went very well and although none of our clients participated in the sensational developments of the last four years, we did work on some interesting equipment. A rail service corporation furnishes an example. As rail tonnage increased, rail failure due to internal fissures disproportionately increased. This client developed a small two-man fissure detector car which makes possible frequent, inexpensive testing of rail. Reconversion has resulted in increased patent activity. I have assisted several returning veteran friends in making a satisfactory connection.

My home life unfolds like a book of wonders. Our children now wipe their own noses, but the gain has been offset by Cubbing, Brownies, parent-teachers meetings, piano lessons and arithmetic. At the last report my time was my own from about eight o'clock to bedtime; it has been reduced to nine o'clock to bedtime. Trivial instructions must now be fortified with reasons, and above all, one must be consistent. My wife and daughter talk about clothes and one boy declines to wear his best overcoat because it looks sissy. About the house there is usually an air of excitement. I have acquired a pair of glasses for reading and recently I waited an hour in a station after missing a train which I could have caught by hurrying.

All too soon we approach the time for the Vigentennial Report. Five years have elbowed their way past us all. Our Four Star Final arrived almost three years ago, a daughter, for which we are grateful. Church, Scouts, Club, and Community matters have taken such spare time as I can find. The days are eight hours short of being enough for accomplishing the things I would like to do—stamps, woodworking, and general maintenance and repair of the usual home crash-landings of four very active small fry. Each week demands increasing ingenuity in repairing the coffee table or some other such for the fifth or tenth time. Great days, these, and may the twenty-fifth report find us all ready, as now, to enjoy life to its fullest.

classmates colored view cards of this beautiful Northwest, so write in for your copy if you've been missed. Out of these reams of "travel advertisements" only one '26 caller has darkened our door here—Conrad Harper, who lived here briefly. This is the country for hunting and fishing—all close at hand. Soooooo, soup's on! What's keeping you? All the great international concert stars perform here, and that is my something-new-has-been-added interest. I still retain membership in the Harvard Club of Boston and have visited back there last fall and 1943. Member Masonic Club of Portland, Oregon, National Sojourners, and Men's Club of St. Michael's and All Angels' Episcopal Church. (Editor's Note: I wasn't asked but is it all right to tell about Rusty and Penny, family dog and cat?) Yes, I'll be there for the 20th reunion, if the new cars get off the assembly line in time for us to have one for the trip.

Occupation: Packing Industry—Supervisor Industrial Relations, Dairy and Poultry Division.

Home Address: 9361 Longwood Drive, Chicago 20, Ill.

Business Address: Swift & Co., General Office, Union Stock Yards, Chicago 9, Ill.

Married: Rhoda Louise Lawson, May 14, 1930, Chicago, Ill.

Children: Norman, March 3, 1932; David, Aug. 7, 1935.

Although I have been employed by Swift & Co. since graduation, I made a change in 1943 from dairy production supervision to industrial relations—a very interesting field. With two growing boys, I am very active in Boy Scout work. I am still interested in tennis, although my age and my 195 lbs. are slowing me down. Home maintenance, church, and other local activities account for the balance of my spare time.

FREDERICK PEET TAFT

Occupation: Clergyman.

Home Address: 322 Benefit St., Providence 3, R. I.

Business Address: Grace Church, Providence, R. I.

Married: Emily Walton, Dec. 30, 1940, Milton, Mass.

In October, 1940, I left the Church of the Ascension in Wakefield, Rhode Island, to become Vicar of St. Michael's Church in Worcester, Massachusetts. That December I married Emily Walton of Milton, Massachusetts, and we have had a gay time ever since. Four years later I resigned from St. Michael's Church to become assistant in Grace Church in Providence where I am at the moment. So much for the "dry bones" of my work.

In Providence, as in Worcester, Emily and I have managed, in spite of the constant demands of the ministry, to have a glorious time. We have spent our summers at our old sea-captain's house in Chatham. We have quite a collection of books, rare prints, old Dutch and English maps, inherited from my wife's father, which keep us entertained whenever we can find the time to work on them. However, our latch string is always out.

Business Address: 354 Pine St., San Francisco, Calif.

Married: Isobel McCreery, June 5, 1937, Burlingame, Calif.

Children: Richard Stephen, Nov. 9, 1938; Pamela Isobel, Jan. 11, 1944.

War Service: Navy. Lieut., Oct. 18, 1942, to Sept. 14, 1945.

BRAINERD RICHARDSON TAYLOR

Occupation: Corn Refining Industry—Manager of Planning and Development.

Home Address: 10520 Longwood Drive, Chicago, Ill.

Business Address: American Maize-Products Co., Roby, Ind.

Married: Elia Ocampo, June 13, 1934, Mexico City, Mexico.

Children: Elita Vesta, Nov. 1, 1935; Brainerd Ocampo, Dec. 15, 1939.

War Service: Government—Industry Panel Member, War Labor Board.

Shortly after my last report, I was transferred from the Controller's Department of American Maize-Products Company to be assistant plant manager, and for the past five years I have received a liberal education in labor relations and negotiations. Recently I entered the field of planning, which is a little less trying on the blood pressure, though results are less immediate.

WALTER MAITLAND TAYLOR

Occupation: Education.

Home Address: 133 Day St., Auburndale, Mass.

Business Address: Information and Education Div., ASF, War Dept.

Married: Present status not given.

Children: Marcia, June 18, 1928; Jeremy, Jan. 29, 1942.

War Service: Army. Entered Lieut., Aug. 1942; Major since March 1945 and still in the service. Information and Education Div., HQ., ETOUSA.

I think I knew what we were fighting for when we went to war. The march of events made it imperative to decide whether our world was to be ruled from Berlin or from some other center, in which our side would have a significant vote. I am sure, too, that I was fighting to protect myself and my family in what equities we had built up—the home, life insurance, the estate. At least if these symbols of success were to be liquidated I preferred that they be liquidated by my people, not by an enemy. I fought for other things, too—among them the assurance that my children should grow up free, not slave.

I had never been to Europe. I had read about Europe and its people but had never felt their problems and experiences because I had not lived among them; so, in a very real sense my education was increased—even more than in any comparable two-year period of my previous life, even two years at Harvard—so much so that I would propose that when and if the occasion arises, every intelligent man and woman in the United States, and particularly all Harvard men of '26, shall back with money and votes any movement to insist upon the exchange of students and cultural relations generally with other countries. I'm prepared to expound the merits of the European system of university education, for which I have profound respect by virtue of an Army assignment to Zurich, Switzerland, for the purpose of organizing a U. S. Army study center out of the great cantonal University of Zurich, the Eidgenössische Technische Hochschule (Federal Institute of Technology to you), the Institute of International Studies, and the Summer School of European Languages. Where in the United States could you assemble a faculty which would include four Nobel Prize winners? I am understandably proud of my Army work there and, given the opportunity, will prove to any unbiased person that, Harvard excepted, Zurich is the greatest center of learning in the world.

Principally, however, I was tied up with the Army Staff School at London and later at Cité Universitaire in Paris. To this school came from 200 to 800 officers per week to learn how to keep their men oriented (no mean problem in a situation loaded with the dynamite of distrust and blind nationalism) and how to organize and conduct the Army's Educational Program, itself a war baby and like so many of those born in Europe soon to lose its proper father and mother only to be reared by unfeeling West Point engineer foster-parents, thus dooming the child to a life of inferiority and hardship from which, as I write, I give the child a fifty-fifty chance of recovery. It is important for the future of the United States that it recover, particularly as long as we are committed to any policy of occupation in Europe and Asia. Occupation conducted by uneducated and unoriented soldiers and officers will only bring in our time a reaction against the United States which can result in a coalition of powers against us in a conflict, economical and actual, which can itself result in the decline and fall of the American Ideal. I don't want to be alive to see such a debacle, nor do I want my son to die in it, but sure as shootin' unless we can attract to our Army young men and women who, willing to learn, see the opportunity and the responsibility which is theirs as occupation troops, that's our fate. An observation unsupported by documentation or statistical research: most of the griping and the consequent breakdown of morale among troops began with officers (many of them college-trained) and men whose education, like an ineffectual vaccination, never "took."

Despite all this pontification, I've messed up my own life as cleverly as the next fellow and surpass him only in my willingness to admit it, and I shall rejoice to read in this sterling report of the triumphs of my classmates. I shall regret not being present at the Twentieth Reunion not only because time and distance and Army assignment prohibit, but also because it does my ego a lot of good to observe the balding misfortunes of my schoolmates and reflect that unlike them I have retained my youth and vigor of appearance. I figure that we now have but ten years in which to achieve worthiness of the Harvard heritage. I envy those whose accomplishments indicate that they are already carrying more than their weight. As for me, I'm not surrendering, but, by the gods, I'm tired.

On the personal side (what, again!), I have a charming eighteen-year-old daughter with whom I was going to be oh so proud to appear at the Twentieth Reunion. If anyone is minded to be charitable, invite her to join you for some of the festivities so that I can get an honest report, willya?

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 150 Meadowbrook Rd., Weston, Mass.

Business Address: 50 Federal St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Frances Flood, July 11, 1929, Boston, Mass.

Children: Eleanor, Feb. 7, 1931; Charles F., April 3, 1933; John J., Dec. 15, 1936.

War Service: Judge Advocate General Department, Army. Entered 1st Lt., May 14, 1942; separated Major, Dec. 19, 1945. Served in Yukon Territory, Canada, and Alaska.

The greater part of the last five years I have spent in the Army. Before that I was practicing law in Boston and I have now resumed the practice of the law. In the Army I served in Alaska and the Yukon Territory, having headquarters at Whitehorse. I am not competent to advise any classmates who wish to locate in the Canadian Northwest and Alaska. My recommendation to such friends will be that they go to see a psychiatrist. So far, Fulton Lewis, Jr., has not mentioned my name in his broadcasts blasting the Army for what it did in the Northwest. If he reverts to that subject, the class may obtain some notoriety at my expense.

Occupation: Manufacturing—Branch Manager.

Home Address: Shiremanstown, Pa.

Business Address: Pitney-Bowes, Inc., Telegraph Bldg., Harrisburg, Pa.

Married: Elizabeth F. Dolliver, Feb. 21, 1933, Milton, Mass.

From Providence, R. I., I was transferred to Harrisburg in January, 1943, where I am branch manager for the above corporation, selling postage meter machines. This Pennsylvania Dutch country is most enjoyable now that we can understand each other.

My chief interests outside of business have been along civic lines, through membership in the Rotary Club and the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce.

Twentieth Anniversary Report

Air Group 88 aboard USS Yorktown, combat off Japan July and August 1945.
Commendation Ribbon (Adm. Halsey).

My activities for the past five years have been entirely "Navy." After an indoctrination in the first class at Quonset, I was sent with twelve other shiny new officers to Athens, Georgia, to take over the University of Georgia and to build a Navy Pre-Flight School. Not a one of these neophytes had any prior experience for such a task. Somehow it was accomplished and the school was soon blooming.

During most of 1943 and the first half of 1944 I was Training Officer, first on Admiral Murray's staff at Pensacola and later with Admiral Mason in Corpus Christi. These two tours of duty, however pleasant, were not exactly "fighting the war."

I wangled a transfer to Air Group 88, which was commissioned at Atlantic City in August of 1944. In February of 1945 we started our trek west, boarding the U.S.S. Yorktown in July, after stops in Hawaii, the Marianas and the Philippines. We had about two months of combat duty and then patrolled the coast of Japan for another month after VJ-Day.

We returned to this country in November and I took off my uniform for the last time on January 28, 1946. I am now back at Young & Rubicam Advertising Agency, very much pleased to be there, and with the war already in the dim, distant past.

War Service: War Production Board.

From June of 1941 until the end of the war, the world conflict made Washington, D. C., my headquarters and made me a minor participant in the Battle of the Potomac. Our industry, industrial instrument manufacturing, became, very early, a vital and important cog in the war machine. It, therefore, became necessary for us, like all others, to unite for the war effort. In August, 1941, I was elected chairman of our industry war committee, delegated to carry out all necessary negotiations on behalf of our industry with the various government war agencies and, in general, organize the instrument industry's war effort.

In March, 1942, I was made a special consultant, W.O.C., to WPB, with headquarters in Washington. In December of the same year I was "promoted" to a dollar-a-year man and became a special consultant to the Radio and Radar Division of WPB.

In July of 1942, as a result of a national shortage of bellows, a component critically short and in great demand for airplane construction, the atom bomb project, the Navy and various Army uses, I was given the task of increasing bellows production and satisfying the universal demands. This job kept me hopping all over the country for the next two years. Wright Field and Knoxville, Tennessee, were added to my temporary domiciles.

Last fall all connections with WPB were resigned and I am now trying to reconvert to life and work in our quiet New England countryside.

Business Address: 50 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

Married: Evelyn Lois Janowich, June 22, 1930, New York, N. Y.

Children: Margot Jean, July 15, 1935; Janet R., Jan. 19, 1941.

Because of too many dependents and physical disability, unfortunately I have no War Service to relate. Since the last report, I have continued the practice of law quite actively. One of the high spots of this period has been the successful culmination of every lawyer's dream—suing for and collecting more than one million dollars—a gratifying result, both personally and professionally. With this has come a new home and some material comforts (after taxes), but no diminution of effort. My family is thriving and seems happy. Besides my law, I am a director of Motors Realty Corporation (owner of General Motors Building, New York City), Vice President of Broadway and 58th Street Corporation, member of The Lawyers' Club, and Harvard Club of Long Island.

I have been practicing law in Boston ever since my graduation from the Law School in 1930 and am a member of the firm of Abbott, Carr, Turner & Hardy. My practice is of a general nature and consists mostly of probate work and the trial and adjustment of accident cases.

Last year I bought a summer cottage at Kennebunk Beach, Maine, and that, together with being a member of Brae Burn Country Club and the Skating Club of Boston, takes care of my recreation.

private law practice with the firm of which I am now a partner. After 15 years of city living and due in part to an unsought but unanswerable contention by my then 7-year-old daughter ("the city is no place for a child to grow up in"), I have recently become a commuter from and to one of the remotest suburbs. Whether it's a good place to grow older in remains unanswered. Like most people nowadays, my principal non-family interest has been the day's work, which, though diverse and interesting, leaves too little leisure and energy for other things.

Children: John Lawrence, July 19, 1938; Paul Albert, July 19, 1941; Madeline Anne, Aug. 20, 1945.

I am a physician in Medford, Mass., where I specialize in surgery and obstetrics. I am on the staffs of all the local hospitals and am a life member of the corporation of the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston. I have held the world's all-tackle deep sea fishing record since Aug. 25, 1940, when I landed a 927-lb. bluefin tuna. (This means that my fish is the largest game fish ever landed by rod and reel.) I enjoy hunting even more than fishing.

Business Address: Union Securities Corporation, 65 Broadway, New York 6, N. Y.

War Service: Army Air Force. Entered Pvt., April 27, 1942; separated Master Sgt., July 28, 1945. I took basic training at Keesler Field, Miss., and then went to Weather Observers School at Chanute Field, Ill. In November, 1942, I was made Weather Observer at Bradley Field, Conn., remaining there until April, 1943, when I went to Weather Forecasting School in Grand Rapids, Mich., and Chanute Field. In September of that year I went to Langley Field, Va., as weather forecaster, and in August, 1944, I became weather forecaster and station chief at the Army Air Force Weather Station, Meeks Field, Keflavik, Iceland, until my discharge in July 1945.

Upon leaving the army, I returned to the same firm with whom I have been associated since my graduation from Business School in 1928. However, I still haven't given up the idea of ultimately living in the Pacific Northwest.

Occupation: Telephone Engineer.

Home Address: 12 Academy Rd., Madison, N. J.

Business Address: Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., 463 West St., New York, N. Y.

Married: Dorothy Spedick, Feb. 1, 1930, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Children: Patricia Nicholson, May 11, 1939; Barent Spedick, Jan. 27, 1942.

During the war, all my work at Bell Telephone Laboratories was on development of new equipment for the Army and Navy. Following it from laboratory to field testing and through manufacture has required extended stays at Camp Davis, N. C., Chicago, Ill., Washington, D. C., Lincoln, Nebr., and one trip to Nova Scotia. For the past three years I have been at the Murray Hill Laboratories of the company. As a result, I have moved my home from Forest Hills, L. I., to Madison, N. J. This February I was transferred back to the New York office of the company, but expect to go on living in Madison.

Since the publication of the Quindecennial Class Report, I have grown five years older. This seems to be my only flat-footed claim of achievement certain of unqualified assent in all quarters. Recently I moved my family from the historic and crumbling ruin which, for six years, we had occupied in the country to a suburban house so Mid-Victorian that William Ewart Gladstone threatens to supplant Groucho Marx as the dominant influence in my life. On our new two-acre property there are, paradoxically, just as many ground-moles, tent-caterpillars, clumps of garlic and dead limbs as there were on the twenty-two acres which we left behind us. In the past five years I have become head of the Advertising Department of Smith, Kline & French Laboratories; resigned from and been re-elected to the board of the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf; revived a long-neglected interest in ornithology; dreamt nostalgically of getting back to horses, and fox-hunting, and trout-fishing some day, and read the Smyth Report. I have continued as miserably unsuccessful as ever in my attempts to conceal the exact amount of my bank balance from the plumber and the dentist.

After spending a year after college doing city reporting for the Wash- ington Post to please my father, I passed the examinations and became a member of the Career Foreign Service of the Department of State from which I later resigned to establish a school to get other people into this service. I am especially gratified at the number of Harvard men I have had among my students. My School had just celebrated its tenth anniversary—in May 1942—when it was closed because the Department cancelled examinations for the duration. I then, to my amazement, found myself an “expert on South Africa” (and if any classmates want information about the Union they have only to call District 2200, Extension 2431, and ask for me and I will say I will look it up and call them back later!) in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and here I shall remain (C.S.V.—Civil Service volens) until I reopen my School which (Department of State volens) will be next autumn. In the meantime I do a little tutoring for veterans who are taking the interim examinations.

Also—to my great pride—I have had two novels published by Dodd, Mead and Co. since the last class report. In October 1943 “Count on Two Days”—laid in Boston and, I trust, striking a familiar chord in the hearts of many classmates—and “Everything Rustles”—in which the same Bostonian family comes to Washington (my home for many generations) to see what it can do about promoting the “war effort.” Helen Hokinson did a set of excellent drawings for the second book. I have a third book “on the fire” which should appear in the autumn. I am especially pleased about these books because “Copey” giving me a reluctant A in English 12 said in his usual terrifying (to me, at least) manner, “Walker, you don’t deserve an A in my famous course, but I know that one day you’ll be a well-known writer and I’m not going to have people twenty years hence saying that Copeland was an old fool and didn’t know a writer when he had one in his class.” So I’ve vindicated the professor I so much admire.

There is little more to tell. Aside from my “war job” my only other contributions to our victory (plus turning out good diplomats) were doing air warden duty at extraordinary hours and male volunteer work at a local hospital one night a week.

War Service: War Production Board, March 1942–June 1944; Foreign Economic Administration, July 1944–Feb. 1946.

Resigned from Carl M. Loeb, Rhoades & Co., New York, in February 1942 to take a position in Statistics Division of WPB. There established and conducted what later became the Materials Handbook (?) of two thick loose-leaf volumes; simultaneously served as Deputy Chief (for materials) of General Statistics Staff; also staff member of Combined Material and Combined Production and Resources Boards. When we had the war well in hand, with everyone utterly confused, I left for the Office of Food Program, FEA, where my principal task was to convince the War Food Administration that Europe was shy quite a few calories. Latterly, prior to my resignation, was winding up Lend-Lease and trying to facilitate the termination of export controls. I evaluate my contribution to the so-called war effort as something less than zero, but a little higher than that of the Pentagon Commandos and the Constitution Avenue Fleet.

Battles: Battle of Washington, 1942–46; Decorations: Order of Capital Transit Co. for unusual valor and perseverance, same for the Cafeteria Line; Member: Harvard Club of Washington, D. C.

I expect to mess around with export-import business for a while in New York, beginning about April 1.

War Service: 1942-44 State Department, in charge of the section dealing with the Department's interest in the activities of the Office of War Information, Overseas Branch. Later transferred to the OWI in the position of executive assistant to the deputy director in charge of European policy.

Before the war I owned and operated a clearing house for the distribution of educational motion pictures. I represented for this type of film about 3,000 films in the hands of 300 dealers. The work was very interesting, but did not prove sufficiently remunerative; so I am now exploring possibilities in other fields, especially in those having an international aspect.

On leaving Harvard, I entered R. H. Macy & Co. in New York, where I pursued the merchandising god for some eight years. I became Buyer of Floor Coverings, traveling to Europe and in general learning and seeing a great deal. After leaving Macy's, I became associated with James McCreery & Co., buying beds, bedding, boudoir furniture, and sundry accessories. (Ask me about mattresses!) In 1940 I left McCreery's and went into the wholesale and decorator business, specializing in floor coverings.

Harvard Class of 1926

All was going well until the well-known late unpleasantness started. At that time I tried to get into the Service and finally succeeded, receiving a commission in the Coast Artillery branch of the Army (after OCS). I was assigned to the Anti-Aircraft Artillery School as an instructor and have been there ever since. At the present time I am on special duty at the Military Academy at West Point, but expect to return to the Anti-Aircraft School at Fort Bliss soon. I should be out of the Army sometime around the middle of July. My plans for the future are indefinite, but I think I should like to make my home here in the Southwest. It really is a great country. My son is a fine big lad (whom I have seen but seldom in the past three and a half years) and, I hope, he is headed for Harvard sometime around the Class of '53 or '54. Good Lord!—are we that old?

I wish I could be present at the reunion but am very much afraid I shall be some 2,500 miles away.

The arrival of Dick Field's letter beginning: "You are 19½ years out of college" gave me quite a jolt, which experience, I imagine, must have been shared by many of my classmates. The realization that 20 years have flown is disconcerting. For almost all these years I have been engaged in merchandising. Starting on a department store training squad I have been, over the years, an assistant buyer, a buyer, and now merchandise manager of a metropolitan department store. This type of work sets a fast and sometimes gruelling pace, but, on the whole, I have found it interesting and enjoyable. The phase of my work which I find most pleasant, and which forestalls monotony is the frequent visiting of markets in all parts of the country and beyond: to Michigan and North Carolina for furniture; to California and Ohio for china, pottery, and glassware; to New England and Georgia for textile fabrics. The most intriguing prospect at present is the opening of European and Asiatic markets. With present air travel, it will soon be possible to cover linen markets in Ireland and Czechoslovakia or china and glassware markets in England, France and Czechoslovakia, and be back home within two or three weeks. Off duty I have played a good deal of tennis although no one would suspect it from watching me (cliché but true). I am a member of the Harvard Club of New York and North Shore Country Club of Glen Head, L. I.

FREDERICK PORTAS WEYMER

Occupation: Mfg. Brooms and Whisk Brooms—Secretary-Treasurer.

Home Address: 750 Euclid Ave., Syracuse 10, N. Y.

Business Address: A. F. Weymer Co., Inc., Syracuse 4, N. Y.

My "War Service" consists entirely of helping to fight the "Battle of Washington" as a civilian. In my capacity as President of the National Broom Manufacturers Association, I helped the Army and Navy secure their requirements of brooms and whisk brooms. I served on the War Production Board's Broom Manufacturers Industry Advisory Committee and acted as Chairman of the OPA Broom Manufacturing Industry Advisory Committee. Seems like I spent half my time in Washington during the war years.

At home I struggled to keep a factory going with 50% of its manpower requirements. In this respect I feel I did a pretty good job as we maintained prewar production levels and 85% of our output went directly to the Armed Services and essential industries. In addition, I did what I could to be helpful in the Civilian Protection organization, the Red Cross, etc., and to assist generally in keeping "the home fires burning" while the boys were away.

I continue to be interested as a member in the following organizations: National Broom Manufacturers Association (director), Syracuse Association of Credit Men, Syracuse Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants, Syracuse Chamber of Commerce, Manufacturers Association of Syracuse, Rotary Club of Syracuse. I am Junior Warden and Treasurer of All Saints' Episcopal Church.

For four years now I have not had a vacation or any time off and I feel that I have gotten into that rut which some of our classmates warned me against 20 years ago, that of a one-tracked-mind business man. Perhaps the reunion in June will help to shake me out of it. I hope so and look forward to the occasion.

Just five years ago, we moved from New York to Miami Beach. After Pearl Harbor, I worked at the Miami Branch of the Consolidated

Vultee Aircraft Corporation, first in the plant and later as an industrial engineer. I left there in April of 1944 and went into the real estate business. After working as an associate broker for a little less than a year, I opened my own office. Fortunately, the real estate business here has been very active, and we have done pretty well.

If any of the Class of 1926 ever comes to Miami Beach, I would be delighted to renew old acquaintances.

KIRKE MARSHALL WHITE

Occupation: Attorney.

Home Address: 124 West Fifth St., Oswego, N. Y.

Business Address: 3 Grant Block, Oswego, N. Y.

Married: Arnetta C. Godkin, July 29, 1942, Harrisburg, Pa.

War Service: Army. Entered Air Corps as 1st Lieutenant, May 6, 1942; terminated Major, Dec. 28, 1945. World War II Victory Medal; American Theater Ribbon; European-African Middle Eastern Service Medal; Rome-Arno campaign.

At the outbreak of war I was in general practice in my home town, Oswego, New York, and also held the position of Counsel to the Majority Leader of the New York State Senate. I applied for a commission in the Air Corps during the 1942 Session of the Legislature and was ordered to active duty May 6, 1942. Military education included AAFOTS, Miami, Florida; Air Intelligence School, Harrisburg, Pa.; Command and General Staff School, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas; and Air Staff Course, Washington, D. C. Principal duty was combat intelligence officer with heavy bombardment squadron, group wing and command headquarters in training in the Second Air Force in the zone of the interior and the 47th Bomb Wing, 15th Air Force in Italy. During 1945 I was at Wright Field, Headquarters, Air Technical Service Command, as a legal officer engaged in contract termination work.

On January 1, 1946, I resumed my practice and still have one client, The Oswego County Savings Bank, for which I am attorney and a trustee. I am now engaged in rebuilding a bombed-out law practice.

WALTER MUIR WHITEHILL

Occupation: Librarian, Boston Athenæum (after July 1, 1946).

Home Address: Old Berry House, North Andover, Mass. (after July 1, 1946).

Business Address: Boston Athenæum, 10½ Beacon St., Boston, Mass.

Married: Jane Revere Coolidge, June 5, 1930, Cambridge, Mass.

Children: Jane Coolidge, Dec. 2, 1931; Diana, Aug. 1, 1934.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieutenant, Nov. 11, 1942; now on active duty as Commander. Navy Department, Office of Naval Records and Library. Letters of Commendation from Commander in Chief, U. S. Fleet and Chief of Naval Operations, and Chief of Naval Intelligence.

I was Assistant Director of the Peabody Museum, Salem, Mass., from November 1936 until November 1942 when I was granted military leave. Since then I have been on duty at the Office of Naval Records and Library, Navy Department, as assistant to Commodore Dudley W. Knox. I have recently been appointed Librarian of the Boston Athenæum and expect to take over there next July upon completing my work in Washington.

I have continued to be Editor of The American Neptune: A Quarterly Journal of Maritime History, which is now in its sixth year of publication. In 1941 the Oxford University Press published my Spanish Romanesque Architecture of the Eleventh Century, which is the principal product of my travels and residence in Spain from 1927 to 1936. In 1944 another book dating from this period, Liber Sancti Jacobi—Codex Calixtinus (an edition of a twelfth-century Latin manuscript relating to the pilgrimage to Santiago) appeared at Santiago de Compostela. This latter book went to press in 1933 and was all but completed when the Spanish Civil War broke out. Then, as the text was in nationalist territory and the illustrations in Madrid, I doubted if the scattered parts would ever be brought together. But, thanks to faithful Spanish friends, they were, and after eleven years in press the book appeared!

War Service: Army. Entered First Lieutenant, Nov. 7, 1942; terminated First Lieutenant, May 7, 1944. Plant Protection Officer, Internal Security, First Service Command, Hdqtrs. Boston; Post Eng. Office, Ft. Ethan Allen; Post Eng. Office, Ft. Devens.

Five from six—that was “41,” wasn’t it? Well, children, back in those days I was Fire Marshal for the National Fireworks Company’s munition plants. We were busy with British contracts, loading everything up to 6”. Uncle Sam was just getting into the picture and we were expanding by leaps and bounds. For a while we were the principal source of 20 mm. ammunition until our other 20 mm. plants were built. We loaded the incendiary bombs Doolittle dropped on Tokyo. When I left we were experimenting with gasoline jelly.

I was ordered to active duty as a reserve officer (ROTC—Harvard, ’26) and expected I was headed for Ordnance due to my experience in munitions. Instead, I landed in Internal Security. That covered everything from fire protection and safety work to pollution of water supplies and the problems of women in industry, with dim-out and rounding up subversives on the side.

Campaigns? Battles? Ah, yes, the campaign at Peabody and Salem and “the Battle of the Tanneries” when we took over in the name of the Great Jehovah and these United States to end the strike. The campaign bar (unofficial) is a leather strip with a plastic cockroach for each tannery occupied. It was months before I recovered from the calluses on my tail and the back of my heels. Our duties? Raising the flag at sunrise and taking it down at sunset. And that, my children, was how

I (and a lot of other poor bastards) won the war. I should have stood at the Fireworks.

Having been classified initially 4-E, and then 4-F, I can merely report that the war took me from our own small firm into one of the largest Philadelphia law offices, with which we merged all that remained of our outfit, early in 1942. Fifteen months later, however, I gave up my partnership in Messrs. Ballard, Spahr, Andrews & Ingersoll, and have since been practising alone.

To say nothing of the chance to look after my own clients, the great advantage of the move has been that I became at a stroke the master of my own time. It has been devoted more and more to a variety of Boards, Committees, and some chairmanships, while for several months last year, during the session of the General Assembly, I was Assistant Special Counsel on Housing to the Pennsylvania Postwar Planning Commission. All four bills that we drafted ultimately passed, though not, as our collaborator, the new Charles Dyer Norton Professor of Regional Planning, will regret to learn (if he reads his class report), in precisely their original form.

It was a very homeopathic dose of public service, and entirely non-political, but I have since accepted a Division Committeemanship in the Democratic Party, and am at present taking some part in organizing a Citizens P.A.C. in Philadelphia.

War Service: Army (see below).

Private Hargrove's G. I. misadventures were drawing-room incidents compared with mine. In 1942, at the age of 39, I became Private Wilson—32632854—and went, apprehensively, to Fort Eustis, Virginia, to learn the Art of Ack-Ack, because, in 1922, I had for a half year studied calculus. Then my personal hell broke loose. My military career was brief and violent, fraught with incident, with unending absurdities, and with, as I then thought, ultimate misfortune. One day, toward the end of my tenth week of basic training, I leapt lightly over a pole on the obstacle course. I could easily have stepped over the pole; but I had been told to jump and being a good soldier—so I thought—I jumped. My foot struck a small round stone, and my right knee seemed to explode. Three and a half months later I was discharged simultaneously from the Station Hospital and Uncle Sam's Armed Forces, with a bad limp and the sympathetic assurances of the Orthopedic Department that I would limp to my grave. It was a dark day. It was March, 1943. Those few months of G. I. life were ridiculous, illuminating and invaluable. I hope I never forget them.

Despite Army auguries, my knee soon mended under the care of a civilian specialist, and has given not a day of trouble since then. So, being officially decrepit, and, by that time, officially superannuated, I volunteered in June for overseas service with the Red Cross. By August I was on my way to the Pacific as an Assistant Field Director. First there was a brief indoctrination in Australia. Then I was attached to Headquarters, Fifth Air Forces, and went into Nadzab in New Guinea. Red Cross operations there grew to such proportions that in the course of a few months I found myself an Area Director with a staff of some 35 men and women. (No wisecracks, please.) Our unit moved with Fifth Air Force to Owie, near Biak, in the Schouten Group, and from there into Leyte. The job was a large and engrossing one, since we were giving welfare, recreational, and canteen service to about sixty thousand men, whose demands and appetites knew no limits. Supply was my main headache and I can't even pretend to add up the thousands of miles I flew to collect, by fair means when possible and quite frequently by foul, the things I needed to carry on. The Leyte landing and the subsequent show there were a bit on the rough side, so I was glad when in February, 1945, my leave to the States came up. The flight from Tacloban to San Francisco, via Saipan, Guam, and Honolulu, was a fascinating experience. Ten days after reaching home I was smashed up pretty severely in an automobile accident, which made me a semi-invalid for more than six months and necessitated a fairly complete remodeling of my face by plastic surgery. By the time this was done, whistles were tooting for VJ-Day, so I resigned from the Red Cross and went back to my business of industrial design, which had been carried on by my chief assistant during my absence.

It seems somehow wrong to say so, but I must admit I enjoyed most of the war thoroughly. For me it was tonic and rejuvenating. I discovered powers within myself that I never thought possible, and I learned a great deal, I think, about essential human worth. Ridiculous, isn't it, that it should take a World War to teach a guy that sort of thing!

Shortly after Jacqueline was born, we moved from Knickerbocker Village to Great Neck, L. I., and also acquired a little cabin and a half-acre on a hillside in Northport. About the same time, I was retained as attorney for one of 75 defendants in a mail fraud case. The trial lasted seven months before a jury and by the time I succeeded in taking the case up as far as it could go, it was January, 1945. In the meantime, Tommy came along. In April, 1944, I joined the staff of Stanley Clarke, Trustee of Associated Gas and Electric Company in Reorganization, and there, for a while, I helped defend the estate from the attacks of allegedly victimized stockholders who sought vainly to prove they were defrauded. I am presently associated with Gale, Bernays, Falk, Eisner & Nathan, New York City.

DEAN EARL WOOD

Occupation: Lawyer.

Home Address: 4510 Jefferson St., Kansas City, Mo.

Business Address: Howell, Jacobs & Howell, 1115 Commerce Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

War Service: Special trial attorney, District Office of the O.P.A.; for example, Bowles, O.P.A. Administrator vs. Sec.-Con. Home Builders, et al., 62 Fed. Supp. 654 (U.S.D.C. Kansas).

The above service was for the Government in the spring of 1945 prior to taking my present position, June 1, 1945.

March 1, 1945, I found it was a good time to take a step forward, so I left off being an attorney for the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co. for Missouri and Iowa, a position I had held for ten years. The general solicitor and others in the system with whom I had had frequent contact in my work sent me their regrets. My work for them had carried me into just about every phase of transportation law, including the successful presentation of a case, for every railroad operating here, twelve in all, before the Supreme Court of the United States. My present connection is with one of the leading firms of insurance counsel, in this part of the country, in charge of considerable litigation. Two weeks after making this change I undertook filing and prosecution of the largest case of its kind ever filed in this state, under the new rules of civil procedure, involving over 630 defendants residing in 40 counties; the case was filed in the State Court here June 30, and at the present time only 274 defendants remain in opposition.

Relative to my publications, I have taken several fliers into this field. May 1941 my article entitled "The Foreign Policy of the United States" appeared. I received letters of commendation from the Honorable Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, and others. This article is in libraries in nearly every state and in two provinces of Canada. February 1944 my article entitled "The Highway to Tomorrow" devoted to the subject "Out of the past appears the way toward world peace" appeared. This is an analysis of historical trends and their projection into the future. The Honorable Sumner Welles and the Honorable Señor Martins, Ambassador to the United States from Brazil, among others, thanked me for sending them a copy and stated they found it an accurate report and of unusual interest.

I was recently elected President of the Harvard Club of Kansas City. I am also a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society of Kansas City; the Sons of the Revolution, Kansas City Chapter; Kansas City Art Institute; Kansas City Figure Skating Club—all of which I find very interesting. Of course, as a lawyer, I belong to and am devoted to the interests of a number of bar associations including the Kansas City Bar Association and the Lawyers' Association of Kansas City.

Interests other than above stated are world travel and studying conditions from personal observation from the standpoint of the development of a country, and I have spent a good deal of time in Central America and the Caribbean area in vacations. So far I have visited thirty-five countries in Europe, Africa, Asia Minor and North America. Most of these were visited on a Sheldon Traveling Fellowship from the College in 1926-27, but the practice has remained as a sort of hobby and has led me to write the articles mentioned above. Nowadays my profession does not permit me to indulge this hobby, but with the coming of air transportation, I may be able to get around in vacation time.

War Service: Navy. Entered Lieut., June 17, 1942; separated March 5, 1945.

In 1941 buying Government bonds for an insurance company was not a very satisfying occupation.

Accordingly, after several false starts, in March 1942 I was commissioned in the U.S.N.R. as a Lieutenant and assigned to aviation duties beginning with the Quonset indoctrination treatment in June of that year. My Navy career involved recruiting aviation cadets in Michigan, Ohio, New England and Washington; acting as itinerant supervising officer of various New England schools devoted to training; studying navigation and learning to fly a big 65 H.P. cub (strictly extracurricular); and finally a year and a half at Pensacola as executive officer of the Flight Brigade where we had six thousand American and British flight students.

The net result—my wife getting the flying bug. She now has her private license. Spending a couple of evenings each week teaching navigation and meteorology in order to finance this luxury. Believing, after seeing thousands of boys—country boys from Arkansas, city boys from Brooklyn, boys who had never been out of the back woods, and urbane boys with Groton and Princeton backgrounds—that Harvard should make every effort to increase its own leaven by attracting outstanding boys from all sections of this country.

In the spring of 1945, because of the drop in the training program and my advanced years, I was released and am now a reconstructed civilian. My professional duties involve investments and capital and free enterprise (those Victorian concepts). We advise small accounts for good fees. Come and see us some time.

Golf and tennis at the Dedham Country Club and treasurer of a local charity provide outside interest.

As before, I am still in the insurance business, still live on an apple farm, and with the end of the war last summer went back to my favorite hobby: coastwise cruising. During the war, in addition to increased business activity, I was able to put in some twenty-four hours a week as a commissioned officer in the Coast Guard Reserve (T), principally assigned to headquarters Staff and acting as Security Officer in charge of troop and supply ships owned by Allied countries while they were under the jurisdiction of the Captain of the Port of Boston. The Coast Guard Reserve (T) having recently been secured, we have reverted to the Coast Guard Auxiliary, and I have now been attached to headquarters Staff as D.T.O. for the First Naval District. Even looking in my mirror doesn't make me feel that any time has passed, but it is entirely different when I realize that by the 25th Reunion, my oldest will be a college graduate.

From May 5th through February, 1944, I was the Supply and Maintenance Officer for the Ferry Command and the North Atlantic Division of the Air Transport Command. At one time our command stretched from Winnipeg in the west to Prestwick, Scotland, in the east, and the North Pole. In February, 1944, I was transferred to the Azores and was Azores Base Command Supply Officer until my return to the United States in April, 1945, to work for Pan American World Airways as Regional Manager for New England. Since that time I have been sitting at 24 Federal Street hoping that some day soon we will start operations from Boston with planes flying to Europe, India and eventually around the world. IN MEMORIAM · LOST

OBITUARY

REGINALD LANGHORNE BROOKS

IT was a great shock to learn, just a year ago, of the accidental death of Peter Brooks. He had always been called "Pete" or "Peter," a nickname which was the result of his fondness, as a child, for the Peter Rabbit books.

A good deal of his boyhood was spent in England, but he came to Harvard from the Hill School, where he had developed quite a reputation as a "quarter-miler." He kept this up in college and won his Freshman Numerals and later his "H" at track. He and I roomed together for the two and a half years he spent at Harvard. We were and have been ever since the best of friends. As an indication of this, his shirts, socks, and underwear were all marked "Unthoughtfully stolen from R. L. Brooks." I believe I still possess one undershirt so marked!

After leaving Harvard in the middle of his Junior year, in 1925, Peter became a reporter for the Herald-Tribune in New York. Following that, he entered a firm engaged in scientific poultry feeding. By 1928 he had bought his first airplane and from then until the time of his death he moved and lived in aviation circles. He was one of this country's foremost amateur pilots, an expert stunt pilot and teacher. A severe crack-up in the middle '30's did not dampen his ardor and all those who knew him in flying circles (there were few who didn't) loved and respected him.

Peter joined the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve in the early '30's and rose to the rank of Captain before he resigned several years prior to the war. By the time of Pearl Harbor, he was living in Miami, Florida, and all during the war he was active and useful as a ferry pilot instructor.

The world has lost a rare spirit in the death of Peter Brooks. He combined a sensitive understanding of his fellow men with an irrepressible sense of humor, and he was the sort of person that inspired friendships. I miss him terribly, and I know that all who had the privilege of knowing him feel the same way.

EDWARD HOOKER DEWEY

EDWARD HOOKER DEWEY, at the time Professor of English literature and composition at Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida, died suddenly on January 1, 1945, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Dewey, 95 Mt. Vernon Street, Boston. His untimely death shocked his family and many friends, as he had been in the best of health, and was to have been an instructor in English at Simmons College, starting in February of that year. Previously, for the past eight years, Ed had been in charge of the English courses at the Katharine Gibbs School in Boston, and was one of the most popular of Gibbs' instructors.

Ed was born August 23, 1902, in Meadville, Pennsylvania, and prepared for Harvard at Loomis Institute, class of 1922. He had received his M.A. degree in 1928, and was Instructor in English at Harvard until 1936, whence he became associated with the Katharine Gibbs School until the fall of 1944. In addition to this teaching, he had for some years given lecture courses at the Junior League, and was also noted for his courses in public speaking and literature at the General Electric Company plant in Lynn. His wide interests are attested to by his contribution to "Boston and the Boston Legend" by Lucius Beebe, published in 1935, and also by his essays on biographical and historical subjects appearing in the New England Quarterly. He had travelled extensively in Europe before the war, and in later years spent a portion of his vacation in travel through the West.

We shall always remember Ed vividly for his keen interest in the theater, drama and the arts while at college. This abiding interest was one of his real contributions, as his enthusiastic and sensitive interpretation of poetry and drama was voted, year after year, the most popular course in the two-year curriculum at the Gibbs school. Also, as coach for the school dramatic club, and with his inimitable monologues and interpretations, Ed carried on his own active love of the theater.

With the permission of his parents, a portion of a letter to them from Mr. W. Cameron Forbes at Naushon Island reveals another side of his interest and hobbies:

"I had an abiding affection for Ed and was greatly distressed at his loss. His helpfulness in our family plays, his enthusiasm and most flattering appraisal of my family dramas, spurred us on to new efforts, the bringing along of which he always helped. His joy in fishing was infectious and I looked forward to his sending a note, asking to come for a visit which we always arranged with alacrity."

His loss, coming as it did in the middle of his active years of teaching, is indeed felt by the many classmates, students, and associates who knew him, and he will always be remembered as a warm-hearted friend, a charming companion, and a talented teacher.

WILLIAM BUTLER DUNCAN

WILLIAM BUTLER DUNCAN was born in New York City in 1904, the son of William Butler Duncan and Blanca Havemeyer Duncan. A great part of his youth as well as of his later life was spent at Southampton, Long Island. In college he displayed extraordinary literary talent, taste, and discrimination and in later life he continued his interest in literary matters and more fully developed his critical faculty. He did not engage actively in business. He never married. He died in an accident in Chicago in the summer of 1943. Those of us who knew him well in younger days were inspired by his intellectual maturity and his extraordinary interest in and memory of the great literary masters.

JOHN RISON FORDYCE, JR.

JACK FORDYCE was killed May 23, 1943, in the crash of a B-26 Medium Bomber near Montasquieu, not far from Bone, Algeria. At the time of his death he held the rank of Colonel, was the commanding officer of the 320th Bomb Group and had led his group on combat missions against the enemy.

He had first learned flying as a Naval aviator while in college. After training at Squantum and Pensacola, he served for a time as Ensign on active duty with the Naval Reserve at San Diego and elsewhere. Upon his return to Little Rock, Arkansas, he transferred to the 154th Observation Squadron of the Arkansas National Guard, and continued his flying. He entered upon active service with his organization in September 1940, with the rank of 1st Lieutenant. He attended the Army's Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. He received several promotions, reaching the rank of Lieutenant Colonel on September 23, 1942, and became a full Colonel shortly before his death. He was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal with two Oak Leaf Clusters for extraordinary achievement in military operations in the Mediterranean area.

Jack took part in the early landing near Casablanca, French Morocco, on November 8, 1942, and was placed in command of a nearby air base at Cazes. Upon leaving this station in December 1942, the French personnel presented him with an aluminum trophy representing an elephant holding a bombing plane with its trunk, in recognition of their appreciation of his skill and tact in his handling of problems as the first American officer to command a French air base in North Africa.

In civil life he was the head of the insurance firm of Fordyce & Company in Little Rock, Arkansas. Active in public affairs, he was twice elected to the Arkansas state legislature.

He was born December 5, 1903, at Little Rock, Arkansas, the son of John Rison Fordyce and Lillian (Powell) Fordyce. He prepared for college at Phillips Exeter Academy, where he captained the crew. At Harvard he played football at tackle and was awarded an "H" in this sport.

In 1928 he married Helen G. Thompson, at Coronado Beach, California. Several years after her death he married Mary Downs Lander at Little Rock, Arkansas, on February 1, 1936. She survives him, together with four children: Helen Lillian, born December 9, 1928; John Rison, 3d, born March 25, 1931; Mary Hamilton, born October 28, 1936; and Roswell Lander, born June 20, 1939. His mother, Mrs. John Rison Fordyce, of Little Rock, Arkansas, and three brothers are still living: Samuel W. Fordyce, 3d, Harvard '21, of Kansas City, Missouri; C. Powell Fordyce, Harvard '23, and Edward W. Fordyce, Harvard '30, both of St. Louis, Missouri. His cousin, William C. Fordyce, Jr., '26, is a classmate.

Jack was a stalwart fellow. Very much in earnest about everything he tackled, he gave it the best that was in him. Withal, he was modest, unassuming, friendly, and cordial. At the last, he gave all that he had, but not before his efforts were recognized by honors from his own people, and from the people of a foreign nation. His state and nation lost a sound citizen, and Harvard a son of whom she is proud.

CARL RUMSEY HEUSSY

CARL RUMSEY HEUSSY was born on August 24, 1905, in Seattle, Washington. He attended St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H.,

where he was a good athlete and an excellent scholar. He was popular in his class and well liked throughout the School.

Carl spent four years as an undergraduate at Harvard and was particularly proficient at sculling, winning both the Double Sculls Championship and the Single Sculls Championship. He had always loved to sing and was a member of the Freshman Glee Club and later of the 1924 University Glee Club which enjoyed such success in its recitals throughout the country.

After graduation, he attended the University of Washington Law School and received his law degree. From 1934 to 1936 he was a very successful deputy prosecuting attorney in Seattle, and then became a member of the law firm of Bailey & Heussy. This firm devoted a large part of its time to the Automobile Distributors Association of Washington and to other automobile interests in the State.

Carl had always been interested in civic affairs from the time of his activities in Phillips Brooks House of Harvard, and he continued his civic interests in Seattle where he became a popular and respected citizen.

At the outbreak of the war, he enlisted in the State Guard and later became one of the airmen who patrolled the Washington coast by plane. It was during one of these flights that his plane crashed and he and the other members of the crew were killed. He left a widow, the former Loyal Lamont, to whom he was married in November 1927, and a son.

Carl was a rather quiet and retiring fellow and as a result he probably was not known to many members of our class. To those who knew him well, his company was a constant source of pleasure and entertainment. We shall miss him greatly at our Twentieth Reunion, but we are proud to know that he died fighting to defend the country which he loved so well. We salute his memory.

WILLIAM JAMES ISBER

WILLIAM JAMES ISBER was born in London on July 14, 1903. He came to this country in 1904, lived in New York for about ten years, and then his family settled in Boston in 1914. He graduated from the Boston Latin School in 1922, received his A.B. at Harvard in 1926 and his LL.B. from the Harvard Law School in 1929. He then entered the law firm of Friedman, Atherton, King & Turner in Boston, later becoming associated with his brother, Charles J. Isber, of the class of 1920, in the practice of law at 1 State Street, Boston.

He enjoyed sculling, golf, sailing, and tennis and military affairs, having held a commission of Second Lieutenant in the United States Army Reserve. At the outbreak of World War II, while preparing for military service, he was stricken with a rare ailment and was bed-ridden for about a year at the Hotel Bellevue in Boston, during which time he found pleasure in the visits of his Harvard classmates who helped make his last years happy. He was unmarried at the time of his death on February 25, 1942.

JOHN SCOTT KEECH

JACK KEECH volunteered for service in the United States Navy in the spring of 1942. He was commissioned in October and went to Quonset, R. I. He reported to Lakehurst in December and was appointed Personnel Officer, Fleet Airships Atlantic, on the staff of Commodore George Henry Mills. Except for an inspection tour of South American bases in 1944, he was at Lakehurst until he was retired to inactive duty in September, 1945. He was nominated to the rank of Lieutenant Commander in the summer of 1945 but did not take the required physical examination. When he joined the Navy, he went on leave of absence from the law firm of McCanliss & Early, in which he was a partner, and returned to the firm after his Navy service.

His death on December 14, 1945, was caused by cancer of the lung which was not discovered in time to be operable. He is survived by his wife, the former Eileen McMahon, and their three children: John S., Jr., Virginia, and Edward.

ISRAEL KLEIN

ISRAEL KLEIN was born in 1906 in Jersey City, New Jersey. His family subsequently moved to Brockton, Massachusetts, where Israel attended Brockton High School. He was a brilliant student and went through Harvard College on scholarships. At Harvard he was a junior Phi Beta Kappa, majoring in Economics. He received the degree of Master of Business Administration at the Harvard Business School where he took his degree with Distinction.

In 1929 he entered the mercantile field at The Namm Store, Brooklyn, New York, where he was engaged in the Planning and Research department. After two years at Namm's, he was employed at Bloomingdale's Department Store, New York City, as a buyer. In 1933 he left Bloomingdale's to go to the Jones Store, Kansas City, where he was employed as a buyer for a group of main floor departments. He left Kansas City to return to Brooklyn as buyer of Luggage and Radios at Abraham and Straus.

In 1932, he married Dorothy Gilbert, a New York school teacher. A son, Richard, was born in 1936. In his memory his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Klein, have endowed a scholarship at Harvard College. Israel was the brother of Louis Klein, Harvard College 1927.

RICHARD TRIMBLE, JR.

RICHARD TRIMBLE, JR., the son of Cora Randolph and Richard Trimble, '80, was born in New York on February 6, 1904. He prepared for college at St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., where he soon developed an absorbing interest in rowing. In his first year at Harvard he was captain of the freshman crew. His interest in the sport was to last all his life, and he achieved an extraordinary personal relationship with Harvard oarsmen of classes that followed him.

Few in our Class had as many friends as Dick, and none took more trouble for a friend in need than he did. As time went on, men of all ages and in all walks of life were attracted by his rare humor and came to depend on his steadfastness and good judgment.

After leaving college he made a trip around the world with Bohlen, '27, and Harrison, '27, working his way as far as Singapore on one of the cargo ships belonging to the United States Steel Corporation, of which his father, who died in 1924, had long been secretary and treasurer. On his return he went to work for the Stock Exchange firm of Shearson, Hammill & Co., and on June 25, 1930, he married Winifred Loew, of New York City. Their two children, Winifred and Richard, were born on April 12, 1932, and January 31, 1934, respectively. On July 17, 1941, Dick died suddenly at his home in Old Westbury, Long Island, due to a coronary thrombosis. For many years he was actively interested in certain philanthropies in the City of New York, and at his death was a trustee of the Roosevelt Hospital. In 1938 he was elected a life member of the Board of Directors of the New York Eye and Ear Infirmary.

Harvard Class of 1926

The Class has lost one of its most interested and congenial members as well as one who could always be counted on to do more than his share in contributing to the enjoyment of reunions. None of us has had a better friend, a kinder one, or a more generous one than Dick Trimble, and his untimely death leaves a gap which cannot be filled.

HOWARD RUNYAN WARREN

HOWARD WARREN died suddenly on August 10, 1945, of a heart condition at his home in Binghamton, New York. At the time of his death he was Manager of the Binghamton-Elmira District for the New York Telephone Company with whom he had been associated ever since leaving college, serving in Buffalo, Syracuse, and Elmira before going to Binghamton.

He was born July 9, 1904, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Warren of Cincinnati, Ohio, and attended the schools in that city. In his freshman year, Howard captained the class lacrosse team and subsequently played a year on the varsity. His principal interest, however, was the Glee Club and Instrumental Clubs, of which he was a member as he was of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

In addition to his parents, his wife, the former Jane Chapman, whom he married on September 9, 1933, survives him as well as their two children, Peter and Linda.
